PORTLAND, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Oregonian said today that a sub-committee report of the Multnomah Democratic Central committee has charged that destitution relief in Multnomah county is mismanaged and administered by "political partisan antagonists whose management is clearly designed to discredit the national relief and recovery program."

The article said further that the report alleged a design to checkmate a "registration shift to the Democratic party" and that nepotism, favoritism and mismanagement were charged.

The report, which the paper said now is in the hands of John J. Beckman, county Democratic chairman, is to be placed before the county executive committee. It is said to bear the signatures of H. J. Langoe, sub-committee chairman, and secretary of the Multnomah Democratic Central committee; Ashby C. Dickson, state senator; Louise Palmer Weber, and others.

The article said the sub-committee members have made charges that every effort is being made to smother the report, which assertedly strikes just as hard at certain prominent Democrats as it does at certain Republicans.

The Pine Cone Barbecue, north of Medford, will apparently be allowed to continue sale of beer, according to operators of the resort, who state that over 1000 business men of Medford and vicinity have signed a petition asking the state liquor control board not to cancel the license of the place.

Following circulation and submission of a petition some time ago by residents in the neighborhood, the liquor control board had announced that the Pine Cone license would be rescinded in the near future. The second petition has apparently decided the board against such action and the resort continues to draw capacity crowds.
