

IRON-MAN INFIELD GIVEN BIG CREDIT IN TIGER SUCCESS

Cochrane and Rowe Spark Plugs in Pennant-Winning Aggregation—Latter Will Start in Series Opener

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A number of circumstances have combined to lift the Detroit Tigers to the American league peak after a 25-year interval, but the four salient factors contributing to their dramatic pennant victory, as well as to their world series hopes can be listed as speed, batting power concentrated in an iron-man infield, the forceful leadership of Mickey Cochrane and the pitching skill of Schoolboy Rowe.

For speculative purposes you can compare these assets with the pitching, outfield power, defense and shrewd leadership of the Giants by Bill Terry or the all-around driving power, speed and Dean brothers' pitching combination of Frank Frisch's St. Louis Cardinals, and the hot pursuit of the world champions down the National league stretch.

Rowe Unanticipated.

Without either Cochrane or Rowe, it is safe to say Detroit would have been lucky to land a place in the first division. As a matter of fact the Tigers were picked in the pre-season consensus to finish no better than fourth, but at that time it would have taken rare imagination, as well as prophetic vision, to have anticipated Rowe would win 24 or more games, including 16 in succession to tie the league record.

Rowe's heroic pitching in his first full big league year has won him Cochrane's designation as the starting Tiger slinger in the opening game of the world series, October 3, at Max Baer's Detroit. The young giant from El Dorado, Ark., will likely be pitted against Carl Hubbell, ace southpaw of the Giants and one of the greatest "money pitchers" the game has developed in modern times. Should the Cardinals overtake the Giants, undoubtedly Rowe would find himself arrayed against Jerome (Dizzy) Dean. Any way he may look at it, it's the toughest kind of an assignment for a newcomer to world series fire and furore, but they say in Detroit the Schoolboy doesn't know what nervousness means.

For the Tigers, Cochrane's pitching rotation probably will consist of Rowe, Al Crowder, Tommy Bridges and Rowe, with Pippo Marberry, Elden Auker and the others to do any necessary mop-up. Crowder, free from the heavy burden he carried in 1933, has made a fine comeback, since being discarded by the Senators.

Dean for Cardinals.

It will be "Dean, Dean, Dean"—a la Kipling—if the Cardinals carry the National league banner into the world series, whereas "Big Four" of the Giants probably would be asked to work in this order: Hubbell, Hal Schumacher, Roy Parmelee and Fred Fitzsimmons. The way Parmelee has been performing in the "clutches" recently, pulling the Giants back repeatedly from the brink, it will not be surprising to see the former Columbus speed-ball pitcher get a big share of world series work. Last year Parmelee was considered too risky a proposition, from the standpoint of his wildness, to be started in the world series.

Parmelee, after having his appendix removed, did not return to steady work until July. Since then he has been the most consistent winner on the New York staff and won more of the crucial games than any other member of Terry's staff. Terry has given no indication of a change in his plan to start Hubbell, but if he made a switch the probability is Parmelee would get the first-game call.

SPEEDING CARDS WITHIN GAME OF LEADING GIANTS

By the Associated Press

The margin of a single game—representing two victories by the Giants and two games which the Cardinals have not yet played—separated the National league pennant contenders today as they fought through a thrilling home stretch duel.

The Cards split the difference right down the middle yesterday when they drove through to a 3 to 2 victory over Pittsburgh behind the eminent Jerome Hefman (Dizzy) Dean while the Giants were suffering a 4-0 shutout from the Phillies, getting only four hits off young Curtis Davis.

The result put the Cards very much into the running again. Each has lost 57 games so far with 93 victories for the Giants and 91 for the Cards. St. Louis has five games left to play against New York's three. If both should sweep their remaining outcasts it would be a tie, and one defeat for either team before next Sunday may decide the struggle. In case of a deadlock the teams would have to play a special series.

The senior member of the Dean pitching firm limited the Pirates to six blows and it took a ninth inning homer by Arky Vaughan to rob him of a shutout for his season's 28th victory.

FIGHTERS FROM 7 CCC CAMPS ON ELKS' RING CARD

Fighters from six camps of the Medford CCC district and one from a Redding district camp will weigh in at the district surgeon's office here Thursday afternoon in preparation for their Elks' club battles Thursday night.

Leif Hjalmer T. Gentie, of the headquarters staff, has been appointed attending surgeon for the card. He will examine the fighters in the afternoon and they will be weighed in to assure well-matched bouts.

LeRoy Smith, 155 pound colored flash from Wineglass, and Rudy Leszar, 154-pound star from South Fork, will top the card in their four-round main event. Both boys are undefeated in CCC competition thus far and are anxious for a victory.

Walter Szumanski, 133, South Fork, will meet R. O. Johnson, 153, from Camp Applegate. Szumanski and Leszar are boxing partners at South Fork and each has agreed to win his fight.

Freddie Bologna, 133, of Oak Knoll, will meet Mike Roundtree, 133, of Callahan camp in the Redding district. Roundtree is being imported to furnish competition for the scrappy Bologna, who has been a consistent winner among the camps of the Yreka area.

"Cain" Abel, 151, Hill, will meet Maxie Rogers, 134, Oak Knoll, in one of the other feature fights. Porto Thompson, 148, Oak Knoll, will meet Zack Moore, 144, Indian Creek, and Jim Sekoek, 125, Hill, will meet Pee Wee Fernandez, 121, Oak Knoll.

RAINBOW VICTORY LEAVES SOPWITH IN BITTER MOOD

British Skipper Says Will Not Challenge Again—Controversy Rolls Along Shores of Two Countries

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Battered old America's cup can go back to rest securely today in Tiffany's jewelry vaults on Fifth Avenue, New York, though the reverberations and the bitterness of the Rainbow's victory probably will roll up and down the shores on both sides of the Atlantic for months to come.

Vowing that he never again would challenge for the hallowed trophy, a thoroughly angry English millionaire, Thomas Ostave Murdoch Sopwith, packed his duffel and stowed his protests, and prepared to get out of here as rapidly as possible, leaving behind him his splendid blue bodied challenger, Endeavour, and a controversy as bitter, if not as explosive, as Lord Dunsraven's battling bluff of 1893.

Sorry Ending.

The brilliant spectacle the yacht had come to a sorry end last night when Sopwith automatically wound up his challenge by withdrawing the protest he made of Rainbow's fourth and deciding victory, a protest entered chiefly in self-defense.

Harold S. Mike Vanderbilt skipper of the defender, had protested the race first, but there was no point in the race committee solemnly debating whether they'd give Vanderbilt a decision he had already won by the margin of 55 seconds, so the matter was dropped.

Sopwith Specific.

Vanderbilt would only admit afterward that his protest had something to do with the start, but Sopwith was more specific.

"He protested," the Englishman said heatedly, "because he knew I had grounds for a protest and he wanted to get his in first. Having won the start, and having been beaten fairly in the race, I decided not to go ahead with my protest, although it was for precisely the same reason as Saturday."

"Furthermore, I definitely will not challenge again for the cup."

Here you see the smiling Helen comparing a 1934 type niblick with a weapon that was known as a niblick by brae brawny Scots in 1790, on the extreme right. In her lap are, left to right, a driver, of the vintage of 1875; an 1805 model cleek; a track iron used for playing balls out of water ruts in 1798, and a water iron that was popular in 1897.

D. S. C. POINTS FOR S. F. UNIVERSITY

CORVALLIS, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The Oregon State college football squad, pointing toward its game against San Francisco University here Friday, has been warned to look out for Mike Baccharini.

"I didn't see Baccharini in action, but everybody tells me he can't be stopped," cautioned line coach and scout Jim Dixon who returned from the bay region. "He can do everything but swallow the ball."

Bill Jessep, end, is the only Orangeman on the injured list and he will be ready to play against San Francisco.

Returns From Portland—Marie Oterdale of 845 Dakota, who has been receiving treatment at St. Vincent's hospital for the past four weeks, returned to Medford Tuesday evening.

FIRST TIGER TEST COMES SATURDAY WITH SONS FROSH

The Medford high school team will face the Southern Oregon Normal school frosh squad, at Van Scoyoc field next Saturday in the first game of the season in this city. It will be a good practice test for the Burgermelsters, as the foe is as big and as rough as the locals. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

The Medford squad, according to Coach Burgher, has everything but a quarterback, and is looking for a fast-thinking, fast-thinking lad who can function in that important post. Ghelardi, Brown or Joe Pierce may get the job. Other prospects are R. Lewis and Bayliss. The last two are light and inexperienced. The other Lewis boy, Ghelardi and Bill Bates, will probably be the starting backfield for Saturday's tilt.

The Medford line this season will average about 170 pounds, one of the heaviest high school lines in the state. The high school schedule for the coming season has been completed, and is as follows:

October 6—Roseburg at Medford.
October 13—Eureka, Calif., at Eureka (night game).
October 20—Marshfield at Marshfield.
October 27—Klamath Falls at Medford.
November 3—Ashland at Medford.
November 12—Chemawa Indians at Medford.
November 17—Grants Pass at Medford.

Under the schedule, Medford plays its three southern Oregon conference rivals, Klamath Falls, Grants Pass and Ashland on the home field, on Saturdays, and the Chemawa Indians, always a popular team in this city on Armistice Day.

ASSOCIATED OIL GRID SKED READY

Medford football fans can get their 1934 edition of the Associated Oil Company's football schedule as all Smiling Associated Dealers beginning today. It is announced by Carol Hayes, local Associated agent.

The new 32-page, vest pocket booklet contains the schedule and individual dope on all conference and leading independent teams of the Pacific coast. A feature of particular local interest is the season schedule of University of Oregon.

Another feature of the Associated schedule is a series of illuminating articles on 1934 rules and officiating duties by Herb Dana, commissioner of officials for the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. A chart shows the position of the officials on the field, in addition to illustrations and explanations of the referee's signals.

Among the contents can be found a handy three-way schedule, in which games are listed by dates, by conference, and by stadium; a list of all Western All-Americans from 1921 to 1933; inside dope on the stars; all of last year's scores; and information on frosh and inter-sectional games. There is considerable space devoted to coaches of conference and leading independent teams, with discussion of the system of play used by each school.

SATURDAY FINAL REGISTERING DAY

Saturday, October 6 is final day for registration of voters and unless more of a rush develops than has been experienced, a great many residents of Jackson county are due for disappointment when they ask for a ballot for the general election.

Persons who have not voted for two years, who have moved from their precinct, or are new arrivals in the state or county, are required to be registered. The Oregon election laws prohibit swearing in of voters on election day.

All citizens who are not registered, are urged to do so, by party leaders, civic workers and county officials.

Wolgamoit Adds More Acreage To Peach Orchards

With the obtaining of other peach orchards near his present holdings, Vance K. Wolgamoit will have the largest peach orchard in the valley under one control. Mr. Wolgamoit believes there is a future in peaches and stated that over a period of years it has been his idea that they would be a better crop than the pears that have made the Rogue River valley so famous.

Mr. Wolgamoit reports the purchase of a new Allis-Chalmers crawler type tractor to aid in the cultivation of his orchards the coming season. This is the first of this make of tractor for orchard work to be sold here. It is equipped to burn the low grade fuel that is far cheaper than the present price of gasoline. Much interest is being taken in this new tractor here, both by the farmers and by the orchard men, as it is new in this country, though it has been sold for some time in the California territory.

Marian Gordon

By JEANNE BOWMAN

"You look stunning," Anne told Marian. "But take a few tips from this Silver friend of yours. Lon's the kind of a fellow every woman's bound to make a try for..."

And so it was. There was Marian—"too honorable . . . too practical"—everybody said—and there was Silver. And both with Lon on their minds . . .

JEANNE BOWMAN's previous serial showed a woman bravely fighting against great odds—and winning. Marian Gordon is as plucky as Judith. Before the threads of this new story are untangled and smoothed out in a startlingly dramatic conclusion, she has some good detective work to her credit—plus the other things for which she has been striving.

It's a swiftly paced story from beginning to end—the kind JEANNE BOWMAN writes, the kind you'll like.
