

EXTENSION COURSE WILL BE STARTED TUESDAY EVENING

Extension courses are to be given this winter at the Medford senior high school, starting this coming week, it has been announced. Miss Ady will be instructor in the art course and Dr. Arthur Taylor will be in charge of the contemporary English novel. Both are instructors in the Southern Oregon Normal.

Miss Ady will teach either industrial art for beginners, or drawing for beginners, the course to be selected at the meeting Tuesday evening, October 2, at 7:15 o'clock.

The industrial art for beginners is a course which includes work with stencil, batik, block print, toy-making and which is designed for those teachers and home makers who feel the need for more background.

Drawing for beginners includes drawing from costume models, a portrait of some member of the group or of a model provided by the student, quick-brush sketches of animals, a caricature and an original still-life.

Dr. Taylor will teach the contemporary English novel, the course involving some preliminary study of background material through a few suggestive books and later an intensive study of several novels of modern England.

Those completing the course are given 1 1/2-hour extension credits with the University of Oregon.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP) Stocks backed and filled hesitantly in another dull trading market today. A rally in the recently depressed metal group apparently was unable to revive bullish enthusiasm for the rest of the list. At the same time there was no pronounced bearish sentiment in evidence. The close was rather heavy. Transfers approximated 50,000 shares.

Today's closing prices for 32 selected stocks follow:

QUINTUPLETS SPOILED; DOCTOR STOPS PETTING

CALLANDER, Ont., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Four months old today, the famous Dionne quintuplets are becoming "spoiled," and Dr. A. R. Dufco says the petting of the amazing little sisters must stop. At the same time he declared all are immeasurably better fortified in the race for life than they were one month ago.

Since their birth last May 28, there have been setbacks and times of worry—and there may be more to come—but the energetic middle-aged physician was proud today as he looked back over the successful struggle.

"Their worst time," he said, as he prepared to leave for the new little hospital where the babies were moved less than two weeks ago, "was the period immediately after their birth. Their lack of vitality and the poor surroundings, with few if any conveniences to meet the emergency, gave little hope that all would survive. It was remarkable the way they got along." Constant care and attention had its early effect. Under a capable nursing staff, with the addition of more and more comforts and necessities, the babies began to thrive. Then came days when one or the other was not well. Little Marie, the smallest, suffered most of the five from jaundice. Later, a growth on her thigh was definitely diagnosed as a tumor, and radium treatment was applied by world-renowned specialists. Dr. Dufco said the tumor now appears "dead."

Then came a trying experience as one after the other of the little sisters suffered from intestinal toxemia. Today they are safely through this trying time, said Dr. Dufco.

"They have had so much attention throughout their sickness, the little scamps are getting spoiled," said the physician today.

TARZAN COWS FIERY LUPE IN FUSS OVER TAXICABS

NEWARK, N. Y., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Tarzan asserted his dominance over his mate at Newark airport today. Johnny Weismuller, Tarzan of the screen, and his sharp-tongued wife, Lupe Velez, arrived aboard a transport plane from the west coast. They appeared to be amiably disposed toward each other as they alighted.

Lupe walked over to a yellow cab and deposited her belongings. Johnny walked to a red cab with his things.

Then the battle started. "Get in this cab!" shouted Johnny. "No!" said Lupe, stamping her foot. "You come to these ones!"

"I said get—in—this—cab!" countered the big strong man of the Hollywood jungles.

"You go to hell!" shouted Lupe. Johnny turned and entered the red cab. Lupe hesitated. She started to get into the yellow cab. Then she reached in, removed her things, and walked fuming to her husband's cab. They sat staring straight ahead as the car pulled out for Manhattan.

Johnny apparently was so upset by the incident that he left his polo coat as the airport.

An attendant who witnessed the argument grinned broadly as the cab, red, disappeared.

"It looks like," he said, "that Lupe can't take it anymore."

Lupe, some months ago, said she believes that frequent fights have a salutary effect in marriage.

Simple Courtesy Would Save Many Traffic Mishaps

SALEM, Ore., Sept. 28.—(UP)—An analysis of traffic accident causes completed by the state department showed tonight that simple courtesy on the part of motorists would have averted 266 accidents on Oregon highways during August.

Among this class of accidents were infractions such as driving on the wrong side of the road, failure to yield right of way, cutting in, passing standing street cars, passing on a curve or on the wrong side, failure to signal and falling to stop at arterials.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Chairman Jones of the Reconstruction Corporation announced today the RFC was ready to help rebuild the mortgage loan market by purchasing preferred stock and capital notes in trust companies specializing in such loans and by encouraging the organization of trust companies that would engage especially in this business.

Leaves Hospital—Mrs. Lucia Spydell of San Francisco left the Community hospital today for her home in the south. She was injured in an automobile accident here last week.
