"Old Oregon" under the guidance of Prestige O. Callison played like a Medford High school team Sat. and walloped the Uclans 26 to 3.

Hunters are receiving compliments for not shooting each other for deer. No prairie is bestowed on wives, who wouldn't let the hunters go hunting.

Quite a number of Jackson County haters of Herbert Hoover, plan to buy a book he has written just for the fun of tearing it up.

The local excitement over the rot races in Bill Aitken, the plumber, has subsided.

Pioneers of the valley will meet next Thurs. to re-fight several battles with the Indians, and eat fried chicken.

V. Van Dyke, the mighty hunter who was lost in the tall timber, is recovering rapidly, and is even now strong enough to face the wisecracks of his boss and many friends.

The work of reviving the Republican party here got underway last week, and resulted in Republicans showing up unexpectedly and without notice.

The Floyd Hart boy depoted Wed. to see the north-bound choo-choo come in. The Bob Hart kid was also present. Both were agog over the locomotive.

The government is getting ready to pay valley farmers for hogs they did not raise.

Reports are current that a mine has been discovered west of Jewell, that will make the owners so rich, they will not care about the Old Age pension, if they don't get another mine.

Many of the duds of these parts are wearing new fall suits with ticks in the back. Among such are Atty G. Robts, H. Fleyher, Young Bob Hammond, and the ebullient Bill Bolger.

John Mann is celebrating 24 years of thick and thin, good and bad, and what have you. During this period his faith in the future, the city, the Rogue River valley, baseball, and the Democratic party have never weakened.

President Hoover's Book

A READING of ex-President Hoover's book "A Challenge to Liberty" gives quite a different impression than his articles in the Saturday Evening Post.

One also received the impression from the articles that President Hoover was unalterably opposed to both the letter and the spirit of the New Deal.

In fact reading between the lines of "A Challenge to Liberty", our conclusion is that President Roosevelt and his predecessor stand ALMOST on common ground.

When it comes to a fairer and more equitable distribution of wealth for example, President Hoover obviously favors the legislative curbing of unregulated exploitation and greed.

On the question of relief, President Hoover agrees that no one in this country should go without food and shelter.

WHERE is the difference then between President Hoover's political philosophy and the philosophy of President Roosevelt?

The difference, we think, lies principally in method—the two presidents look toward a common goal, but they would reach that goal by different routes.

AN important point which it seems to us, President Hoover overlooks in his book, is the question of the permanence of the New Deal.

THIS book has another feature which the Post articles lacked. It has a depth of feeling, an earnestness and sincerity, which gives it a note of almost religious intensity.

Yet there is no personal animus in the book, no suggestion of partisan appeal, the former president isn't talking to Democrats or Republicans.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene not to disease diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

There are many medicines I'd rather take than beer, wine or liquor for the flavor.

limited quantity of alcohol in a day. It is impossible to say precisely how much, but probably little over 14 or 15 ounces.

Alcoholic beverages have their proper place in scientific therapeutics. Throughout the years I have practiced as an advocate of temperance, a personal teetotaler and a voter for prohibition at every opportunity.

A daily ration of beer or wine or liquor is sometimes a most beneficial thing in the home where an elderly, enfeebled and hence somewhat cantankerous person must live and be lived with.

When Dr. Oster prescribed such a ration for his elderly mother the good woman was at first reluctant to start taking wine.

I mean over 65 years of age. I still insist there is no good excuse for younger folk indulging in such beverages.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
The Blood Flow
Like to know the amount of blood that passes through the heart per minute.

Answers—From 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 ounces of blood pumped at each beat, and if we multiply that by the number of beats per minute, we find that from 10 to 15 pounds of pints of blood pass through the heart each minute.

Varicose Veins
Mother, sister and I all have varicose veins, though mother alone really suffers.

Crooked Teeth
Aged 22 years, have very irregular teeth. My dentist advises straightening, but some friends I know had it done and lost several good teeth.

It is singular also that retail business is doing very well, much better than seasonal.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 28.—Industry is doing nothing worth talking about, but business generally is better than you think.

That paradox is disclosed and explained by the key figures which President Roosevelt receives each month to enable him to keep track of the changing economic situation.

These figures show that the larger manufacturers had better hold some more secret meetings like the recent one of the durable goods committee.

The answer to that, of course, is the fact that the government is doling out cash in more substantial quantities.

In fact, the government is largely responsible even for holding up industrial production.

It appears that the government has passed the point of merely priming the business pump and is now actually pumping with vigor.

You can reach your own conclusions about things from the following monthly chart.
