

ROOSEVELT ASKS MEDIATION TRIAL IN INDUSTRY WAR

that broader definition of liberty under which we are moving forward to greater freedom, to greater security for the average man than he has ever known before in the history of America.

As for the industrial armistice, the president said:

"From those willing to join in establishing this hope-for period of peace, I shall seek assurance of the making and maintenance of agreements, which can be mutually relied upon, under which wages, hours and working conditions may be determined and any later adjustments shall be made either by agreement or, in case of disagreement, through the mediation or arbitration of state or federal agencies."

Asks Fair Trial
He said he would not ask either employers or employees "permanently to lay aside the weapons common to industrial war," but he will request them to give a "fair trial" to peaceful methods.

Of NRA, the president declared that "substantial gains have been made under it. As it moves into its second phase, he said, it will be modified where necessary. Congress will be asked to make permanent NRA functions which have proved their worth."

He said there may be serious question of the wisdom of many devices for control of prices or production.

On the unemployment question, Mr. Roosevelt said he would "stand or fall by my refusal to accept as a necessary condition of our future a permanent army of unemployed."

"To those who say that our expenditures for public works and other means for recovery are a waste that we cannot afford," he said, "I answer that no country, however rich, can afford the waste of its human resources."

Critics Chided
He chided those critics who "complain that all we have done is unnecessary and subject to great risks."

"Now that these people are coming out of their storm cellars, they forget that there ever was a storm," he said. "They would have you believe that England made progress out of her depression by a do-nothing policy, by letting nature take her course."

"Did England let nature take her course? No. Did England hold to the gold standard when her reserves were threatened? No. Has England gone back to the gold standard today? No. Did England hesitate to call in ten billion dollars of her war bonds bearing 5 per cent interest, to issue new bonds therefor bearing only 3 1/2 per cent interest, thereby saving the British treasury $150,000,000 a year in interest alone? No."

British Bankers Helped
"And let it be recorded that the British bankers helped," he added. "The executive also struck at those who object to some New Deal steps as unconstitutional."

"We are not frightened by reactionary lawyers or political editors," he said. "All of these cries have been heard before."

He said the administration has avoided the theory that "business should and must be taken over into an all-embracing government" and also the "equally untenable theory that it is an interference with liberty to offer reasonable help when private enterprise is in need of help."

After declaring changes would be made in NRA as needed, the president said the recovery act had given business men the opportunity they had sought for years to improve conditions through self-government. He indicated that if codes have gone too far in such matters as price-fixing and limitation of production, trade and industry should bear part of the blame because they were permitted to write their ideas into the codes.

Time For Review
"It is now time to review these actions as a whole," he said, "to determine through deliberative means in the light of experience, from the

STANDPOINT OF THE GOOD OF THE INDUSTRIES THEMSELVES, AS WELL AS THE GENERAL PUBLIC INTEREST, WHETHER THE METHODS AND POLICIES ADOPTED IN THE EMERGENCY HAVE BEEN BEST CALCULATED TO PROMOTE INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY AND A PERMANENT IMPROVEMENT OF BUSINESS AND LABOR CONDITIONS.

There may be serious question as to whether in fixing minimum wages on the basis of an hourly or weekly wage we have reached into the heart of the problem which is to provide each worker with the minimum needed.

"Another question arises as to whether in fixing minimum wages on the basis of an hourly or weekly wage we have reached into the heart of the problem which is to provide each worker with the minimum needed."

"We also question the wisdom of extending code requirements suited to the great industrial centers and to large employers, to the great number of small employers in the smaller communities."

WILLIAM SMITH TO FINAL REST

William Henry Smith passed away at his home on Ross Lane at an early hour Sunday morning, after an illness covering the past two years. Mr. Smith was born in Illinois, December 12, 1849, and came to southern Oregon in 1917, living most of the time near Beagle. He was a member of the Church of Christ, and had acquired many friends who will mourn his passing.

He leaves four sons, Fred Smith of Central Point; Tom Smith and Charles Smith of Medford; Henry Smith of Washington; three daughters, Mrs. Clyde Mose of route 2, Medford; Mrs. Albert Bigham of Eagle Point; and Mrs. J. D. Blackman of Rogue River; also 18 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services, under direction of the Peril Funeral Home, were held at the Antioch cemetery this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Earl McKay of the Church of Christ officiating.

GROWERS URGED REPORT CHISELING

J. H. Hunt of Portland, who represents the Oregon-Washington marketing agreement, is in Medford for a week or ten days, and stated today that tomato and melon growers who have had to sell their produce to growers and peddlers at reduced prices are to get in touch with him. Growers are requested to give him information on the case, and Mr. Hunt stated that he will not hold the growers, but will prosecute the dealers. Questionnaires for the growers will be given to them by Mr. Hunt who has copies at the Holland hotel. Those sending in their names and addresses, may also receive the questionnaires by mail.

SOUL INSURANCE NEEDED BY MANY WARNS MINISTER

Fred M. Weatherford, pastor evangelist of the Church of the Nazarene, spoke last night from the topic "Reserving the Assignments." In part he said:

"I want to talk to you about three appointments tonight: Some people have accused God of being unjust in His judgments. I am certain this comes from a lack of knowledge, for God's first thought in behalf of man is an appointment of salvation for him, as revealed in I Thess. 5:9 'For God hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ.'"

"God's first concern for us is our appointment to salvation. Necessarily if we miss His best for us we must receive the judgments that subsequently follow."

"Most folk carry life insurance and this is commendable foresight in the interests of dependents, but how many have had their souls insured? This matter should receive prior attention since our action in this regard determines our eternal rewards or retribution."

"There is another appointment certain, which is death. It may be premature and we have observed that it is impartial. It may also be sudden. We observed only recently of the great typhoon in Japan that swept about 1300 souls to sudden death; also the sudden disaster on the high seas where more than 130 went to a watery grave."

"Preparation for the transition of life should be the most commanding feature in the span of life. Its uncertainty as well as its certainty should impel action."

"There is the final appointment to a day of judgment. God's judgments are not all reserved to that day when rewards and punishments are meted out, for marks of His displeasure are achieved in time. The student of biblical history well knows that our current economic distress has its source the heavy hand of Omnipotence. Our people have forgotten in a large measure, the moral and spiritual code adopted by our ancestors who came to America on the Mayflower. God's judgments have always been coincident when the people have disregarded and forsaken His sacred laws. God can never smile upon that movement that turned the liquor murder-mills loose for revenue."

"A new economic day will dawn when America and the world set out for a new moral and spiritual reformation."

ONLY FIVE COUNTIES OWE FIRST HALF TAX

SALFORD, Oct. 1.—(AP)—All but five counties have paid third quarter taxes, but it was expected several of these would submit payments during today, the last day for such reports to the state treasurer.

Three counties sent in their shares today as follows: Baker $14,625, Linn $24,147, and Hood River $7,172.

RECREATION CLUB MEETING SLATED

The Jackson County Recreation club will meet Wednesday, October 3, at 8 p. m. in the courthouse auditorium.

The meeting will be a rally for old members and the new leaders which were appointed last month by the Granges and home extension units of the county.

The leaders will be organized into groups according to their interests in music, games, dramatics and folk dances. Goals and plans for the year will be discussed. A social program which may be adopted in Gange and community activities will be the feature of the evening.

All recreation club members are urged to attend that the rally may be a successful beginning of the year's work.

HUNTERS DISCOVER MISSING AVIATOR IN BURNED PLANE

serial surveys of thousands of acres of wild terrain in an effort to obtain at least a slight of the plane's silver fuselage, and numerous ground searches ran down every rumor — without uncovering a trace of the missing flier.

Yesterday, three deer hunters—Sam Gray, H. S. Harper and J. C. Wallace, all of Colton, discussed Young's fate as they started into the woods. A few hours later they came upon the plane, one tattered wing still hanging from a limb, the rest of the ship burned and Young's skeleton wedged between a tree and the corroded motor.

Will Get Reward.
Identification was made through numbers on the unburned wing, where the three hunters also wrote their names, to support their claim to the $500 reward offered to the finders.

They reported their find to a state trooper in the district, and the coroner of Clackamas county made arrangements to go to the spot today. He will be accompanied by photographers, newspaper men and state troopers on the trip, which the hunters said would require a long hike through rough country. John M. Young, the flier's father, who has conducted an almost continuous search since his son disappeared, said last night he could not accompany the coroner.

Walla Walla. Oct. 1.—(AP)—Stanley E. Dean, founder of an abstract company here in 1886, died suddenly early today. He came west in 1887 from St. Paul to Pendleton, Ore., where he assisted in building an abstract plant. Two years later he moved to Walla Walla and since lived, managed a company, with two sons, at the time of his death.

A Strange Flower—At the Chamber of Commerce today is displayed a marigold that had gone to seed, and extending from the center of the original blossom were a series of small flowers, in bloom.

BAR EXTRADITION IVAN POWDERJOY

VIENNA, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Austria with "regrets" declined today the demand of the United States government for the extradition of Captain Ivan Powderjey, husband of Agnes Tutverson, Detroit and New York woman who has been missing since January.

Under the extradition treaty between the two governments, it was pointed out, perjury does not constitute an extraditable offense.

Powderjey, a Yugoslavian, therefore will be free and the fate of Miss Tutverson will remain as much a mystery as ever.

Austrian authorities also notified Washington that Susanne Ferrand, with whom Powderjey lived in Vienna, will be released from jail if no demand was made for her extradition. She had been held in connection with the case.

AFTER EXCITEMENT AND STRAIN...

Get a LIFT with a Camel!

RAILROAD HISTORY entered a new phase as the Burlington's "Zephyr" flashed across the Great Plains from Denver to Chicago in 13 hours and 5 minutes—1015 miles in 785 minutes—to set a whole flock of new records! Jack Ford was at the throttle. Below he tells what the long, nonstop trip felt like, and what Camels meant to him after it was over.

SPORTSWOMAN PILOT. Mrs. Cecil Kenyon says: "Camels are the middest cigarette I know. Morning, noon, and night I can smoke them steadily—without a touch of upset nerves."

COLLEGE STUDENT. "Camels never upset my nerves," says John Birgel. "When mental fatigue sets in, I just smoke another Camel and soon have the energy to concentrate again."

A PLEASURE that drives away fatigue and listlessness!

Jack Ford, crack Burlington engineer, says: "When the 'Zephyr' rolled to a stop at Chicago, I'd been through a lot of excitement and strain and felt pretty much used up. But a Camel quickly gave me a 'lift' and I felt O.K."

"Most railroad engineers prefer Camels. And Camels help to increase their energy when they feel worn out. I've smoked a lot of Camels in my time, and that goes for me—all the way."

Everyone is subject to strain—whether physical, mental, or emotional. So it's important to know that Camels do release your stored-up energy.

The findings of a famous scientific laboratory have confirmed Camel's "energizing effect." So begin today to enjoy Camels often! For the costlier tobaccos in Camels never affect the nerves.

LEAF-TOBACCO EXPERTS AGREE: "Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."
