KLAMATH SPORTS DEMAND PROBING HYATT FISH LOSS

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Oct. 3.—(Special.)—Wrathfully indignant because the state game commission permitted the loss of thousands of fish at Hyatt lake after halting Klamath's efforts to rescue them, the Klamath Sportsmen's association Monday evening passed a resolution asking Governor Meier to appoint a special investigating committee and then wired the commission demanding that it take immediate action to remove the remainder of the Hyatt lake fish to fresh water at its expense.

The wire also asked that Klamath sportsmen be sent a copy of the official report turned in to the commission by Ralph Cowgill following an investigation of the fish tragedy.

Immediate action on removal of the remainder of the fish was requested following a report of a committee of Klamath sportsmen who investigated the Hyatt lake conditions Monday.

"We noticed numerous catfish which have died during the past few days and water too polluted for them to live in is certainly not fit for trout." Vic Palmer, chairman of the investigating committee reported.

Palmer stated that recent rains reported at the lake have raised the water level not more than five inches and that the millions of dead fish in the warm shallow water have turned the lake into a slimy pool unfit for the thousands of live fish that still remain.

"Should the warm weather continue for a few weeks the rest of those fish in Hyatt lake will die," he stated.

Believing that possible jealousy and incompetence interfered with saving the fish before the lake was drained to a level where millions were left high and dry to die, caused the request for an investigation from Governor Meier.

The sportsmen considered asking that all members of the fish and game commission be relieved of their positions after letters were read from other sportsmen's associations over the state promising support for such a movement.

However, the association believed blame for the Hyatt lake tragedy could not be placed against the commission as a body and asked for the investigation.

The resolution asked that "a thorough investigation be conducted by a special representative of the governor's office, that hearings be held, witnesses called and testimony taken to fix the responsibility of this disaster and that proper corrective measures be taken to prevent future loss of fish life in Hyatt lake."

G. PASS BASEBALL TEAM DISBANDED

GRANTS PASS, Oct. 3.—(Spl.)—The Grants Pass Merchants have disbanded for the 1934 season.

After winning the southern Oregon title and defeating the Medford Rogues for the sixth time when that club made a last try at the Merchants standing, the Merchants will not carry on their attempt to "collect" the state title.

The order to disband was issued Tuesday by Fred Roper, business manager for the club, when he received a telegram from the Blitz-Weinhard "Beer Barons" of Portland that showed it is impossible to play that team.

Don Galbreath, manager of the Barons, explained that a game with Grants Pass would not draw a crowd in Portland and offered to bring his team here for $250 for a single game or $300 for a double header. The Merchants' management declared that this price is out of reason. The local club had offered to go to Portland for $100.

REED PINS ELLIOT WHEN SPIN FAILS

SALEM, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Robin Reed captured the odd fall and match from Harry Elliott in the headline attraction on last night's wrestling card here, when the second of two airplane spins applied by Elliott went wrong and Reed gained the advantage.

Robert Myers, Great Falls, subdued Bulldog Jackson in two out of three falls, with the aid of Referee Pat Regan. Jackson had tried to make life miserable for Regan throughout the match, and the arbiter retaliated by putting Jackson on the floor with a swing to the jaw, where Myers fell on him for the final fall.

The capacity crowd was treated to some real wrestling in the 30-minute opening bout between Pascual Castillo, Spain, and Antone Le Blanc, France, which ended in a draw after each had taken a fall.

Faces 235-Pound Texan

BONNY MUIR, 200, Australian heavyweight champion, will face a man-monster when he opens hostilities with giant Rube Wright, 235-pound Texan, in the main event of Thursday night's wrestling card at the Armory. Muir, who delights in bone-crunching, scientific holds, is pointed to furnish most of the highlights of the three-bout show. Two wrestlers new to the Medford mat will feature the semi-final, in which Cliff Thiede, 205, Long Beach, Cal., life guard, tangles with Matros Karlinke, 220-pound Cossack. Sergeant Bob Kenaston, Gold Hill marine, will meet Jim Heslin, 200, of Spokane, in the 30-minute curtain raiser.

GRIDIRON GLEANINGS

(By the Associated Press.)

PALO ALTO — Because reserve strength at Stanford is none too good, scrimmage will be infrequent and the boys will have to get most of their playing experience in actual games, Coach "Tiny" Thornhill announced.

CORVALLIS.—When old pals look across the scrimmage line in a football game, rivalry may be friendly, but it usually is fierce.

Bobby Grayson, mighty Stanford fullback, may face an old high school teammate when Stanford and Oregon State play at Portland Saturday.

Ray Woodman, who helped open the way to Grayson's fame by running interference for him at Jefferson high in Portland, may start at quarterback for the Beavers. Pangle, regular quarter, has been shifted to fullback since Dick Joslin's knee injury failed to respond to treatment.

Red Franklin's return to practice cheered the squad in yesterday's workout. Franklin was injured against San Francisco university.

SEATTLE.—Rich in backfield men, including his new trio of sophomore speed boys, Coach Jimy Phelan wondered today how his line would stand up against the battering of Oregon forwards when they meet in Portland a week from Saturday. The return of Walt Rohrscheib, rugged end, to action helps out.

EUGENE.—Two significant vacancies appear on this week's Pacific Coast conference football schedule.

Apparently pointing right at each other are the schedules of University of Oregon and University of Washington. Both teams played last Saturday and will rest this week for their annual clash October 13.

Coach Prink Callison is giving his team little time to gloat over its 26 to 3 victory over the U. C. L. A. Bruins. Hard work and new plays to learn are keeping the Webfoots busy.

PULLMAN.—In perfect condition with two stellar backfield men back in shape for play, Washington State's gridiron machine was enroute today to Los Angeles, where it will play the University of Southern California Saturday.

LOS ANGELES.—Unless Southern California can stop Washington State's 1934 football machine here Saturday, the Cougars will win the Pacific Coast conference championship, Scout Aubrey Devine informed the Trojan gridmen today.

Devine advised plenty of defensive practice this week.

BETTER TIMES BRING RETURN OF INTEREST IN THE HOME KITCHEN

laugh themselves away," Miss Heath pointed out, smilingly, "for both experienced and inexperienced cooks, by the use of a few hints whic hare simple and practical. Under the program of new modes and styles in the everyday kitchen, it is not only possible to achieve delicious appetite teasers, but this can be accomplished from an inexpensive as well as dietetic standpoint."

"NRA," observed Miss Heath, "could well signify 'New Recipe Ability,' and just as we are all faced with a new order on the outside, we can spruce up at home and a cheerful, happy kitchen and home where drudgery has given place to real pleasure in the daily tasks is the surest road to making Friend Husband happy also."

Today's housewife can well afford to be a happy one now that modern science and invention have given her equipment to lift the ancestral drudgery and traditional tedium from woman's shoulders. Now innumerable wife-savers in the form of common household appliances rear a protecting wall between modern woman and drab middle age. First came the electric iron with the innumerable steps it saved from the stove to the ironing board and back again. Then the washing machine to save backs from aching and knuckles from cracking. Finally, the vacuum cleaner, an immeasurable relief from the tiresome and dirty task of sweeping. And so on, each new appliance contributed its share to the lightening of household tasks, opening innumerable new avenues to ease and comfort and convenience.

Miss Heath, charming and alert culinary artist, who comes to Medford next Wednesday to conduct the Mail Tribune's cooking school, believes that the days are past when the homemaker must sacrifice all outside interests for the sake of her home.

"Not that women are losing interest in their homes," Miss Heath insisted, "not when the kitchen is more fun and less work; not with modern methods and modern menus; not when by her own ingenuity and observation she can work out tantalizing menus that cook while she powders her nose, cuts the flowers in her garden, or practices her golf stroke."

This interesting and expert home economist will conduct the cooking school sessions each afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock, beginning Wednesday. You are invited to bring your problems to discuss with her.

TIGERS' OFFENSE IS POLISHED FOR ROSEBURG SQUAD

(By Harold Grove.)

Offense has been the main topic for the Medford high schol Tigers in preparation for the tilt with the Roseburg Indians here on Van Scoyoc field, Saturday at 2 p. m., according to Coach D. K. Burgher.

During the game last Saturday with the Southern Oregon Normal school Frosh, the Bengal offensive failed to click as well as it could have, although it was the first game of the season.

There was no serious injury in the contest. Bob Hinman, big end, received a minor injury to his left shoulder.

Monday evening was spent in talking over the mistakes made in the previous game. Later in the evening drills on punting and tackling were given the boys by Burgher.

Information from Rosebug indicates that the Rosebung high school team will invade the Tigers' lair with one of the strongest teams it has ever had. Last year the Tigers journeyed to the Prune city and were more than lucky to return with a 14 to 13 victory. The year before that the Tigers defeated the Indians, 14 to 0, in a hard fought game on the Medford field. Both years the Medfordites ended the season by playing in the state championship game Turkey day. The latter year at Portland and the former at Medford.

Roseburg lost very few of its members on graduation and will invade Medford with the will to win. They have always been noted for their consistent fight throughout the game.

Burgher states that there would possibly be some changes in the starting lineup Saturday.

Bob Smith, the southpaw passer, may break into the starting lineup. In practice he has shown marked ability at punting, passing and line plunging. Should he prove as capable during competition, he will be a very valuable man in the lineup. However, Burdette Kindred proved last Saturday that he could punt fairly well, and Bill Bates proved an asset to the squad through his line smashing, but Leo Ghelardi didn't outshine Smith on passing. Ghelardi being the spark plug of the backfield would be very hard man to replace, considering his fancy stepping while toting the ball. The yardage he makes cannot be equaled by any of the other players. Ghelardi has also been barking signals.

Steuart, Pierce, Kindred, O. Bates and Baker will more than likely be in the starting lineup.

FEATURE FIGHT GOES TO DRAW

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 3.—(AP)—From fierce, inspired fighting to dazed, instinctive but none the less savage gloved fist swinging raged Ritchie Fontaine and Leroy Gibson' six-round battle to a draw here last night.

It was the big show of the night, for the main event lasted less than two minutes of the scheduled 10 rounds. Tiger Jack Fox, 183, Terre Haute, Ind., was in perfect fighting trim and lost little time scoring a knockout over Al Marino, 181, San Francisco.

Bill Overby, 149, Spokane, pounded out a decision over Russell Howard, 148, Klamath Falls, in a wild four-rounder.

WILL CUT PORTLAND BEER PLACE PERMITS

PORTLAND, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A material reduction in the number of beer licenses in Portland was predicted by the Oregon liquor control commission last night in tentatively adopting a proposal to zone the city along the same lines as used by the city planning commission. The report was submitted by George L. Sammis, control board administrator.

The matter will be finally decided at a meeting of the commission in Salem next Monday.

The proof is in the wear.

Gates Furnishing Series Broadcast Over Radio KMED

A treat for southern Oregon sport fans has been arranged by the C. E. Gates Auto company, Ford dealers, in the form of a broadcast of the 1934 world series over KMED, the first of which occurred today. The entire series will be given to fans over the radio, through the cooperation of the Ford company, according to "Pop" and George Gates, and fans are invited to be the guests of the Gates Auto company on this special sports program.

The series, with such diamond luminaries as the famous Dean boys and Schoolboy Rowe promises to top off in fitting style the breath-taking pennant race of the last few days.

AIRFLOW CHRYSLER SMASHES EVERY CLOSED CAR SPEED RECORD
(HIGH GEAR)

A stock Chrysler Airflow Imperial Coupe, driven by Harry Hartz, broke 72 stock car speed records in a twenty-four hour run at Great Salt Desert, Utah. The Airflow recorded 95.7 m. p. h. for 1 mile; 90.04 m. p. h. for 500 miles and 84.43 m. p. h. for 24 hours, covering 2,026.405 miles. Thirty-five of the records established are in Class A and unlimited stock car class, which includes cars of any piston displacement. Thirty-seven of the records are in Class B (from 304 to 488 cubic inch piston displacement) in which the Airflow Imperial is listed.

. . . THEN SHOWS 18.1 MILES PER GALLON ON TRANSCONTINENTAL RUN

After the speed run, the same Chrysler Airflow Coupe was driven from Los Angeles to New York with the astonishing record of 18.152 miles per gallon at an average speed of 41.358 miles per hour.

No mechanical difficulties were encountered. The Airflow Chrysler conclusively demonstrated the soundness of Airflow design and the economy of the Automatic Overdrive.
