

FALL MEETING OF S. W. PRESBYTERY HELD IN ASHLAND

Regular fall meeting of the Presbytery of southwest Oregon was opened with a popular meeting at Ashland Presbyterian church Tuesday evening, with the pastor-host, Rev. M. L. Edwards presiding. Main address was delivered by Rev. John W. Hannan, Ph. D., of Grants Pass who spoke on "The Greatest Thing in Christianity."

After worship hour, Presbytery convened in business session with Rev. Jos. M. Johnson, moderator, presiding. Among preliminary items of business were elections of Rev. H. L. Weir of Malin as temporary clerk and Rev. R. S. Peterson of Phoenix as reporting clerk.

Wednesday's session was opened by a devotional service led by Rev. J. K. Howard, Ph. D., of Glendale, Oregon. Among business items of general interest were the receiving of Rev. Weston F. Shields as corresponding member of the Presbytery with the provision that he be enrolled as a regular member upon receipt of his letter from the Presbytery of Grande Ronde.

Glenn R. Cole was received from the Presbytery of Willamette and his call to the church at North Bend approved. Oct. 10 was set for his installation as pastor of the North Bend church.

A petition was received from Tulle Lake, California asking for the organization of a Presbyterian Community church and for admittance into the Presbytery of southwest Oregon. This petition is an outgrowth of the devoted work of Rev. Stanley Jewell of Lost River.

As an interlude in the morning business session, there was an observance of the Lord's supper with the moderator presiding, assisted by Rev. Thomas Robinson of Oakland, Oregon and Rev. E. A. Oldenberg of Medford and Elders Henry W. Frame of Phoenix and Dr. Charles T. Sweeney of Medford.

Following the communion service, the Presbytery heard reports from their two commissioners to general assembly, Elder Joseph Paterlinham and Rev. Stanley Jewell, both of Merrill.

Ladies of the Ashland church served a delicious luncheon at the close of the morning session. Afternoon meeting was opened with a devotional service led by Rev. Glenn R. Cole of North Bend. In the business session, Dr. D. T. Robinson of Marsfield, chairman of the committee on bills and resolutions, recommended that Presbytery resolutions to the General Council and the Board of National Missions, favoring the continuance of the office of the synodical office which was in danger of being closed on account of shortage of funds.

Rev. A. T. Smith, chairman of the Board of National Missions, reported an increase of 2 per cent in benevolence giving throughout the church with the expected increase in missionary salaries. Pending the acceptance of the report of the Board of National Missions, Presbytery heard Rev. D. A. Thompson, D. D., of Portland, synodical executive. Rev. Stanley Jewell, chairman of the board of foreign missions, reported the approaching visit of Dr. James W. McKean of Siam and Rev. Weston T. Johnson, Pacific Coast representative. Dr. McKean will speak in Medford on Sunday, Oct. 28 and at several other churches in the Presbytery.

In connection with the dissolution of the pastoral relationship of the Rev. W. J. Howell and the First Presbyterian church of Medford, a letter was granted to the Rev. Mr. Howell to the Presbytery of Wenatchee. The moderator of the Presbytery, Rev. Jos. M. Johnson, was appointed to preach at the regular morning service of the Medford church on October the 7th and declare the pulpit vacant. Rev. R. S. Peterson of Phoenix was appointed moderator of the session of the Medford church.

Rev. J. K. Howard, Ph. D., of Glendale reported as chairman of the committee on Christian education. Among items of interest were the emphasis this year on the Christian home, the young budget plan, and a men's fellowship. Pending the adoption of the report, Presbytery heard from Rev. W. L. Van Nuz, D. D., Northwest representative of the board of Christian education, who spoke on these topics and also the new standards for the home mission churches, adopted by the General Assembly.

A unique feature connected with this meeting of the Presbytery at Ashland was the holding on Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning at "Pr Point," Glendale, of a special "Retreat," or devotional conference for ministers and elder delegates of

The Presbytery. This proved to be very enjoyable and helpful and was well attended. "Pr Point" is the new permanent location for the annual Young People's Summer conference of S. W. Oregon Presbytery. This year the conference was held during the last week in July and was perhaps the largest and best of the three held in Oregon. One hundred and one young people were registered as delegates for the week, besides a number of teachers for the conference classes and other workers.

Rev. and Mrs. J. K. Howard of Glendale have donated the use of "Pr Point" as the permanent conference grounds of the Presbytery, and already the erection of permanent buildings is under way, with the dining hall, kitchen and swimming pool completed, besides the fine home of the Howards, which is used during conference time for meetings and other entertainment of the faculty and visiting speakers. Construction of a girls' dormitory and other buildings is under way, and all bills are paid to date, this being the plan in the whole project—to "pay as we go."

There are three young men under the care of this Presbytery in training for the Gospel ministry. These are: Laurence Mitchellmore, now of Spokane and formerly of Ashland, who is a senior in the seminary at San Anselmo, Cal.; Joseph Bowdoin who is now attending the Southern Oregon Normal at Ashland and supplying the Rogue River church on Sundays; and Perry McDowell Johnson, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Johnson of Central Point, who is a student at Albany college.

Mention was made of the death recently at Chico, Calif., of Mrs. Carlin, wife of Rev. Wm. M. Carlin, a member of this Presbytery and formerly living at Peoria Creek. Rev. J. W. Angell, pastor at Gold Beach, and formerly at Phoenix, was

NRA ENFORCERS SCAN SITUATION IN LOCAL AREA

Aiming at stricter enforcement of NRA codes, James G. Bretherton, executive assistant to Edgar Freed, state NRA compliance director, and C. C. Carlson, field adjuster, were in Medford on Thursday, as part of a statewide survey of NRA conditions. It was learned today.

Bretherton and Carlson conferred with civic leaders and members of local retail code authorities during their stay here. Conferences were arranged with members of the original volunteer NRA committees who were active in the first organization of the NRA.

Facts ascertained in the survey will be the basis of a report for use in setting up a compliance adjustment system to make possible speedier and more effective investigation of all alleged instances of code violation. Tentative plans call for regular visits here by field adjusters traveling out of Portland headquarters to the state compliance office. These adjusters will receive complaints and will investigate all reported violations.

It was also indicated that Bretherton is laying the foundation for a county-wide "clean-up" of code violators in this area. Plans for such a drive to secure one hundred per cent compliance were discussed at the informal conference while the NRA officials were in town.

The federal officers were not permitted to remain long enough on this trip to investigate pending local complaints, it was announced. Only the most cases requiring immediate attention were investigated. Carlson handled those local complaints of long standing which require summary investigation. However, this trip was devoted largely to a survey of conditions, while the actual compliance work will be undertaken in subsequent visits of field adjusters.

SCIENTIST FINDS PLANTS GAIN TAN BENEATH HOT SUN

By Alfred Herthinet United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—Plants, too, are subject to a tanning similar to our sunburn when they are irradiated with ultra-violet rays. Dr. Florence E. Meier of Smithsonian Institution's Division of Radiation and Organisms points out that the leaf cells of different plants undergo a change in color to brown, following a latent period after they have been irradiated with the rays.

Miss Meier, who has been conducting experiments with the rays, which are beyond the spectrum range of visible light, has discovered some peculiar variations in the effects produced when the rays differed by merely a few ten-millionths of a millimeter. The experiments were carried on using wave lengths of ultra-violet radiation ranging from 3022 to 2336 Angstroms; one Angstrom, the unit which is used to measure these wave lengths, is a ten-millionth of a millimeter.

Her experiments divulged that not only do these ultra-violet rays have lethal effects upon such minute organisms as the one-celled plant called algae, but, in addition, she found that the rays differ among themselves in their toxic effects. Identical amounts of some killed more rapidly than others, and smaller amounts of others were required to cause death.

Dr. Meier has grouped the responses she obtained in two categories—radiotoxicity and radiotoxicity and radiotoxicity. To clarify this, she may consider the relative effects of radium paint on a watch-face, cyanide of potassium, and rattlesnake venom upon a human being. Regarding sensitivity, each individual poison is capable of causing death, if administered in a sufficient dose. Probably, in order of minimum dosage, says Miss Meier, they would rank: radium, cyanide, snake venom. In order of toxic virulence, or, in other words, time necessary for effect to occur, they would rank: cyanide, snake venom, radium.

At a meeting of growers at the Hotel Holland last evening, Mr. Hunt led a discussion of the possibilities of putting Oregon under the marketing agreement for apples. He also urged local apple growers to represent this district at a meeting next Monday evening at Portland of growers throughout the state.

Mr. Hunt voiced the opinion that if Oregon did not come under the agreement, this state will become the dumping ground for Washington apples, as the northern state has adopted the marketing rules.

FRATERNITIES PUT ON SPOT BY PEAVY

CORVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 5.—(UP)—National honorary fraternities were "put on the spot" last night by President George W. Peavy of Oregon State college following a keynote speech to students in which he declared the organizations must "justify their existence."

"We are not convinced that the honoraries are beneficial," Peavy told the assembly. "Oregon State college men and women cannot afford to spend money for hardware which is only used for decoration."

Peavy, member of two major national honoraries, said thousands of dollars were taken from the campus each year to support national offices of the societies "and particularly for support of high salaried secretaries."

TOMATO CONTROL RULES ARE LIFTED

J. H. Hunt, local representative of the Oregon-Washington Melon and Tomato Marketing agreement, has received word from the organization's headquarters that the agreement has been removed on all commodities except canner tomatoes. The removal is only effective during the winter, and the agreement will be adopted again next spring, Hunt said.

He also urged local apple growers to represent this district at a meeting next Monday evening at Portland of growers throughout the state.

HALF A BILLION BRITISHERS SEE CINEMA IN YEAR

LONDON (UP)—Nearly a billion Britisheers paid admission to moving-picture theaters in Great Britain last year. The gross amount derived was $201,000,000. The customers averaged about 18,500,000 a week.

Of the gross amount United States producers received from the exhibition of American films on this side $24,500,000, according to figures presented to the meeting of the British Association Economics Section at its recent meeting in Aberdeen.

To determine the total of remittances abroad for films, S. Rowson, president of the British Kinematograph Society, based his calculations upon the amount of entertainment tax collected by the excise department. The government's exchequer actually drew $30,000,000 from film exhibitors.

Rowson estimates that the proportion of the receipts paid to the distributor varies in special cases within wide limits. It depends largely, he states, upon the bargaining skill of the exhibitor's buying representative and of the renter's salesman.

"In no other industry in the world," he suggests, "not even in the bazaars of the East, is the art of bargaining exercised with a great skill as in the selling of films."

Following a close check on several hundred theaters throughout the country, Rowson discovered that after the deduction of tax, the proportion paid for films was 33.7 per cent. The average price paid for a seat was about 20 cents.

LYNDEN, Wash., Oct. 5.—(UP)—Efforts of Lynden dryers to call a local option election here this fall failed by seven votes after a check of signatures showed many of the 172 obtained were not valid.

NOONSACK, Wash., Oct. 5.—(UP)—The town of Noonsack will hold a local option election this fall, after petitions filed with Whatcom county auditor, Bert Kincaid had "signatures to spare."

Little Black Hen saved Flock EPHRATA, Wash. (UP)—A little black hen owed her life and those of a pen full of sisters to her ability to flap her wings. When Gene Jackson, butcher, wielded a sharp knife over her quill, she squawked and fluttered, knocking the weapon against his hand and inflicting a bad cut. In the confusion, she led the flock to safety.

Auto Crash Wasn't Enough YORKVILLE, O. (UP)—Floyd Doan's automobile upset in West Virginia. That wasn't all. Doan landed right in a patch of poison ivy, and it infected him.
