

8 TRUE BILLS ARE FOUND BY GRAND JURY; 4 NOT TRUE

Criminal Syndicalism, Statutory Offenses, Forgery and Drunken Driving Are Charged in Indictments

Eight indictments were returned last Friday afternoon by the grand jury, Floyd Ross, Central Point, foreman. Four not true bills were returned.

Eyle Pugh, claiming residence in Josephine county, and James E. Stockman, Medford, were charged with criminal syndicalism. Possession and distribution of communistic literature, advocating the overthrow of the American form of government is the basis of the charge.

Stockman's bond of $2500 was reduced to $1000, upon order of the court. He was arrested last August on a charge of "attempting to resist an officer." Search of his home, revealed a large quantity of "red" pamphlets. Stockman allegedly sought to interfere with the arrest of James Cluser, Douglas county agitator, on a non-support of his two minor children charge. Cluser was the organizer for the "Cannery and Agricultural Workers Union" here last July.

Since Stockman's detention in the county jail, protests have been received from Douglas and Josephine county sympathizers.

Pugh was arrested last month, near Central Point. He was traveling in a burro-drawn cart, with a sign attached advising, "the masses to get ready for the revolution." A quantity of communistic reading material was found in his possession.

Riley Loomis, said by the district attorney's office to be a convict on parole from the Oregon state prison, was indicted for forgery. He is alleged to have passed a bogus check upon Leland Brophy for $21. Loomis has two years to serve on a conviction for a similar charge in Klamath county, the authorities say.

True bills charging J. Noel Colby of Grants Pass, and Milton Merithew, 60, a resident of the Evans creek district, with statutory offenses involving girls under 16 years of age were returned. Present bonds were continued for both.

Drury Francis Pierce, Texan, and Central Point district farm hand, was indicted for the theft of $4900 from his employer, Mrs. Margaret Lange. Pierce is alleged to have found the hiding place of the money, and to have stolen it.

T. J. Enright, attorney of this city, was indicted for driving an auto while under the influence of liquor. State police and a California highway officer were the chief witnesses against him. Enright's present bail of $250 was continued.

C. Earl Brautish, this city, was indicted for alleged receiving of stolen property.

The court, in excusing the grand jury from further service until the calling of a new grand jury, committed them "upon your expeditious and economical manner in handling all matters brought to your attention."

Arraignments on the indictments are scheduled for Friday of this week when Judge H. D. Norton will return from holding court in Josephine county.

BUILDING TRADES BATTLE IN LABOR MEETING

Pre-convention sessions of labor leaders in San Francisco had trouble within their ranks. One faction wanted the carpenters, bricklayers and electrical workers readmitted to the American Federation of Labor, which held its convention in the city by night, while another group opposed the move. made public yesterday regarding particulars of the situation. The purpose of the gathering was to correct misunderstandings and discuss ways and means of progressing with the work of ending the destruction of fish life in Hyatt waters. Reports of the program will be rendered to a meeting of the state game commission at Portland Monday.

Ted Higgins, advertising manager of the Standard Oil Company of California, spoke at the banquet last evening on the possibilities of developing the Wonderland through advertising. George E. Griffith, chief of the forest public relations department, Portland, spoke on the subject of "Green Gold," comparing the values of forests with that of mined gold, and stressing the great importance of preserving the timber in the wonderland. Professor Irving E. Vining of Ashland, member of the state game commission, addressed the gathering on the development of and possibilities offered by natural resources.

Many prominent guests were introduced, including W. O. Harriman, supervisor of Fremont National forest; J. H. Price, of the San Francisco forest service office; Karl Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River forest; George A. Duthie, chief of public relations, Washington, D. C.; M. P. Pratt, state forester of Sacramento; DeWitt Nelson, supervisor of the Mount Shasta national forest; Major Joseph Andrews, commanding officer of the Redding district, Civilian Conservation Corps; E. A. Collier, division engineer for southern Oregon, state highway commission; William Hanley, of Burns, Oregon, and Ray Conway, manager of the Oregon state AAA. Letters of regret were also read from many prominent men who were unable to attend the convention.

The banquet was presided over by Patricia Banwell, three daughter of A. H. Banwell, manager of the Jackson county chamber of commerce. In a general get-together and registration meeting, approximately 100 delegates gathered at 8 a. m. Saturday morning at Hotel Medford for the annual Shasta-Cascadians' breakfast. The breakfast was open to all and each guest was introduced by Mr. Stanley and Mr. Banwell, who acted as hosts.

With Mr. Hall, president, and W. A. Gates, host-director of the convention, in charge, the entire delegation met at a general assembly held at 10 a. m. Saturday, at Hunt's Crater. The meeting was opened by an invocation given by Rev. Ernest S. Bartlum of St. Mark's Episcopal church.

Mayor Porter talks addressed the group in a cordial greeting, in behalf of the city of Medford, while Mr. Harder, president of the Jackson county chamber of commerce, extended ed a welcome from that organization. The magnanimity of the convention was made apparent at the first general assembly, although many of the delegates were arriving all during Saturday, and others were taking part in preparing for meetings of the various units which compose the association.

The program was begun with a vocal solo rendered by James Stevens, director of the Medford Gleemen. Mr. Stevens sang two numbers, and was accompanied by Donald Huckabee, who also played an organ recital during the assembling of delegates.

Stressing the vastness and importance of southern Oregon's and northern California's scenic resources, Mr. Snyder of Lakeview addressed the assembly on the purpose and functions of the Wonderland association. Senator D. Jack Metzger extended the invitation for next year's convention, to be held at Red Bluff, and a second invitation, to Susanville, Cal., was extended by C. J. Fletcher, Mitchell Tibbottson of Klamath Falls also talked, expressing the opinion that the convention should go to California next year, but asked that it be held in Klamath Falls in 1936.

Warren D. Woodson, director from Tehama county, Cal., responded to the invitations extended by Senator Metzger, Mr. Puleher and Mr. Tibbottson. The Shasta-Cascadians' magnificently colored picture, "Sustika," was presented, giving the delegates complete picturing of the scenic wonders and industrial areas the association represents. Manager Stanley gave the annual report.

Professor Irving E. Vining of Ashland took over the chamber of commerce broadcast during the assembly, speaking over KMGD on the Wonderland and the convention.

A resolutions committee was appointed, and is composed of the following: Mr. Puleher, chairman; W. D. Dorris of Alturas, Cal.; E. W. Vancie of Klamath Falls; Mayor Porter, and Mr. Metzger. The credentials committee, also appointed at the general assembly, consists of C. L. Macdonald, Ernest Roedel, both of Medford, and Gordon McCracken, of Ashland.

Units at Luncheon Luncheons for the various units which compose the association were held Saturday noon. E. C. Reynolds of Klamath Falls acted as chairman at the luncheon for the chamber of commerce, supervisors, newspaper and transportation units, held at the Hotel Medford basement dining room. Glenn Johnson of the Klamath Falls chamber of commerce, addressed the meeting, as did George A. Duthie of Washington, D. C., chief of the forest service division of information, George North of the San Francisco chamber of commerce was another distinguished speaker.

The sportsmen's and recreational units held a luncheon at the Holland hotel dining room. Professor Vining addressed the gathering, which is one of the major groups of the association. George E. Griffith, of the public relations department at Portland, U. S. forest service, was principal speaker, addressing the unit on a topic entitled "Green Gold," or forest resources.

The annual dinner of the board of directors given for chamber of commerce secretaries, was held at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening at the Hotel

Medford. Mr. Gates talked on the work of the secretaries, who are completed each year at a similar luncheon. Others present also spoke briefly, illustrating the part chambers of commerce play in the work of the Wonderland association.

The secretaries present were: Foster, of Red Bluff, Cal.; Earl Reynolds, of Klamath Falls; Gordon McCracken, of Ashland; A. H. Banwell, of Medford; T. L. Stanley, of Redding, Cal.; George North, secretary of the San Francisco chamber of commerce; Anna Hamma, assistant to Mr. Stanley; Misses M. D. Hinek and Mildred Bessen, assistants to Mr. Banwell.

At noon Friday the board of directors of the association met at the Hotel Jackson for the annual directors' luncheon, which is a social affair for the purpose of getting the leaders of the organization together before the convention proper. Preliminary plans were made, and the first steps taken in promoting the extensive program of the association.

The directors of the association, who met at the luncheon, are as follows: Jackson county, W. A. Gates, of Medford; Klamath county, E. B. Hall of Klamath Falls; Lake county, B. K. Snyder, Mayor of Lakeview; Lassen county, Peter Gerig of Bieber, Cal.; Modoc county, C. J. Fletcher of Lookout, Cal.; Shasta county, A. H. Grandwold of Redding, Cal.; Siskiyou county, O. G. Shoels of Yreka, Cal.; Tehama county, Warren Woodson of Corning, Cal.; Trinity county, Frank Miller of Weaverville, Cal.

Centering much interest was the display sponsored through the co-operation of the Rogue River National forest service and the Grater Lake National park service, in the lobby of Hotel Medford. Delegates were shown complete and enlightening exhibits of features of the national park and forest, and beautiful scenes depicting the mountains, lakes and recreational centers of the Wonderland. Literature on the forest and park, and other territory included in the Wonderland was posted in the lobby, and a botanical display has also been arranged. Colored slides of scenes throughout the national forest were also shown.

then reared up and fanned Fox to end the inning. The Cardinals got back a run in the third when two out Frank Frisch singled, Medwick walked and Collins brought home his manager with a drive to center and then tied the score in the fourth after Jo-Jo White made the circuit on a series of weird plays in the Tiger half of the same frame.

This was the end of Vance's short turn. He yielded to Pinch-hitter Davis during the hectic rally that tied the count and marked Dean's injury. Orsatti's single started the Cardinal spurt, but with a double play in sight, Gehring dropped Owens' throw at second base on Durocher's hopper and all hands were safe.

Davis brought Orsatti home with a single over Greenberg's head, Durocher ran to third and Dizzy Dean raced from the dugout to run for Davis. The big crowd howled with delight, as its pitching favorite made an unexpected appearance, but a few moments later it had cause for alarm as Rogell took Gehring's toss, for the force-out on Martin's grounder, and then "beaned" the mighty Dizzy.

The sagging Cardinal defense let in the fifth—and decisive—Tiger run in this frame. Gehring opened with a single and Goslin sacrificed. Rogell then grounded to Durocher, whose throw to third, to catch Gehring, was dropped by Martin for Pepper's third error. Greenberg then lifted a towering fly to deep right center which Orsatti circled under, but finally let slip through his fingers, scoring Gehring and giving Greenberg a somewhat fluky two-bagger. The Tigers filled the bases before the inning was over on an intentional pass to Fox, but Auker grounded out. Two more Cardinal errors, coupled with Walker's wildness and base-hits by Rogell, Greenberg and Owen accounted for a cluster of five Tiger runs in the eighth. The southpaw started his own downfall by throwing wildly to second base on Cochran's attempted sacrifice bunt after walking White. Gehring's bunt advanced both runners and Goslin then was purposely passed to fill the bases. Rogell again delivered in the "clutch" as he drove a single past Durocher, scoring White and Cochran. Greenberg then hoisted another terrific wallop against the right-field pavilion and slid into third base for what looked like a robust triple until the umpire went into a huff and decided to cut it down to a double on the ground that a spectator had leaped out to deflect the ball. Goslin scored, but Rogell was sent back to third, scoring a moment later on Owen's single to right.

NEW JERSEY SEIZES HAUPTMANN'S TOOLS AS EVIDENCE

This collection of tools, found by authorities in the garage of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, facing charges in two states in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, will be used against him in his New Jersey trial of kidnaping and murdering the baby, authorities said. Experts are to examine the tools to determine if they were used in making the ladder used in snatching the infant from his nursery bed. (Associated Press Photo)

ICKES AND AIDE HAVE HARSH TILT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes and Paul C. Yates exchanged harsh words today over the latter's resignation or suspension as executive assistant to Governor Paul M. Pearson of the Virgin Islands. Ickes said Yates had been suspended and ordered him to return to Washington to face "written charges of disloyalty, insubordination and gross inefficiency." "I could no longer ignore grave charges against Mr. Yates that have come to me from several sources and over a considerable period of time," Ickes added.
