CARDS WIN 11-0 TO TAKE CROWN

King Alexander of Yugoslavia, French Minister Assassinated

By PAUL MALLON. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 9.—A forbidden subject of considerable concern on the inside is the current flight of capital from this country.

It is quite well known in the topmost financial circles that certain wealthy people have been purchasing foreign securities lately in increasing quantities.

There has been a notable tendency among trustees of big trust funds and estates to seek such outside investments. The extent of these operations cannot be estimated accurately.

One thing that probably will be done about it is that, after the congressional elections, the administration will enter into another economy war.

The idea is to eliminate free-hand government, curtail the volume of waste and put things on a more businesslike basis, meeting only the bare relief requirements.

You may recall that the original NRA idea was worked out by the new dealers as a compromise with the 30-hour week agitators in congress.

LINDY RECOGNIZED HAUPTMANN VOICE GRAND JURY TOLD

Flier Says Man Who Shouted 'Hey Doctor,' When Randolph Contact Made, Is Man Now Held in Custody

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 9.—(AP)—An unidentified witness who has definitely placed Bruno Richard Hauptmann, under indictment for murder in the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., at the scene of the crime has been found by New Jersey authorities, Gov. A. Harry Moore disclosed today.

Declining to give the name of the new witness, Governor Moore stated that "if his story can be believed it will set up the case against the one-time German army machine-gunner."

By WILLIAM A. KINSEY. TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The voice that shouted "hey, doctor," over a Bronx cemetery fence the night Col. Charles A. Lindbergh paid $200,000 in a futile attempt to ransom his infant son, has been identified by the flier as that of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

The story of how Col. Lindbergh kept the memory of that voice from St. Raymond's cemetery was disclosed by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police, a few hours after a Hunterdon county grand jury indicted Hauptmann on a charge of murder in the kidnap case.

Lindbergh Postive. "Colonel Lindbergh," Schwarzkopf said, "has positively identified Hauptmann's voice as that of the man he heard before the Bronx cemetery."

The grand jurors accepted it as clinching testimony. They returned an indictment charging murder.

RICHBERG FLAYS THOSE WHO URGE BUDGET BALANCE

Failure to Meet Relief Demands Could Breed Revolt in Thirty Days Says Roosevelt's Policy Adviser

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Denouncing demands for immediate balancing of the federal budget in the face of relief demands, Donald Richberg said today "a blind, reactionary, inhumane government could breed a revolt in 30 days."

Declaring new deal expenditures and measures have saved the nation from "revolution," President Roosevelt's chief policy adviser also struck at "dodo-economists" for attacks on NRA.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Rotary club he discussed campaign issues. He set a boost in employment as a goal of NRA and gave new assurance of business that no hasty, blanket changes are planned in that recovery unit.

"The budget should be balanced at the earliest possible moment," Richberg said, but "sweeping demands" for drastic slashing of expenditures and immediate balancing, in the face of relief needs "are the product either of gross ignorance or the greatest form of political demagoguery."

But who is the man who dares to stand before the American people and stand for the constructive measures which have helped to revive private business," he said, "the burden of federal relief this winter, despite an unprecedented level of drought relief, should be far less than last winter."

Inspection of county roads and bridges, some in need of repair to preserve the original investment, after three years of neglect, in the effort at economy, is expected to be made this week by the committee.

Police also stated that Clegg stole some miscellaneous articles from Nandier's cafe, and that he used the stolen guns to punch holes in a plate glass window at 31 South Front.

Authorities closed the French frontier and even foreigners were not allowed to cross the border.

Telephonic communication with Madrid was broken and lines to Paris were expected to be cut soon.

Skirmishes between strikers and soldiers were frequent all along the coast from Santander to Hendaye. At Bilbao, shooting continued all night.

MARSEILLE, Oct. 9.—(AP)—King Alexander of Yugoslavia and Louis Barthou, foreign minister of France, were assassinated today as the Yugoslav monarch came to France in an effort to improve Yugoslav-French relations.

Alexander died of three wounds in the chest. Barthou was shot in the left forearm and in one leg. He died as surgeons labored toward giving him a blood transfusion.

They were shot down by two assassins as they rode in an automobile, receiving the cheers of the population, through the flag-bedecked streets of Marseille.

One Assassin Killed. One of the assassins was killed outright by the police. The other was wounded and captured.

First reports indicated that Barthou's wound was only slight but that of Gen. Alphonse Joseph Georges of the French superior war council, also shot in the attack, was more serious.

The visit of Alexander to France was regarded as of great diplomatic importance to France and the Little Entente, of which Yugoslavia is a part.

$72,300 NEEDED TO COVER RELIEF JACKSON COUNTY

Relief appropriations tentatively listed on the Jackson county budget for the coming year aggregate $72,300, for old age pensions, widows pensions, poor farm operation, care of indigents, and general relief. It will be one of the largest items, and the hardest problem confronting the budget committee, George W. Dunn of Ashland, chairman, which held a session today.

For the old age pensions, $20,000 will be appropriated for the coming year, it is expected. Last year $5000 was appropriated, owing to the late start, and weakened county finances.

Data shows that Jackson county has been one of the most liberal in the state, and that in some counties no old age pensions have yet been paid. Approximately $50,000 will be set aside, for other relief channels.

Improving labor conditions and enforcement of the federal self-help rules, is expected to lighten the relief load some. Federal care of transient indigents has also lessened the strain for Oregon counties.

The budget committee has not yet started real work on the relief budget, and is awaiting definite word as to just what sums will be granted by the state and federal welfare agencies. The committee is still wrestling with the county office budgets.

Inspection of county roads and bridges, some in need of repair to preserve the original investment, after three years of neglect, in the effort at economy, is expected to be made this week by the committee.

FEDERAL COURT OPENS SHORTEST TERM IN YEARS

Federal court for the Southern Oregon district convened this morning with Federal Judge James Alger Fee of Portland, presiding. The docket, one of the shortest in recent years, is expected to conclude by the end of the week. One civil case, and three criminal cases are docketed. The court recessed from Tuesday, October 2, the regular date for the federal court opening, until today.

Federal officials in attendance besides Judge Fee, are United States District Attorney Carl G. Donaghy, Assistant U. S. Attorney Hugh Biggs, United States Marshal John T. Gummerville, Deputy U. S. Marshal N. C. DeLong, Hal S. Kenyon, clerk of the court, and Mary E. Bell, official stenographer. Judge Fee is accompanied by Mrs. Fee.

Jurors, largely drawn from Josephine and this county reported for service this morning.

The $100,000 damage suit of A. R. Rutter of Klamath county, against the California-Oregon Power company, for alleged injuries sustained in an accident a year ago, is the first action listed.

Rutter, a lineman employed by the power company, alleges that he sustained injuries to both hands when he came in contact with a high power line. Negligence on the part of the company is alleged.

The power company contends that the accident was due to contributory negligence, setting forth that Rutter worked on the same pole the day before without mishap, alleging that on the day of the accident he failed to pull the contact switch.

Rutter is represented by Attorneys Arthur Moulton of Portland and Allison.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 8.—Last Saturday I was absent from these parts in this paper. Teacher, I can't tell a lie; I wasn't sick, or away from a telegraph station.

Friday afternoon, after watching Paul Dean almost shut out Detroit, I rush to the hotel, write my piece, and predict that Detroit was still plenty tough. Then start rushing off to my old home in Okla., and forget to file my telegram.

But here is what really hurt. The world moved along Saturday (even better) than any other day lately. I tell you it's surprising how many of us it can get along without. I don't want to appear rude, but I actually believe it could get along without all of us. Yours, Will.

P. S.—That world series is getting really hot, I got to go get the finish of it. Will Rogers. © 1934, McNight Syndicate, Inc.
