BUDGET INCREASES REQUESTED BY SIX STATE INSTITUTES

Capital Outlays and Higher Prices On Supplies Listed As Reasons for $900,000 in Added Demands

SALEM, Oct. 9.—(P)—An increase of $900,000 in the budgets for six of the state's 11 institutions for the next biennium was shown by budget requests submitted to the board of control today for transmission to the budget director. Capital outlays and increased prices in commodities were listed as reasons for the increase.

The budgets of the insane hospital at Salem, the tuberculous institution, the training school for girls and the deaf and blind schools, were presented for the next 30 months after the first of the year, the additional six months required under a change in biennial dates. The increase, however, does not include the additional six months.

$3,123,728 Total.

A total of $3,123,728 will be requested for these institutions for operation until June 30, 1937, of which four-fifths will be used in the next two years and the latter figures were compared with the total allotted the institutions during the past two years. Legislative appropriations for these institutions for 1933 and 1934 totaled $1,690,719.

The largest sum was requested for the state insane hospital here, which now has an average population of 2,200 people, but provisions will be requested for a population of 2,453. For the 30 months $1,548,032 will be asked, but the increase for the first 24 months shows $437,151 over the previous two-year period.

Improvements Sought.

Major items include a new wing of the hospital, to provide 216 beds at a cost of $220,000; a new building, $100,000; new floors in the old building, $26,092; painting, $19,000; other improvements, $14,000; dining room, $11,858; basement to nurses' home, $16,318; and new equipment, $13,700.

The feeble-minded institution will ask for $723,893 more for the two years, or a total of $559,609 for the 30 months. The institution has an average population of 1,000 but an average of 1,090 was expected.

Major items in this budget, outside of regular expenses, included a new girls' dormitory at a cost of $50,000.

$521,266 for T. B. Hospital.

Additional improvements and capital outlay for the tuberculous hospital at Salem will bring the budget of that institution to $521,266. For the 24 months it was increased $167,252. The average population was figured at 275.

Shirley Temple Has a Sweet Tooth Which She Fills With Jelly

"Um, isn't it good! And we made it ourselves." Shirley Temple smiles in anticipation as her mother offers her the first of their batch of grape jelly.

HERE'S one movie star who can indulge her sweet tooth. Shirley Temple, who has become the darling of America's heart, loves and eats jam and jelly just as much as the children who play on sidewalks and meadows.

Her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Temple, knows that jam and jelly fill the child's need for sweets in pure, easily digestible form.

When Shirley is not busy on the lot, making pictures with grown up stars like Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard, with whom she appears in "Now and Forever", she can very often be found around the kitchen helping her mother, who is an accomplished jelly maker.

Grape jelly is a favorite in the Temple household and this recipe will give you some of the finest you've ever tasted.

Concord Grape Jelly
4 cups (8 lbs.) juice
7 1/2 cups (15 lbs.) sugar
1/2 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice, stem about 3 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add 1/2 cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. (If Malaga or other tight-skinned grapes are used, the juice of 1 lemon should be added to prepared juice.)

Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

was the largest capital outlay asked for; others included the third floor completion of the hospital building at a cost of $15,000; furnishings and repair, $10,000; modernization of the administration building, $20,000; and conversion of the lighting system, $13,005.

A new primary building to cost $60,000 was requested for the state school for the deaf, which has an attendance of 135. The budget for 30 months is $247,106, or an increase of $80,436.

The increase for the blind school was the largest in proportion to its former budget, the additional sum sought being $75,092 more than the total for the past two years. For the 30 months $159,272 was requested, including a new dormitory at a cost of $60,000, and furnishings to cost $15,000. The institution has an attendance of 45.

The state training school for girls requests $80,443 for the next two and a half years, which does not include any major outlays. The budget shows an increase for two years of $13,609.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Likely no one in the Broadway parade is so well known and so rarely seen as Irving Berlin. And no other person in the area has been the inspiration for so many legends. Some true, but mostly fiction. Such as the one that a negro in Harlem has written all his tunes.

He has had the good sense to deny none. Admittedly, he knows very little of the higher technique of music. His piano may be shifted into the only two keys in which he is entirely familiar. But always he has a song in his heart. A tune the nation delights in whistling.

When he dines out with his wife, the former Ellen Mackay, it is at select restaurants. And he attends the auspicious first nights only. At intermissions he rarely circulates in the lobby promenade or is he ever conspicuous. He enjoys more a few friends at his own fireside.

There are many estimates of his wealth, but it is safe to chronicle he is in the millionaire division. He goes to his publishing house, recently removed from Broadway to Seventh avenue, regularly, but most of his compositions are worked out at home. A sentimentalist, he often writes poems to his wife.

It is not likely Raymond Hitchcock, first of the masters of ceremony, ever thought his innovation would become the irritation it is to diners-out. Hitchcock gave it dignity and charm by appearing top-hatted in the foyer during his Hitchy-koo reviews. He greeted the celebrities of the town as they came into the theater, tactfully introduced people he knew would enjoy knowing each other, and otherwise gave a pleasant warming to a new form of welcome.

Screen test for Herbert Bayard Swope as a prelude to a possible screen career was of great interest to the newspaper fraternity. A well once conjugated the red-haired editor "Swoop, Swoop, Swoop" as indicative of his hurricane tempo. More than most newspapermen of his time he fairly coaxes vitality. His resemblance to President Roosevelt—in photographs only—is striking. He would make a great actor because he is adept at dramatizing the trivial—an entrance into a room or ordering a meal. Despite his whirlwind manner, he is fond of people and full of impulsive kindness. His bluster is a sort of mask.

ACTRESS MAY BE CALLED AS WITNESS

Pola Negri, Polish beauty and former screen star, may be called as a witness against her former husband, Prince Serge Mdivani, and his brother, Prince David, at their forthcoming trial on charges of grand theft and falsification of records in Los Angeles. Of miscellaneous ancestry. It attached itself to an old clothes shop where it has been two years. The rings are a brass five-and-ten variety and doubtless the decoration of someone who mistook cruelty for wit. Anyway the feline refuses now to allow their removal.

Exclusive dressmaking establishments have so many slinky mannikins as ever, these trying times. And there's a reason. Mannikins who used to receive as high as $75 a week and plenty of luncheon and dinner invitations are now glad to work for commission on sales. There is a definite trick about the art that not every beautiful girl learns. Only a small percentage are successful. It looks easy to sway up to Madame with a half smiling look, linger away a little and slowly evaporate. But it requires precise timing and those who do not acquire it spoil a sale. The art is to remain before the customer precisely the right number of minutes. That is gained by watching expressions.

I drove to the scattered Bronx district where the Lindbergh ransom suspect lived, about 24 hours after the headlines proclaimed the story. Out of almost total obscurity the neighborhood had taken on the trampled look of notoriety. The curious clotted in silent groups, souvenir hunters were picking up stray pebbles and stones and a photographic hustler was already hawkling post-cards of the home.

Most of the day I've been conscious of an eerie metallic plink at intervals on my desk. Frequent rummaging revealed nothing. Just as I was about to scream for somebody to come get me, I found an envelope in the mail containing a discarded tin aspirin box filled with jumping beans. People have more fun with me.

• New Honors for GOLDEN GLOW BEER! Hester Heath, noted food expert and household economist chooses Golden Glow for demonstration in her cooking school. Read what Miss Heath has to say of this famous beer:

Smart hostesses order Golden Glow by the case and keep it on hand for every occasion. Marvelous with light refreshments, wonderful with meals, delightfully refreshing in the afternoon. On sale at better dealers' everywhere.

"I have found Golden Glow to be the ideal home beer. It's so mellow, so zestful, so wholesome and digestible that it's fast becoming the great favorite with housewives everywhere. They've found that their guests appreciate its fine, full-flavor and unquestioned quality . . . and it IS socially correct and always appropriate."

Miss Heath will use Golden Glow Beer exclusively to demonstrate beer recipes, things to serve with beer, new ideas, in her cooking school lectures.
