HIDING DOOR KEY JUST INVITATION TO THIEVES

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(UP)—Housewives, who put the door key under the mat, or in the letter box when they leave home, are just inviting sneak thieves to step inside and ransack the place, police warned here.

After a wave of house robberies police advised such hiding places were the first places thieves inspected for keys.

Earl Snell, Republican candidate for Secy. of State, speaks tonight over KMGH at 6:25.

Because ground squirrels of California can carry bubonic plague, squirrel-free zones are maintained around ports there to prevent the squirrels from infecting city rats and starting a serious outbreak.

The present prices have fluctuated as much as 500 to 1000 per cent. It is these wide disparities over short periods that Mr. Roosevelt was said to be trying to avoid in steering the nation toward a more permanent economic level.

Price Rise Agreed On Administration financial advisors said that over a year ago the president consulted experts in every field and found general agreement that there should be a substantial rise in prices to relieve the general debtor-creditor situation.

Three methods of procedure were discussed, but the first, to cut down the debt column by some arbitrary rule of thumb procedure was discarded because it could not be done under the constitution.

The second method was to make a definite attempt to raise the asset column by increasing values. This method was accepted, along with part of a third proposal—a cutting down of the debt column through various legal methods such as reduction of farm interest rates, refinancing and lending to home owners, and a new method of permitting corporation re-cesserships.

No Runaway Wanted It was emphasized the president does not want run-away prices of run-away values and is not wedded to the theory that the new price levels sought should coincide completely with the level of 1928.

Some 1928 values were described as goals worth striving for, but it was emphasized that the entire year's price level could not be taken as a complete yardstick.

MARRIAGE ANNULMENT ASKED AFTER 25 YEARS

PHILADELPHIA.—(UP)—William L. Brown, Jr., 23, who invented the world's smallest gasoline engine, isn't satisfied. He is now developing a still smaller motor.

The motor which brought him fame and which is now used in model airplanes weighs only six and a half ounces. Equipped with the attachments to keep it running at R.P.M. it develops 1-5 horsepower and brings its weight up to 17 1/2 ounces.

Brown, whose father turned the invention into a commercial success because the youth didn't want the marketing of the small motors to interfere with his school work, has started work on an engine that will weigh only three ounces and develop 1-80 horsepower.

Listen in tonight over KMGH at 6:25, and hear Earl Snell, Republican candidate for Secy. of State, speak.

"Let's quit killing," is the slogan adopted for a traffic safety program in Portland, Ore. City council gave $200 toward the campaign expense.

After 25 years of married life, Fred O. Becker, who resides here, has petitioned the court for annulment of his marriage to Dora Beels, which occurred in 1909.

Becker seeks the annulment on grounds that he was lured into matrimony by his present wife by misrepresentation. He also states that he was a mere young man in his early twenties while she was an experienced woman of 36.

While the screen play is filled with thrills and a haze of mystery which holds the suspense to the end, it is written in the smart, wise-cracking vein of modern fiction and carries plenty of humor to offset its more dramatic moments.
