

KLAMATH BOASTS MORE BOURBONS THAN REPUBLICANS

SALEM, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Klamath county's Democratic registration for the general election this year exceeded the Republican list, the only county so far reporting a larger Democratic than Republican registration. It was revealed at the secretary of state's office where six new listings brought the total counties to report to 19.

Of six filings received early today three showed a loss in total registration over that of two years ago, while all but one showed a decline in Republican registration. Democrats gained in all but one of the counties.

Those reporting loss in totals were Clatsop, Curry and Willamette while Gilliam, Klamath and Lincoln reported gains. Willamette reported losses in both Democratic and Republican ranks. Gilliam alone reported increased Republican registrations.

Klamath county listed 7,829 Democrats as against 7,617 Republicans, a gain of 1,884 in the former and a loss of 992 Republicans as compared with the 1932 registration. The total this year, including 439 scattered, was 13,885 a gain of 849 voters.

Other counties reported: Clatsop: 7,364 Republicans, 2,877 Democrats, 130 scattered for a total of 9,871. Two years ago it listed 10,696.

Curry: 1,281 Republicans, 692 Democrats, 44 scattered, total 2,027. Registration decreased 474.

Gilliam: 67 Republicans, 824 Democrats, 11 scattered, total 1,742. Registration gain of 45.

Lincoln: 3,580 Republicans, 2,100 Democrats, 117 scattered, total 5,847. Registration gain, 237.

Willamette: 1,783 Republicans, 1,518 Democrats, 96 scattered, total 3,282. Registration loss of 168.

JACKSON CO. NOMINEES FOR LEGISLATURE ARE REVIEWED BY 'VOTER'

In a review of nominees for the state legislature, the Oregon Voter, in its last issue, has the following to say regarding Jackson county's aspirants:

George W. Dunn, Ashland, Republican nominee, is that substantial citizen of southern Oregon who made such a fine record in the state senate that he won the reputation of being "the common sense senator." He keeps his feet on the ground, and looks forward, without swaying right or left. He has a formidable opponent in Col. F. E. Kelly, Medford attorney, whose democracy is of the heligent type, and who would furnish the senate with picturesque oratory that would be quite in contrast with Dunn's quiet, infrequent and effective utterance.

A. E. Brockway, local Grange master in Jackson county, and Glenn O. Taylor, Medford attorney, are the Republican nominees for the two Jackson seats. Both made fine records in the 1933 legislature. Brockway is a conservative member of the Grange, not a socialist. If either of these able, qualified men is defeated, it will be because of his conservatism. William Grenbier, Ashland monument dealer, has no support other than partisan, and his candidacy is not taken seriously. Moore Hamilton, brilliant Democratic editor of Medford, is presumably not a considerable following on his own account. He is a loyal New Dealer, but an enlightened one; a strong supporter of Gen. Martin Brockway and Taylor served so efficiently in the legislature that the retirement of either would be a genuine loss to the state.

G. P. AIRPORT TO REPORT WEATHER

GRANTS PASS, Oct. 16.—(Sp.)—Official weather reports will be sent out this winter from the Grants Pass airport. It became known Monday when friends of Pat Short divulged the local man has been appointed official airways observer.

Short received notice of his appointment a week ago from C. Carpenter of Portland, assistant to the supervisor of weather bureaus in Oregon. The appointment was effective immediately.

Short will receive telephone calls from Medford and Wolf Creek, the nearest points north and south along the air route where weather observers' teletype machines are located. He will be required to give information concerning the "ceiling," visibility and wind velocity. Instruments to assist him in giving accurate data will be received from Washington, D. C., and installed within a few weeks. A barometer and a "ceiling light" will probably be among the equipment furnished. Short will be called upon to make the weather observations at any time, but most of the work will probably be done for the midnight plane between Medford and Portland, he said Monday.

HUMANE SOCIETY SALE IS DEC. 7TH

The annual Candlelight sale conducted in the autumn by the Jackson County Humane society will be held the first Monday in December, it was announced today.

The society is postponing the sale this year, due to the fact that the articles are going to be offered at a time that they may be available for Christmas gifts, within the reach of everyone.

Besides the unusual bargains in dresses offered each fall by the humane society, at this sale suits, hats and other articles of apparel will be sold at reasonable prices.

Donations have been coming into the society for some time, and those in charge said today that already they have a large assortment of splendid buys.

LAST NIGHT WAS COLDEST OF FALL

Last night's frost, according to Meteorologist W. J. Hutchinson, brought local thermometers to their lowest mark since February 13 of this year with a temperature of 29 degrees. Although this is the coldest morning reached yet this fall, and caused many an early riser to take his winter wrap from its summer hideout, the weatherman says it is not an unusual mark for October.

The temperature has been known to reach as low as 24 degrees during this month.

The second lowest mark this fall was reached October 13, when King Winter blew another preliminary frosty blast which brought the mercury down to 33.

WEEKLY TOURNAMENTS AT ROGUE LINKS END

Because of lateness of the season, hunting and other interruptions have prevented members of the Rogue Valley Golf club from participating, the regular weekly tournaments had heretofore, every Wednesday afternoon, been discontinued for the winter, Jack Hunsdon, club pro, announced this morning.

Although the event met with much approval during the summer months there have been few taking part during the past several weeks.

PUGILIST SOUGHT AS GIRL ABDUCTOR

SALEM, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Willard Norton, 34-year-old pugilist, and Hazel Campbell, 16, were being sought by state police today following their hurried departure from Silverton after Norton allegedly made an attack upon the girl's father and threatened to kill anyone who followed him.

The father, Perry Campbell, told officers that Norton took Hazel away against her will after beating him up, and that the man was armed with a butcher knife. An assault and battery charge has been placed against Norton, officers stating there was insufficient evidence as yet to place a kidnaping charge.

Conflicting stories were told officers. One was that Norton had asked Campbell to permit Hazel to marry him. The father refused and allegedly attempted to "beat up" Norton. Norton proved too fast and the reverse resulted.
