

BURGER WORRIED AS INJURIES SAP TIGERS STRENGTH

By Harold Grove

If the toll of injuries keeps mounting, Coach D. K. Burger will probably have his second string playing the full game. So far this week three first string men are on the doctor's list and a fourth remains from last week.

Don Stewart twisted his leg at the beginning of the week and is not expected to be in the line-up for Saturday's game in Marshfield. Ray Ettinger has been receiving considerable coaching so that he may be in the peak of condition when the Tigers march against the Pirates.

Joe Petree has been receiving treatment regularly for an infected tooth, since it was discovered by the dentist that part of a tooth had broken off at one time or another and had caused infection to set in. Joe may be able to play Saturday.

Wednesday night, while practicing dummy signals with the second string, Bill Bates, on a line plunge threw his hip out of place. Burger sent him to the doctor for a complete examination. Bill in all probability will be kept out of the game this week.

With these three boys out, plus Bob Hinman, who was injured last week, the Tigers will have the short end when it comes to matching up with the strong coast eleven. All told, there are two first string ends on the bench, Hinman and Petree; first string fullback, Bates, and the first string center, Stewart.

Reports from the bay city indicate that the Pirates will have more than an equal chance of defeating Medford. They possess a heavy line, most of the players having two or more years of experience, and a fast backfield. The Pirates have thus far played three games and have won all of them by a wide margin.

A large crowd of Medford rooters are reported to be going to the game Saturday. The Medford boys need every bit of support they can get for there is a prospective championship looming in the Tiger camp.

Impromptu cowboys rounded up the scattered livestock and the train proceeded on its way.

DROUGHT REDUCES THREE BAD PESTS

MANHATTAN, Kan.—(UP)—The drought and heat last summer basted the farmer's corn, but it also killed his three greatest insect pests—grasshoppers, chinch bugs and the Hessian fly. Other insect pests died, too, but the "big three" apparently suffered greatest loss to their ranks.

Professor Roger G. Smith, department of entomology, Kansas State college, explained soil temperatures were so high that the bugs could not live. A maximum soil temperature of 151 degrees was recorded, whereas most of the insects could not live on bare ground when the temperature was 120 degrees, Smith said.

Cinch bugs, taken from the under side of cornstalk leaves, became inactive within 10 seconds when placed on bare ground where the temperature was above 140 degrees. Most of the smaller insects died within a minute when so exposed, but the larger and harder specimens lived as long as 18 minutes.

Grasshoppers and chinch bugs normally thrive in hot weather, but last summer it was too hot even for them, Smith said. Millions of chinch bug eggs were killed by the heat, he believes.

GLEEMEN DONATE TIME AND EFFORT

(By Arthur W. Warnock.) Just what does associate membership support, on your part, mean for the Medford Gleemen? First and foremost, it means your attendance and approval at their two splendid concerts this season for which every one of the 40 business and professional men constituting the choir labor unceasingly. Second, the proceeds defray the barest necessary expenses to maintain the organization. That means new music and paying for other supplies that must be obtained. The Gleemen have no overhead of any description, no rent, no salaries. The director and assistant director give of their time and talent ungrudgingly.

In other words, the Gleemen may truthfully be said to be a civic-minded group of high-class business men who wish to help the community in a musical way, while at the same time they are enjoying the pleasure of singing for themselves as well as for other groups that need their services. If there is an unselfish organization that does more good for the whole valley, we do not see it. Quite apart from helping to support such a civic group that helps to raise musical standards, the purchaser of an associate membership is treating himself to two delightful evenings of music of a character that will be unsurpassed anywhere, no matter where you may look.
