

YUGOSLAV TROOPS REPORTED MOVING TO HUNGARY LINE

 gurating a "new deal" in Yugoslavia's internal policy and as the death of the harsh military regime instituted by King Alexander.
 The amnesty affecting the Croatian leaders at present in jail was expected to be extended to a large number of Croatian political leaders living abroad. The liberation of Dr. Koroshetz, once Alexander's premier and later one of his most formidable opponents was regarded as an expression of the regency's announced policy to bring real political peace and unity among the racial groups of the kingdom of the Croats, Serbs and Slovenes.

MAHONEY WARNS NEXT GOVERNOR

PORTLAND, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A threat that "Mahoney clubs" will exercise the recall "if the next governor does not keep the faith" was made here last night by Willie E. Mahoney, mayor of Klamath Falls, who in the May primary was defeated for the Democratic nomination as governor.
 Many of Mahoney's backers in the primary have since banded together throughout the state in the formation of "Mahoney clubs."

The young Klamath Falls mayor declared he does not intend to endorse any candidate for governor.
 "I am fighting," he said, "for the principles which I enunciated before the May primary, and I shall continue to do so as long as I have a breath of life to do so."

PRINCETON TO RENEW ANCIENT GRID RIVALRY

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 19.—(AP)—One of the oldest of all football rivalries will be renewed on October 17, 1934, when Princeton and Pennsylvania meet on Franklin Field in Philadelphia.
 Announcement that arrangements for a single game had been made, terminating an estrangement that has lasted for 40 years, came last night.
 Between 1876 and 1894, the two universities met 31 times with Princeton winning all but two of these games.

THIRD RECALL PUSHER ARRESTED IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Accused of filing a recall petition with false and fraudulent signatures Joe Waters, 52, was arrested here late yesterday and held at $2500.
 This was the third arrest of a petition circulator in the past few days. Waters had been seeking signatures for the recall of Mayor Carson. He was charged with having filed a petition carrying three fictitious names.

YUGOSLAVIA'S SCHOOLBOY RULER

Assassins' bullets which killed his father, King Alexander, and Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, as they rode in an automobile in Marseille, made this 11-year-old boy, Peter, the new king of Yugoslavia. The youth, who was named king under a regency a few hours after his father's death, has been attending an exclusive English boys school at Cobham, Surrey. (Associated Press Photo)

Following Meeting" in the October 8th Tribune, you are advised: "It is hoped by the officers of the lodge that a large turnout of members will be on hand because a matter of great importance to the local organization will be discussed during the meeting."
 The undersigned, a member of the Aerie, desires to join in this invitation, and especially to new Eagle members and non-attending members. Come up and ascertain for yourself what the "officers of the lodge" are going to discuss. We have reason to believe that the unfinished business of great importance is the reading of the verdict or indictment in the "Bim Gump" case against myself. I most certainly invite you to give the officers and committees of investigation a large turnout.

Arrived this Morning—Miss Flora Thurston, professor of parent education in child development at Oregon State college, arrived on the Oregonian this morning to conduct the parents' school at the courthouse today.

Communications

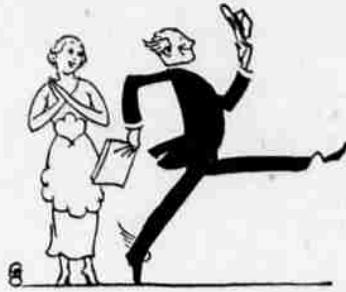

Favors Constant Change
 To the Editor: It was in the interest of all suffering stand-patters that Stanley Baldwin addressed himself when he said in his recent speech in Bristol: "We Tories, as a part of our heritage, have a profound sense of the value of historical continuity." Criticism was leveled against labor's pinkish drive for that minimum of "government in business" it believes necessary to make capitalism work. But the ungrateful conservative, sensing the danger to the privileged position occupied by the "robber barons" in the scheme of things, is so much alarmed as Mr. Hoover over the NRA, Hoover sees in it a breaking up of institutions that have stood the test of a thousand years of time. And it is therefore "wrong." An analogy might show the ridiculousness of the Hooverian contention.

Suppose the miners of one of the many mines once under the direction of the ideal ex-president, were to complain of the rotten condition of the shaft's cable attached to the cage which transported the men to and from their work. "Why boys, that cable has been in use for a thousand years! Surely you would not want such a fine thing junked." Perhaps it may be argued that the parallel is not parallel. Social institutions are not the same as a steel cable. And they are not. But they are identical in that they are attacked by the ravages of time. Both are structures differing only in degree.

The stand taken by these gentlemen would have point had they proved that the historical continuity they so cherish and want to extend perpetually, had no beginning in time. In this they failed us miserably. But like all parts of nature, institutions eventually come to an end.
 No doubt the same reason was advanced in support of cannibalism, slavery, serfdom, etc., by the Baldwins and Hoovers of those hard centuries.
 Paradoxical as it may seem, historical continuity is possible, but only through constant changes. Things cannot stay "put" in any other way.

Aromatic Turkish tobacco

On the sunny slopes of Smyrna . . . in the fertile fields of Macedonia . . . from the shores of the Black Sea . . . that's where the best kinds grow . . . the kinds used in making Chesterfields.

THERE are about as many kinds of Turkish tobacco as there are kinds of apples—but they all have a spicy aroma and flavor which seems to "season" a cigarette better than any other kind that grows.

The right Turkish is costly—but it adds something to Chesterfield's milder better taste.

When you go on your next cruise, stop at Smyrna and visit our tobacco factory. We think you will find it interesting.

Mellow-your-morning-mood

Why not match our mood to the morn this morning?

There it is, out there! Smiling away like everything! Dew pearls still adorning the grass! Snails making their early rounds! Flowers a-powdering their noses, so-to-speak.

Say! Let's step out and be part of this Brave Array, Eh? And, in order that we may, let's take on the geniality & generosity of spirit induced by a few S and W mellowed Coffee.

Yes inderdious!
S and W mellow'd Coffee is right up to the flavor-standard established these forty years by S and W Canned Fruits and Vegetables.
 What more need we say?
