

COUNTY TEACHERS OPPOSE LIMIT ON SCHOOL REVENUES

Gold Hill Pedagogue Heads County Association—275 Attend Institute—Rural School Exhibit.

With an attendance of 275 teachers of Jackson county met at the senior high school Friday in the annual teachers' institute, at which Dr. Walter Redford of the Southern Oregon Normal school was endorsed as vice president of the Oregon State Teachers' association, and Superintendent C. R. Bowman of Jackson county, member of the state board of control, Superintendent J. A. Thomason of Gold Hill was elected president of the county O. S. T. A. Mrs. Mabel Church, of the Medford schools, was elected vice-president, and Charles Weaver of Ashland junior high was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The report of the resolutions committee was adopted unanimously, which put the Jackson county association definitely on record as against the 20-mill tax limitation amendment, and in favor of the minimum salary law for teachers, which again becomes effective after the present school year. Resolutions adopted by the teachers showed that the body is definitely opposed to measures which would tend to take from the schools their statutory revenues.

Robert J. Maake, of the state department of education at Salem, gave the main address at the general assembly of the morning session, speaking on the policies of the state department. The history and work of the O. S. T. A. was outlined in a talk given by Mrs. Weaver, while Milton E. Coe, president of the county association, discussed the legislation of the state organization. Other speakers were Miss Charlotte Lindfoot, who addressed the general assembly in the afternoon on the work of the Junior Red Cross; Miss Grace Porrette, of the Oakley-Green school at Portland; Dr. Redford, who spoke on "The High School Student Enlarges Normal," and "High Lights and Lights." Miss Iris O'Brien, of the Normal school; Mrs. Esther Church Leake, Medford music supervisor; Supt. Coe, past president of the county O. S. T. A. and Mr. Weaver.

The teachers were divided into sections throughout the day, with discussions of each group's problems, and entertainment. The sessions in the morning met as follows: Primary section, Mrs. Blanche Canode, chairman; Intermediate grade teachers, Miss Annette Gray, chairman; high school superintendents, principals and teachers, Supt. H. L. Zozel, of Prospect, chairman. Mr. Maake addressed the high school problems.

In the afternoon groups were as follows: Grade teachers, Gareth Goddard, Mrs. Edith Fish and Ora Cox, chairmen; primary teachers, Mildred Beeson, chairman; high school principals, superintendents and coaches, Principal E. A. Whitman, chairman; high school teachers, Rolla Reedy, chairman.

Entertainment in the morning's general assembly consisted of two vocal solos by Mrs. Maurine Duncan, and two musical numbers played on the saw by William Vimont of the Willow Springs schools. The Jackson county teachers' chorus presented two numbers in the afternoon general assembly directed by Mrs. Leake, with Mary Chambers of the Talent schools, accompanist. They were "I Love Life" and "The Prophet."

From 4 to 6 p. m. a reception was given the new teachers and others who attended the institute, by the teachers' chorus, in the boys' gymnasium. Tea and water were served, and several musical numbers were presented. Mrs. Lois Young gave three readings and Mrs. R. C. Mulholland and Mrs. Eleanor Curry each presented vocal solos. Lucille Heed-er gave a Spanish dance, and Dorothy Gore played a violin solo.

An interesting display of what can be accomplished by rural schools was arranged in the primary department.

Fathers of University of Oregon students from Medford are all invited to go to Eugene November 3 for what is expected to be the liveliest, best attended "Dad's Day" in many years, according to word received here today from John T. Casey, Portland, who has been named student chairman for the annual event.

Students are already hard at work to make the event a record breaker in every way, Casey says. Since the campus enrollment of approximately 2500 is nearly 400 more than last year, a decided increase in attendance for "Dad's Day" is assured, and the larger crowd of fathers will find more new and interesting features than ever before awaiting them, it is declared.

FILM BEAUTIES DISPLAY AUTUMN STYLE NOVELTIES

Movie actresses, who make it their business to be up front in the fashion parade at each changing season, are wearing some handsome new fall outfits. At left above, Margaret Lindsay wears a smart black and white sports ensemble with chic black felt hat. At right, Patricia Ellis in a brown and tan plaid ensemble trimmed with black krummer. A riotous plaid in gray, white and black makes the jacket worn by Claire Trevor (center) an arresting feature of her costume. Note the matching floppy hat. (Associated Press Photos)

ROSES CONTINUE COLORFUL SHOW DESPITE AUTUMN

By Iva Fewell Edwards

Roses of the summer, blending their fragrance with the warm early breezes that are slowly making their way through the garden—this is a picture of the early roses. But seldom does one hear of the rich colorings—deeper as if for warmth—of the many roses that are blooming in October.

At the Medford Rose Gardens on Orchard Home Drive, C. T. Lester and Mrs. Harry Wilson have one hundred varieties of roses, with about ten thousand plants. The extensive gardens, Mr. Lester said, were in the height of blossoming about three weeks ago, but at the present time there remain some brilliant hues.

In the garden, where the roses are planted low after row, Mr. Lester is quite "at home," for there isn't a blossom in the great expanse that he cannot name, the type of rose, where it is best planted, and how to care for it during the winter months.

Guided through the garden by Mr. Lester, one finds the "Hoover," a pretty pink flower, and then a yellow rose, the "Golden Emblem." The bronze "Angelo Pernet," because of its color, seems particularly fitting for an autumn rose. The "Star of Fire" sets up a brilliant flare, near a yellow blossom, "Mrs. P. I. DuPont."

"Autumn" is a rose in pink, going into deeper shades, with bits of yellow in it. Then, one of the more perfect appearing is "Sweet Adeline." An attractive large flower is the "Duchess of York." In a deep pink shade, and the "Lord Lambourne" is yellow, with a pink tinge.

There are also some "Lady Margaret Stewart" roses, and in an Indian yellow is "Independence Day." A very double red rose, found in the blossoming tract is "E. C. Hill," and another pink variety is "Empress." The "Herriot," which Mr. Lester says blooms continually, is in a cerise shade.

ANCIENT TAVERN NOW IS HOME OF ARTISANS GUILD

Spot Where LaFayette Dropped In For Mug Of New England Ale Now Houses Unusual Organization.

OLD LYME, Conn. (UP)—Peck's Tavern, where in Revolutionary days the ladies of Old Lyme used to assemble to bake bread for soldiers, and where Lafayette dropped in for a refreshing mug of New England ale, now houses one of the most unusual craftsmen's guilds in the land.

There are teachers, brought from workers, weavers, bookbinders, potters, carriers of wood and ivory, reproducers of Colonial furniture, makers of fine tapestries, ships' bells and table chimes, sculptors and marine artists.

Depression Days

Because of the depression, money was scarce and machines were turning out inferior products in huge quantities. The work of the skilled artist recorded few sales.

This summer the Old Lyme Guild of Artists and Craftsmen was conceived as a co-operative Guildhall where the products of those skilled with their hands could be displayed under a single roof. Excellence of workmanship was the foundation stone of the Guild. Only those efforts embodying individuality and character, harmony of design and perfection were accepted.

Nationally Known Artists

Artists with national reputations consolidated their endeavors. Beatrice A. Hoffman, Caro Weir Ely, Elinor Sears, Dr. Herbert Thomas, Roger Griswold, Nathaniel C. Holl, Jr., Beate Potter Young, Fanny Dudley, Stanley Davis, James L. Pratt and many others joined hands to co-operatively revive interest in many forgotten trades. L. C. Eicher, engaged by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to help set up the home-stead school at Readville, W. Va., quickly joined.

Peck's Tavern, the second oldest frame house in Connecticut, was re-finished, its old furnishings reproduced and some of the former gaiety of the famous hostelry restored.

The guild is a non-profit-making organization. Four directors compose the committee on admissions. Exhibits are minutely scrutinized. Membership does not necessarily mean all specimens will be accepted. Only the best of creative effort find their way to the setting of the Colonial dwelling.

At present there are 43 exhibitors, some of whom are testing prosperity for the first time in several years.

ANNUAL DADS DAY AT UNIVERSITY IS SCHEDULED NOV. 3

Fathers of University of Oregon students from Medford are all invited to go to Eugene November 3 for what is expected to be the liveliest, best attended "Dad's Day" in many years, according to word received here today from John T. Casey, Portland, who has been named student chairman for the annual event.

Since the campus enrollment of approximately 2500 is nearly 400 more than last year, a decided increase in attendance for "Dad's Day" is assured, and the larger crowd of fathers will find more new and interesting features than ever before awaiting them, it is declared.

This year special effort will be made to get fathers to Eugene on Friday, so that "Dad's" will have an opportunity of observing his son or daughter in school. This day may also be used for individual conferences with faculty members and others, so that fathers may have a better and more intimate knowledge of the university and how it functions.

Casey has selected a directorate of students regarded as unusually well qualified to work out plans for the event. They include Ann-Reed Burne, Portland, banquet; Louise Beeson, Portland, registration; Mary McCracken, Portland, secretary; Dan Maloney, Eugene, publicity; and Mark DeLaunay, Eugene, advertising.
