

Gleemen Score in Opening Concert at Klamath Falls

By Arthur W. Warnock

Harry Poole's gorgeous $500,000 Pelican theater in Klamath Falls was the scene of the first concert of the season by the Medford Gleemen last night. A keenly appreciative audience of music lovers gave the Medford men much evidence in the way of applause, of its approbation and pleasure for the artistically chosen two-hour program that was offered.

Really it was the best program the Gleemen have yet given. The men were at their best and James Stevens, the director, was in fine fettle. Likewise the program was well chosen. There was something for every taste among the offerings. A trio of happy folk songs, a medley of sentiment, bits that brought back days gone by, tunes that the most casual listener enjoys. And yet not too much of any one thing. No indeed. That would have thrown the program out of balance and Mr. Stevens is too wise of a program maker to make that unhappy error.

There were 15 programmed numbers but calls for encores were so insistent that one gave up, quite hopelessly, the task of keeping the final count. The first group included "Winter Song" by Bullard, graceful and flashing with color; "Land Sighting," that dignified opus by Grieg, so virile in form; and "The Mascon of the Troop" by Victor Herbert, quite different from the other two and captivating in its line. And what a folklike dance number was "The Trumpeter" by J. Aldie Dix, the first selection of the second group, done with splendid taste. Sigmund Romberg's "Desert Song," specially arranged for the Gleemen by Martha DeSouza, to whom a verbal tribute is due for her talented showing, was wonderfully appealing with its delicate and grace. Whose tender and finer emotions have not been so insistent by "Trees." Trees is something about that exquisite little poem and its equally exquisite musical setting that plucks one away from the turmoil of human life, for the time being, into a realm of serenity and awe that few musical numbers have ever possessed. Well, the Gleemen did "Trees" better than these ears have ever heard it to a novel arrangement. Energetic of white rhythm and pliancy of melody "Trees" was most touching. Higher excellence in its rendition is quite unobtainable.

Sebastian Apollo, the talented accompanist and assistant director, played the quartet from Rigoletto. Done so well that the audience wanted more. So Mr. Apollo played, with artistic feeling, "Nola" by Arnt. Mr. Apollo by the way, treated the audience, before the program began, to the great number "Hungarian Lustspiel Overture" by Keler Bela on the Pelican's huge organ.

Mr. Stevens took his audience, after a brief intermission, into quite other realms. The next groups were brimming over with fun and frolic. The first venture into the land of lightness and laughter was "On the Road

OREGON LEADING NEWSPAPERS ENDORSE DUNNE FOR GOVERNOR

Tremendous Impetus Given Dunne's Campaign Through Endorsement by Portland News-Telegram, Oregon Voter and Eugene News.

Tremendous impetus was given to the candidacy of Joe E. Dunne, republican nominee for governor last Friday when he was enthusiastically endorsed by three publications of state-wide reputation, the Portland News-Telegram, the largest independent liberal newspaper in Oregon, the conservative Oregon Voter and Eugene News.

Martin Not Peoples' Man.

The Portland News-Telegram says: "Martin expediently assumes racial tendencies, hoping to appeal to those hard pressed by the times. There is nothing constructive nor economically sane about them. They would be disastrous were they put in vogue."

"As governor of this state, he would be a most dangerous menace to our social and economic welfare."

"Martin's utterances during this campaign have been derogatory to the state and insulting to its people. The statements of his sponsors have been equally bad."

"He is a partisan throughout and as governor would conduct a partisan administration. This the people of the state would not tolerate, especially since his backing comes from vested interests. He was influenced into the gubernatorial contest by these interests."

Dunne Qualified Represent People.

"On the other hand," says the News-Telegram, "Joe E. Dunne is qualified and capable."

"He is without a doubt better acquainted with the point of view of the average man than any other candidate on the ballot."

"He likes people and he enjoys fraternizing with them."

"He has made his own way through life and knows the hardships of the wage earner. Likewise, he has experienced the trials and tribulations of a business man."

"He knows Oregon and its people."

"He is a leader and a natural born booster."

"He has all the qualifications to make a good governor and he has

TOOK PILLS FOR 30 YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Mr. Forsythe Endorses ALL-BRAN for Constipation

If you suffer from headaches, loss of appetite and energy or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read this voluntary letter:

"After taking pills and tablets for about thirty years for constipation, I started to take your ALL-BRAN three times a day according to directions. Today I can eat cheese, and that is binding, and certainly feel fine."—Mr. Ed. Forsythe, Box 219, Youngtown, N. Y.

Science says ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using patent medicines—so often habit-forming?

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In serious cases use with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
