

SNELL TO DELAY SELECTING AIDES FOR FULL STUDY

SALEM, Nov. 8. (AP)—Earl Snell, who will take over the duties of secretary of state next January upon retirement of P. J. Stadelman, in an interview today stated he would make no changes in the personnel of the office until he has studied the conditions after he takes office, and then only in the interests of efficiency and economy in the operation of the business of the state.

More than a dozen applications have been received, he said, for the position of chief deputy, the position now held by George Flagg. Flagg was considered the most likely for the post, and a movement has been started in his behalf among republicans over the state. Others being urged for the job include Carl Moser, prominent American Legion member, and Elbert Bebe, Cottage Grove, editor.

WESTERN FACTORY PRODUCTS WILL BE BOOSTED IN WEEK

The products of western factories will go on parade throughout Oregon the week of November 17 to 24. Plans have just been announced by the Oregon Manufacturers' association for a state-wide campaign to encourage the more extensive use of these goods with the idea of building up state parades and increased demand for the raw materials of farm, stream, forest and mine.

The campaign will be headed by former Mayor George L. Baker of Portland, who now is manager of the Oregon Manufacturers' association. Through the medium of newspapers, radio, magazines, window displays, mass meetings and special sales, the importance to Oregon of a concerted support of the products of western factories will be driven home.

The factories will co-operate to the extent of providing the stores with advertising, window displays and products with which to conduct special sales. It is their purpose to show the people of Oregon that the products of their own western factories are the equivalent of those of other sections and that by discriminating in favor of them the state is being built up in payroll, employment and general prosperity.

Chambers of commerce throughout Oregon will hold meetings during the week to further the campaign. Speakers will explain the importance of co-operation and committees will work with local merchants in furthering the cause.

"It is not just a week of sales of western products," explains Manager Baker, but a campaign to show our people the importance of supporting their own factories in preference to those of sections doing us no good. We hope to build up the demand for western products and to make that demand permanent. By so doing, we will increase payrolls and will create a greater field for industry here. This is very essential with completion of the Bonneville power project coming upon us."

PEAR AND APPLE SPRAY ADVISABLE

Pear and apple growers can well afford to take advantage of any good weather at this time and apply their dormant lime sulphur spray for the control of San Jose scale and pear leaf blister mite, states L. P. Wilcox, county agent.

The advantages of fall spraying are many, especially in cases where orchards are located on heavy clay soils that remain wet and soft late in the spring.

Liquid lime sulphur, 12 gallons in the 100 gallons of water, applied any time before the foliage is off, will be effective in the control of scale and blister mite insects.

Growers following the above suggested program should not start their spraying too early in the morning, permitting frost and other moisture to disappear from the tree first. Oils should be exercised in draining the spray pump in order to forestall any freezing of this important orchard equipment.

There will be a heavy movement during the holidays to eastern markets. No price has yet been established. The San Francisco market is quoted from 22 to 24 cents per pound; the Portland market from 20 to 23 cents for dressed birds.

CITY AND COUNTY ARE URGED ENTER HEALTH CONTEST

In connection with the health conservation contest being conducted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the American Public Health Association, Dr. James Wallace, field director, is in Medford contacting the Chamber of Commerce, the city and the county health departments.

There are now two health contests, one for cities and the other for counties which have a full-time health service, so that Medford is eligible to participate in the city contest, and Jackson county in the rural contest.

For the city contest all cities are divided into six population groups, whereas for the rural contest the whole of the United States is divided into six geographical divisions. Oregon, of course, belongs in the western or Pacific division.

The United States Chamber of Commerce is giving awards to the first six cities and the first six counties standing highest in each of these groups and divisions. A special award is given to some city or county not winning an award, in the form of a free health survey. Tacoma was the lucky city in getting the survey among cities for 1933.

Dr. Wallace reports a large number of substantial improvements which have been effected in different communities through the contest and the direct interest in health work taken by the public health committee of the chambers of commerce. The main purpose of the committee is to give information to groups of people, such as are identified with chambers of commerce, in regard to the local health organization, their programs and their problems, and it is as a result of this information that many improvements have been effected.

Main items upon which both counties and cities are scored are the following: The existence of an active, interested health committee of the chamber of commerce, the community's water supply, sewage disposal, milk supply, health work in the schools, preventive measures such as immunization against diphtheria and vaccination against smallpox, public health nursing activities, use of the services of physicians and dentists, laboratories, clinics and conferences; popular health education such as the use of newspaper publicity, pamphlets, lectures, etc.; the community's record in reducing deaths from preventable causes and finally the general control of communicable diseases and what the community is spending for public health purposes.

Fair enough

WE tell you that Chesterfield Cigarettes are made of mild, ripe tobaccos. We've told you about the paper—that it's pure and burns right, without taste or odor.
We have said that Chesterfields are made right. The tobaccos are aged, then blended and cross-blended, and cut into shreds the right width and length to smoke right.

These things are done to make what people want—a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better—a cigarette that satisfies.

You can prove what we tell you about Chesterfield. May we ask you to try them—that would seem to be fair enough.

Strictly on their merits
