REPAIR OF STATE OWNED HOUSES IN FULL SWING HERE

Work has been started on the project recently announced by the World War Veterans' State Aid commission, under which about 25 houses in Medford and Ashland will be improved.

The purpose of the project, under which Carl Y. Tengwald, local representative of the commission, states that $999,60 will be spent for material and labor, is to provide relief work and put the houses in shape for selling.

Materials for the improvement campaign are furnished through the state, and all labor is supplied from SERRA relief rolls. Materials are purchased locally with the exception of paint, which is retailed through local merchants.

Tengwald estimated that the project will necessitate an expenditure of over $10,000, and will continue for three weeks.

Houses now being repaired, as listed at the city building department, are: 121 Kenwood avenue, rehandling, new floors, $250; 43 Summit avenue, replace stucco with siding, $300; 1105 West Main street, rehandling and new joists and sills, $300; 208 Clark street, rehandling, $200; 401 South Oakdale, remodel, $800. All of these houses will be repainted, Tengwald said, besides undergoing the reconstruction work.

Playing the part in which he was started in the stage production that ran 225 performances on Broadway and 200 in London, Fred Astaire is again starred in "The Gay Divorcee," this time in its screen counterpart coming tomorrow to the Craterian theater.

Co-starring with the nimble-footed Astaire is Ginger Rogers, and this popular team, who scored such a sensational success in "Flying Down to Rio" because of their interpretation of the fiery, tempestuous "Carole" in that film, are again shown in somewhat the same type of roles, and again show their flying feet in a new dance craze, the Continental.

'Lemon Drop Kid' Is Damon Runyon Yarn A new Damon Runyon yarn, "The Lemon Drop Kid," with the self-assured, fast-talking Lee Tracy in the title role, opened last night at the Rialto theater. In this new picture you will meet some of Runyon's most colorful and amusing characters who, in the course of many sly and luring adventures, do unusual things just as if they were everyday occurrences.

Following a particularly nerve-racking escapade, the "Kid" is forced to desert his pals and makes a quick getaway to a small town where the local "nerf-do-well" offers him generous hospitality which the "Kid" accepts with typical unconcern.

But when his host's beautiful daughter falls in love with him and wants him to reform and accept a fifteen-dollar-a-week job, the "Kid" is stunned and begins a counter plot of his own until he, too, falls under the spell. It is at this point that the picture's action takes a new turn, for the "Kid" is resourceful, whether he is in love or not.

Humor and drama are effectively mixed and the picture emerges as one of Runyon's best efforts.

Glittering Revue On Craterian Stage A glittering musical revue, with eight acts an ensemble of beautiful girls in cellophane, is the "Girls in Cellophane Revue" on the stage of the Craterian theater for today only.

On the screen is a unique mystery drama, "Death on the Diamond," combining romance and comedy with its mystery, and featuring Robert Young, Madge Evans, Nat Pendleton and Ted Healy.

Billy Wade, assisted by Lou Beverly, headlines the stage unit and, as the "All-American Half-Wit" brings uproarious comedy into the show.

Others in the revue include Leland Adair, sonographer; Anita Conrad, acrobatic; Vincent Haydock, dancing rhythm; Dorothea and Andre, adagio exponents; Meehan and Conrad, staid dancers; the Rex Family in a sensational acrobatic novelty, and the Club Monte Carlo orchestra. "The Girls in Cellophane," naturally, are also featured in ensemble routines.

JUNIOR COLLEGE TITLE FAVORED FOR NORMALS ASHLAND, Ore., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Inclusion of "junior college" in the titles of Ashland and La Grande Normal schools is favored by President Walter Redford of Southern Oregon Normal.

He endorsed the suggestion by Mrs. Walter Pierce, member of the board of higher education, that legislation be enacted to permit the new titles.

MARSHALL FIELD DIVORCE HURRIED

RENO, Nev., Nov. 14.—(AP)—A hasty Reno divorce trial, moved up to first place on the day's court program to accommodate Mrs. Field's New York attorney, today ended the marriage of pretty English born Audrey James and Marshall Field, III.

A charge of extreme mental cruelty, details of which were not revealed, won the divorce decree for Mrs. Field at a private hearing before District Judge Thomas F. Moran.

The millionaire grandson of the late Chicago merchant prince did not contest the case.

As was the case when Field was divorced here in 1930 by Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field, his first wife, all property rights involved in the pending suit have been settled by agreement.
