Lutheran Aid To Meet Thursday

The Ladies' Aid society of Zion Lutheran church meets next Thursday afternoon in the church parlors with Mrs. A. O. Pederson as hostess.

Activities of Legion Auxiliary

The first meeting of the Ladies Choral club will be held next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Girls' Community club house. Mrs. Elsie Carlton Strang is director, Miss Juanita Butler accompanist, and Mrs. Louise Humphrey is in charge of publicity for this newly organized group.

This club is not confined to Legion Auxiliary members, but anyone interested in singing may belong. We wish this club success. Such an organization will be of great benefit to Medford and the community.

Mrs. Earl York, chairman of the national defense committee for the auxiliary, has submitted the following article, taken from the navy number of the American Legion Monthly:

"What constitutes an adequate national defense? The United States navy, with its proud traditions of service to the nation, must assume a big share of the task of answering that question in the troubled present and the uncertain future.

"Our national security depends upon our power to defend our shores and our overseas possessions and citizens of the country from hostile attack at any point over which the American flag flies. Our national security depends further upon the uninterrupted importation, across wide oceans, of raw materials essential to our major industries, and hence to the life of the nation. Our economic organization, extending beyond our land boundaries, is vulnerable and must be protected on the sea.

"What constitutes an adequate navy? How 'big' should the navy be? Big enough for its primary and auxiliary tasks. Effective enough in personnel and ships to do the job of defending our shoreline and our possessions, however strong may be the enemy against us.

"We are now far short of our defense needs. We are not so short of tonnage, but there are at least 102 ships in our fleet—about sixty of them destroyers—which are pitifully out-of-age and well-nigh worn out. They are spoken of contemptuously as 'corks,' and that's just what they would prove to be in an emergency. The reason for this situation lies in our consistent failure since the World war to carry on a proper program of replacement. Other nations have moved along, building steadily to replace old ships. We have not.

"Given a program of building and replacing of ships and aircraft, and sufficient personnel to make them effective, the United States navy may consider itself equipped to live up to its proud motto of being the first line of national defense. Is it worth it? The answer is that the United States navy is a national insurance worth all it costs even if no emergencies arise to disturb the future."

Benson Pupils In Dance Revue Craterian Stage

Friday evening brought a most interesting display in the form of a dance revue by the Benson Studio at Hunt's Craterian. The students received much praise on the perfect technique exhibited.

The introductory number by the beginners displayed simplicity and perfection. The tots appeared very much at ease before the footlights some for the first time. They were: Charlotte Older, Veverly Birk, Dolores Dell, Barbara Brooks, Helen Rubenstein, Florence Harwood and Walter Whisenant.

"Les Papillonnes" (The Butterflies) was interpreted by Barbara Boyan, Gretchen McAllister, Joan Buchter, Ruth Siorsh, Patti Mattison, Betty Green and Akiko Saito. The young ladies carried their audience back to a day in June as they seemed to be wafted into a picture which could be surpassed only by nature itself.

"Spanish Gypsy Life," presented by the following little girls, held the close attention of their audience: Regina Parsons, Audrey Kullber, Joan Moie, Alice Takahira, Helen Rubenstein, Barbara Brooks, Silyl Hagen, Gretta Hansen, Barbara Earl Jacquelyn Morris and Ruth Siorsh. Attired in typical gypsy costumes, they danced around two appropriate fires, pausing long enough to have their fortunes told in true gypsy fashion.

"Rhythm Tap" was danced by Gretchen McAllister, Barbara Hoy and Dorell Adams. Several steps in this number were presented by Fred Astaire in the musical comedy, "The Gay Divorcee," and the audience declared that the trio performed in a very professional manner.

The acrobatic group consisted of Akiko Saito, Barbara Boyan, Joan Buchter, Alice Takahira and Joan Moie.

Daddies' Night Observed At Local Schools Friday

Lincoln School Daddies' night was observed Friday at the Lincoln school, a large number of parents as well as guests attending.

The luncheon was attractively decorated in keeping with the spirit of Thanksgiving. A turkey supper was served that was enjoyed by everyone.

Following supper, the guests were entertained by an interesting program in the auditorium.

Lieut. Roy D. Craft of the Medford Civilian Conservation corps, gave a short address and introduced Mr. Smith, the master of ceremonies. The program consisted of the following numbers: "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" and "I Like Mountain Music," Louis Parker, piano; C. Lockett, mandolin; Mace W. Hinthorn, C. A. Tingleaf, guitars, and Bruno Bursiell, violin. Solos, "La Paloma" and "Pagan Love Song," J. J. Carollas, harmonica solos, "Over the Waves" and "Strawberry Roan," by Mr. Monico, and a reading, "Mrs. Brindie's Music Lesson," by Mr. Parker.

Lieutenant Craft then introduced D. E. Wiedman, educational coordinator of this district, who told the audience of the educational and vocational work in the Civilian Conservation corps that would better fit the young men to assume more responsible positions when they leave the corps. He is coordinator of the 28 camps in the Medford district.

Mrs. Flory, chairman, then introduced acting city superintendent, C. G. Smith, who explained to the audience the six cardinal aims of education, the health, basic fundamentals, vocational training, preparing for citizenship duties, use of leisure time, building character, and training for worthy home membership.

Following the address, several other musical numbers were enjoyed, including, "There's a Home in Wyoming," "When It's Lamp Lightin' Time in the Valley," "Appie Cider Time" and "Pretty Quadroon," by John Selvey and Lee Boothby, radio entertainers.

Mr. Smith, master of ceremonies, sang two solos, "Long, Tall, Brown-Skinned Gal" and "Everybody's Good To Me."

Miss Gumelius' room, the 4A, was awarded the prize for having the most daddies present.

Washington School

That parents are answering the challenge "Your School Needs You" was evident Friday night at the Washington school when more than 150 parents attended the annual Daddies' night dinner.

The fathers responded to the invitation, a large number being present. After an exchange of greetings, the group conducted a grand march, with Mrs. Eva Prentice playing the accordion and Mrs. Mabel Sims at the piano.

During the evening, figures were given, showing an increase in membership of approximately forty per cent.

The following program was given, opening with community singing: A. E. Brockway, master of ceremonies, introduced Mrs. J. K. Hoey, president of the Washington school.

Volunteer clergymen in the Medford CCC district, have consented to visit the camps, and according to a welfare bulletin published at the headquarters here, the following schedule has been arranged, according to zones. As yet no arrangements have been made for ministers to visit the Seiad and Spring flat camps in northern California.

Yreka zone: Camp South Fork Rogue River, November 27, G. R. Durham, Medford; Camp Oak Knoll, November 27, Rev. R. T. Holmes, Ashland; and Camp Yreka, November 27, Rev. Father William J. Meagher, Medford.

City Park zone: Camp Rand, November 20, Rev. Father William J. Meagher, Medford; Camp Wimer, November 27, Rev. Joseph Knott, Medford; Camp Evans Creek, November 27, Rev. D. E. Millard, Medford; Camp Elk Creek, November 22, G. R. Durham, Medford, and Camp Applegate, November 27, Rev. Ralph Peterson, Phoenix.

Fractures Arm—Mrs. M. A. Parks, of Beagle, Ore., is in this city at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Arthur Heas, having been treated at a Medford hospital for a fractured arm. She received the injury Thursday afternoon when she fell while getting out of a car. Mrs. Parks is 84 years of age.

WINDOW GLASS—By well window glass and fire-escape fire breaker windows reasonably iron-bridge can net works.
