Rialto Star

Capturing the spirit and beauty of the novel from which it was adapted, "The Age of Innocence," starring Irene Dunne and John Boles, comes to the Rialto theater tomorrow. Noted as one of the classics of modern American literature, the story deals with the convention-ridden era that marked the close of the last century, and gives intimate glimpses of life as lived by members of New York's then Four Hundred. The picture is said to adhere closely to the story of Edith Wharton's book, which won the Pulitzer prize in 1920.

"The Age of Innocence" centers about the romance of a freedom-loving girl for a man who strives to throw off the shackles of a narrow social code. Drawn together by kindred interests and a lifelong friendship that ripens into love, they are confronted with the alternative of sacrificing their own happiness or that of those whom they would not wound.

The film marks the first joint appearance of Miss Dunne and John Boles since their memorable "Back Street," and the supporting cast includes Lionel Atwill, Helen Westley, Laura Hope Crews and Julie Hayden.

Spectacle Now On Craterian Screen Delights Audience

What is probably Cecil B. DeMille's greatest spectacle, in a long line of motion picture productions, "Cleopatra," the noted director's latest production, was presented at the Craterian theater last night. All the glory that was Egypt, all the grandeur that was Rome, is shown here in a screen masterpiece, bringing to the motion picture once again all the talent of the master of spectacle.

War chariots thunder across the battle, spears glitter in the thrill of the battles, dancing girls swing and swirl through grand marble halls, and back of it all, in clear tones, ring the world's greatest love story that has lived throughout the ages.

With Claudette Colbert, Warren William and Henry Wilcoxon in the principal roles, the film boasts of a grand array of star talent, a veritable army of extras (more than 5,000 men, women and children took part) and a supporting cast that includes Ian Keith, Joseph Schildkraut, C. Aubrey Smith, Gertrude Michael, Irving Pichel, William Farnum, Robert Warwick, Jack Mulhall, Edwin Maxwell and Harry Beresford.

ledge that all is well with the country and that we are coming back." At Birmingham, Ala., an industrial center, he gave assurance of the administration's "keenest concern" for heavy industries, and asserted that obstructionists "do not reflect the views of the overwhelming majority of the people."

Industry Watched To the throng which greeted him he said: "I well understand the problem of the heavy industries, such as iron, steel and coal—industries upon which you so largely depend. They are matters of the keenest concern to the whole administration."

Tonday the cheery chief executive ruminated over a stack full of government reports for new plans but apparently was determined to keep the government on its present course without material deviation of much new legislation.

He reached this settlement which he has fostered after 10 o'clock (C.S.T.) last night but the folk were out to greet him as they were out at every turn throughout his three-day trip through the south.
