

INSURANCE COVERS FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN SHARES

Savings invested in shares of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Medford are now insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the United States government. R. F. Kyle, secretary of the association, announced today. Each investor in shares in that institution is now fully protected against loss up to $5000. Mr. Kyle said.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, created by congress last June, affords protection for investors in thrift and home-financing institutions under a different method than that followed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, organized in 1933, in insuring depositors in commercial banks. The former operates in the long-term savings and home financing field to insure the safety of the investor's capital, whereas the latter insures bank deposits.

"The safety features now made available by federal insurance is open to all savings and loan, building and loan and homestead associations, and co-operative banks which apply for insurance, provided that they are approved as to solvency and operating methods by the federal home loan board," said Mr. Kyle.

"The financial breakdown of 19 months ago disclosed an imperative need for the protection of long-term savings invested for income in the thrift and home-financing institutions of the country, which aggregate the vast total of $7,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000, held by some ten million people of all classes and occupations, largely wage-earners and salaried workers.

"Safety for long-term savings presents a different problem than safety of checking and time deposits where funds must be available for payment on short notice. A special federal agency, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, was therefore established to handle this type of insurance. It has a capital of $100,000,000, subscribed by the government. In addition, the corporation is building up a substantial reserve fund from annual premiums paid in by all insured institutions. Moreover, the privilege of insurance through the corporation is extended only to well-managed, financially sound institutions which meet the strict eligibility requirements of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation."

The First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Medford was organized under a 1933 act of congress, by which the formation of private, locally managed thrift and home-financing institutions under federal charter and regulation was made possible. Either as associations or as conversions of existing state-chartered institutions.

"The purpose of congress in providing for federally chartered institutions was to make credit available at low cost for home construction, refinancing and modernization in parts of the country where such funds were inadequate," said Mr. Kyle. "At the same time, institutions so organized and managed encourage the practice of thrift by people of large, as well as small, means.

"To aid in the organization of these associations, congress authorized United States treasury subscriptions in their shares, so that the capitalization now represents federal funds, as well as the investment of private savings. To date almost 600 federal associations have been established throughout the country.

"A substantial increase in the amount of home financing resources in this locality will satisfy the growing demand for home loans for all purposes, strengthen the real estate price structure, lesson foreclosures and add to employment in the building trades and the large number of industries dependent upon construction activity."

Mr. Kyle pointed out that, in addition to the advantage of safety, shares in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Medford can be expected to yield a reasonable dividend return, and are exempt from normal federal income tax, are non-assessable and have no contingent liability.

A BEST-DRESSED MAN PICKS BEST-DRESSED WOMEN

Adolphe Menjou, more or less officially rated the best-dressed man in the movies, named these four women in his own list of the "ten best-dressed women in the world." Left to right: Mme. Schiaparelli, Paris style authority, whom he termed "infinitely smarter than most of the women she dresses"; Kay Francis of the films, "whose taste is impeccable"; Mrs. Harrison Williams of New York, only last spring named by Time magazine as the best-dressed woman in America, and (lower inset) Joan Bennett, also of the films. JONES PETITIONS FOR PEN PAROLE IN BOARDS HANDS

According to word received by the district attorney's office, the petitions circulated in this county, Josephine county and Crescent City, Cal., asking a parole for Walter J. Jones, former mayor of Rogue River, serving four years in state prison for conviction of ballot theft, have been filed with the state parole board.

The petitions are reported as being freely signed by residents of the town of Rogue River and adjoining territory, also in Crescent City and Del Norte county, where Jones formerly lived.

Hearing on the parole application is scheduled at the next meeting of the state parole board December 8, at Medford. Matters pertaining to the parole application rest with the attorney general's office.

The previous good record of Jones and the present ill health of his wife are reasons set forth in the application.

Jones, past 60 years of age, was a leader in the "Good Government Congress" turmoil and an active lieutenant of Agitators Banks and Fehl. He was also one of the "alibi witnesses" for L. A. Banks in the latter's trial for murder at Eugene.

Parole plea of E. H. Fehl and J. Arthur Ladieu, also serving four years for conviction of the same offense, are scheduled to come before the parole board at its December session. Some action is expected to be taken in the case of Gordon L. Schermerhorn, former sheriff, also convicted of ballot theft conspiracy. The attorney general's office, at the time of sentencing Schermerhorn, acquiesced in the proposal to recommend his parole after he had served six months, which expires January 1 next.

Becks Bakery Has New Delivery Car Of Latest Design

Beck's Bakeries are celebrating Oregon Products Week with a new streamline truck body in Medford, according to Michael Beck. The body, which is mounted on a new Chevrolet truck, is the latest thing in bakery equipment. Everything is arranged for speed and convenience. The new truck will cover the territory between Medford, Klamath Falls and North Bend, where the three Beck's bakeries are located. Mr. Beck says they now have a fleet of eight trucks and one sales coupe. As soon as the trucks are taken out of service they will be replaced with the new streamline models.

Mr. Beck has just installed a $2000 wrapping machine in the Medford plant and several thousand dollars' worth of equipment in the Klamath Falls bakery.

CHARLES C. CHITWOOD DRUGGIST OF J'VILLE IS CALLED BY DEATH

Charles C. Chitwood, a resident of Jacksonville for the past 12 years where he has owned and operated the Jacksonville drug store, passed away at his home there Tuesday morning. While his health had not been the best for some time, death came as a great shock. Mr. Chitwood was born at Salem, Oregon, July 28, 1867.

At the age of four years he came to southern Oregon with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. John H. Chitwood, settling in Ashland. In 1902 he was united in marriage to Minnie A. Applegate at Klamath Falls, where Mr. Chitwood was operating a drug store. After living there for 21 years, they moved to Jacksonville, where they have since resided.

Besides his wife, Minnie Chitwood, he is survived by one daughter, Dorothy, of Jacksonville; one brother, H. T. Chitwood of Portland, and one sister, Mrs. B. K. Ogilvie of Jacksonville, also a wide circle of friends. He was a member of Warren Lodge No. 10, A. F. and M., of Jacksonville.

Funeral services will be held at the Conger funeral parlors Friday, November 23, at 2 p. m. Rev. Jones will have charge of services at the chapel, and the Jacksonville Masonic lodge will conclude the services at the grave, in the Jacksonville cemetery.

ARMY RECRUITING STATION TO OPEN

A permanent recruiting station may be reopened in Medford soon, according to Staff Sergeant Lee S. Renfro, of the U. S. army recruiting service, who was in Medford this week.

The recruiting station was closed here some time ago, but many excellent vacancies are opening up in the army and it is possible the station may be restored here.

Young men considering a military career will be interested to know there are several vacancies in the Philippine Islands for men with special qualifications, such as expert mechanics for the air service, armorers, electricians and clerks for the air service, clerks, carpenters and painters for the quartermaster corps, clerks and mechanics for the ordnance corps and qualified radio men for the signal corps.

There are vacancies for practically every branch of the service in various parts and stations of the Ninth Corps area, says Sergeant Renfro. These include such stations as Fort Lewis, Fort Wright, Fort Warden and Vancouver Barracks in Washington, Fort Douglas, Utah, Fort Missoula, Mont., and the Presidio of San Francisco in California.

All Alaskan replacements are made from the 7th Infantry at Vancouver Barracks.

$150,000 CROP LOANS HAVE BEEN PAID BACK

Re-payment of loans to the Medford Production Credit Association to date total more than $150,000, according to Luther K. Deuel, manager. Most of the repayments have been on fruit crop loans and are still being received.

Receipts of applications for 1935 crop and other forms of loans will start in December, according to Deuel.

Many of the fruit loans have been partially repaid, with the grower still possessing pears in storage, awaiting sale and shipment.

CLOSE SIFTING OF ATTORNEY TIMBER BAR CHIEF'S PLAN

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Nov. 21.—(AP)—A step designed to make the legal profession of Oregon "the guardian of the liberties and rights of our people," was announced here today by Circuit Judge James T. Brand, newly-elected president of the Oregon State Bar association.

Judge Brand revealed he had appointed Will H. Marsters of Portland, chairman of the committee which will investigate the character of every applicant for admission to the Oregon bar, and will recommend against the admission of anyone found not to possess the required character. Other members of this committee are John C. Kendall and Thomas G. Greene, also of Portland.

The Marshfield jurist said the bar association is fully cognizant of the fact that those who need the aid of an attorney must depend as much on his character as on his learning, and that the group would make every effort to safeguard the interests of its clientele.

Candidates for admission to the bar of Oregon will have every opportunity for a fair examination and full hearing, Judge Brand said. The name of anyone in question will not be revealed until such time as the supreme court proceeds to determine the worthiness of applicants.

The new plan under which candidates are to be thoroughly investigated has been established with the aid of the supreme court, Judge Brand revealed. The high court will order a hearing whenever this is considered necessary.

PLOWS BUSY IN REMOVING SNOW
GRANTS PASS, Nov. 21.—(Sp.)—Snowplows were roaring in four sections of the Southern Oregon highway district Tuesday to clear deepening snow from the main roads, according to reports from J. G. Bromley, resident maintenance engineer.

One foot of snow is being plowed on the Grants Pass highway between Grants Pass and the Grants Pass national park, as far as the highway department clears.

With one foot at Union creek on the Crater Lake highway, plows were Tuesday working between there and Prospect. Union creek, at the boundary of the Crater Lake national park, is as far as the highway department clears.

Plows are also working to clear 10-inch blankets of snow off the Blakely section of the Pacific highway south of Ashland and off the Greensprings road near the Pacific highway junction to the Klamath river. The work on the Greensprings road has been under way since Sunday, also.

NUDIST DWELLERS OF LONELY ISLES MAY FURNISH KEY

die today that may be solved only by men whose life study is the origin of life.

Members of a scientific expedition leaving here Friday find three phases of the unfinished story of the tragedy of two starved and thirst ravaged bodies found on the volcanic sands of a little black beach of a tiny waterless islet of the Galapagos archipelago, a thousand miles southeast of the Panama canal.

These phases are:
Where is the vanished "empress," whose one-ferret court costume was a pair of silk panties? It is six months since this Baroness de Wagnere dropped from sight at the old convict isle of Charles, where the story of the tragedy begins.

What is the terrible secret locked in the hearts of a nude couple, an Adam and Eve, who sit in a little shack at the end of a black dust road built on the isle of Charles by forgotten men in forgotten days? Dr. Friederich Bitter, and his mate, Frau Dore Strauch-Kowarski, wrote to their best friend in the civilized world, who heads the party of scientists, that they will tell him something they couldn't write, when he arrives there early next month.

Are the bodies those of Alfred Rudolph Lorenz, of Paris, brought to the island two years ago by the baroness, and of a Norwegian fisherman whose name is believed to be Nuggrood? That is what Capt. G. Allan Hancock, patron of science, who each year leads a scientific expedition to the archipelago, is wondering.

Lurid are the details of the history of the slim, 35-year old woman from Paris, since her arrival about two years ago at Charles island, loneliest inhabited island in the world.
