Tom Tyler at Roxy Saturday

Tom Tyler, hard fisted, fast shooting, king of the western stars, will push down the trail at the Roxy theater tomorrow in "Mystery Ranch."

At Craterian

"Ring" at the Rialto theater where their newest gag-fest opened yesterday. Last night's audience was in one continuous guffaw at the antics of the crazy comics. As a pair of vaudeville magicians impersonating two gentlemen native to the south, both Bert and Bob find plenty of opportunity to indulge in their various little "tricks" much to the merriment of the audience.

Concerning an age-old feud between two Kentucky clans, the plot abounds in exciting action and hilarious situations. As an added attraction, the Rialto has a two reel comedy, starring Walter Catlett in "The Fuller Gush Man," and of all the uproarious happenings that ever fell to the lot of one man, Catlett seems to have drawn the whole affair.

The program plays at the Rialto theater until tomorrow night, with Olive Brook and Diana Wynyard as the stars of "Let's Try Again," the preview after the last regular show—a regular Saturday night feature. There is no extra charge.
