GRATER TO PRINT GRIDDERS PHOTOS

Individual action pictures of 22 high school grid men were taken Thursday morning on the practice field, according to editor of The Grater, Bill Barstow. The photos were snapped by Verne Shangle with the assistance of Coach D. K. Burgher. They will be displayed in the athletic section of The Grater annual-magazine.

The aim of the publication this year is to advertise southern Oregon and the attractions of the northern portion of the state. It will be the most modernistic publication to be issued this coming year, and will be off the press during May, 1935.

Boys whose pictures were taken for The Grater were: Ronald Baker, Bill Bates, Owen Bates, Jim Bayliss, Russ Brown, John Dickinson, Paul Dorf, Keith Estes, Ray Ettinger, Bob Fowler, Leo Ghelardi, Herbert Gifford, Earl Harrison, Bob Hinman, Burdette Kindred, Stan Kunzmann, Ray Lewis, Bob Ottoman, Joe Pierce, Don Stewart, Bob Smith, Oarf Severson, Walt Young.

HOWARD PAGEANT DEPICTS HISTORY

Pupils of Howard school, under the supervision of Principal Newson and the teachers, presented an interesting and educational pageant of Oregon history events, Friday evening. The pageant depicted the lives of Oregon's famous men, the march of historical events, and displaying of the Oregon seal and state flag.

A large colored map showed the counties of the state, and the famous landmarks of early Oregon, which were explained by four Boy Scouts of Troop 16. The Indian wars were shown by a portrayal of the signing of the peace treaty with the Indians at Table Rock.

A large and appreciative audience viewed the pageant, and complimented the students in their presentation.

TOYSTOY PLAY BY ASHLAND NORMAL CAST IS LAUDED

Before a packed auditorium, the Southern Oregon State Normal school presented Leo Tolstoy's "The Living Corpse," at the school Friday and Saturday evenings. Many compliments were given members of the cast for their interpretation of the difficult play, and special praise went to Mr. and Mrs. Angus L. Bowmer, who were directors.

Set in the native country of the author, Russia, Angus Bowmer took the part of Petya, and Kitty Patrick Ingie portrayed the role of Lisa, his wife. Midst dissatisfaction with his home and wife, Petya fell in love with Masha, a gypsy girl, which part was well acted by Florence Bellinger, on Friday evening, with Beulah Heath playing the part Saturday. Lisa, in turn, fell in love with Victor Karenin, Holla Reedy being cast as this character.

It being impossible for Petya to get a divorce, Masha conceived the idea of his desiring a corpse. His identity was established after five years, and being sentenced to exile in Siberia for five more years with his wife, Petya committed suicide prior to his sentence.

Others taking part in the play, were Vlasta Hannon, Harriet Smith, Beverly Young, Peggy McCaughey, Marilyn Young, Frank Conway, Robert McCaughey, Robert Root, Violet Walters, Karl Moore, Warren Doremus, John Billings, Bob McGoy, Norman Benson, Bill McCollum, Neal Collins, George F. Smith, Robert Stedman and Peggy Young.

Members of the orchestra, which was directed by Gordon Claycombe, and presented appropriate Russian music, were: Lawrence Hubert, Florence Hubert, Mary Robinson, Alice Coggins, Andrew Johnson, Leonard Pettit, Frank King, Chester Woods, Phyllis Sparr, Frank Jordan, Edgar Blake, Orville Hall, Rosa Franco and Antoinette Detcheva.

Those on the production staff were: business and publicity manager, Robert Dodge, assisted by Lucille Burtis, Ollie Dewey, Rachel Forsythe and George Smith; properties, Marion Aty, Nellie Breeding, Jean Crawford; scenery and costumes, Lols M. Bowmer; stage manager, Robert Stedman, assisted by Byron Johnson, Joe Early, Bill Lyman, Jack Sanderson, Betty Dean, Allen Rogers, Winnifred Roseborough, Violet Walters, Esther Roberts, Dorothy Lee and Robert Root; wardrobe mistress, Marjorie Goff, Maxine Gearhart, Frances Anderson, Frances Moller, and Beth Gillings.

FORTUNE SOUGHT FOR BABIES

The long court battle over division of the $25,000,000 estate of the late Sth Reynolds, young tobacco heir, took a new turn when a plea was filed in Winston-Salem, N. C., on behalf of Reynolds' posthumous son, Christopher, asking that the child be made sole heir. The baby is shown with his mother, Libby Holman Reynolds. The first wife of young Reynolds, Anne Cannon Reynolds (inset), has filed a plea asking that a settlement of $1,000,000 on her daughter be set aside and that her baby be included in a division of the Reynolds fortune. LEGION TO TALK YULETIDE PARTY

Members of Medford Post No. 16, American Legion, will hold their regular meeting at the Medford Armory Monday evening, November 26. Plans will be discussed for the Christmas party for all children in the community, which will be sponsored by Medford post and the Ladies' Auxiliary. Committees will be appointed at this meeting.

Commander Foy promises that the party will be a Christmas treat for everybody as a program will be arranged that will interest older people as well as the children. The exact place for the entertainment has not been selected but it will be convenient for all to attend.

Immediately following the business meeting the auxiliary will have entertainment for all, after which cards and refreshments will be served. Every member is asked to bring a member and dues are to be taken at this meeting.

HAYES CHEVROLET GOES ON RAMPAGE

The Chevrolet sedan owned by O. V. Hayes, mechanic at Fichtner's garage, has ideas of its own about taking joy rides, and uses them.

When Mrs. Hayes cranked the vehicle late Friday night in the entrance of the garage, it was in reverse gear. Out of the doorway backed the car, the cranked wheels steering it in a wide circle. West on Sixth street for a short distance it went, then up over the curb. Its full back bumper took a section neatly out of the picket fence surrounding the Villa Nursery sales lot.

Mrs. Hayes, standing agasp with the crank in her hand, called to her husband, who investigated in time to see the car kill its engine in a small ditch. Still describing a circle, the vehicle had left a trail of flattened shrubs, but was none the worse for its escapade.

A Happy Thanksgiving To The People of Medford

Thanksgiving . . . the time of the year for turkey and mince pie, cranberries and yams; for russet and gold colored loaves, and crackling firewood . . . the time of the year when we stop for a moment to give thanks for the blessings we have.

Medford homes are alive with the excitement of preparations—preparations which this year will be shared not alone with family and friends, but with those less fortunate.

Let the spirit of friendliness and helpfulness reign—and may your Thanksgiving be a happy one.

Medford-Hood River Pictures at Rialto

Action photographs of the Medford-Hood River football game, which resulted in victory for Medford yesterday, will be on display in the photograph case in the Rialto theater today.

J. Verne Shangle, who has won for himself an enviable reputation in the photography field, busied himself throughout the game, taking approximately fifteen "shots" of the more exciting moments of the contest. In spite of the overcast sky, the photos are exceptionally clear and the players are easily recognized.
