Exciting Mystery Coming To Rialto

A hero who risks prison and the hangman's noose to help the girl he loves is the central character in the picture of Dashiell Hammett's exciting mystery story "A Woman in the Dark." This "story of dangerous romance" has all the elements of gripping drama parallel to Hammett's "The Thin Man," one of the most thrilling mysteries ever screened.

It recounts the adventures of John Bradley, an ex-convict on parole for manslaughter, and Louise Boring, a woman who cannot call herself her own. These two are thrown together by a stroke of fate and catapulted into a continuous turmoil of adventure. The very hazards that are designed to keep them apart only add fuel to their love.

Ralph Bellamy, one of Hollywood's premier good-bad men, and Roscoe Ates, are featured.

NEWSPAPER ASKS SOBRIETY PLEDGE FOR SOFT PEDAL

INDEPENDENCE, Kan.—(UP)—The Independence Reporter, confronted with an occasional request that it keep out of print the name of a resident who had drunk too heavily and been arrested, has solved the matter in a unique way.

The Reporter agrees to the request, but it demands that a pledge of future sobriety be signed. In a small town where everyone knows his neighbors, the chronicling of police court news has its peculiar embarrassments, and Charles Spencer, editor, reports the plan has worked well.

When it is a case of a first offender, Spencer agrees to withhold the story from print if the individual will sign a pledge in which he agrees to do his best to keep away from liquor in the future, and in which he agrees to the right of the paper to publish the fact if he "breaks over" again.

There have been more than 100 signers of the pledge, according to Spencer, and only three have broken it. "Unfortunately," added Spencer, "one of the three was a rather important advertiser."

The undersigned, having been arrested for drunkenness, and fined in the police court of Independence, wishes to have no mention made of the incident in the Daily Reporter.

"In case no mention is made of this incident we promise to do our best to leave liquor alone, and in event we do not and we get into police court again for reason of 'breaking over,' then the Reporter has our consent in advance to publish a news story concerning the same, as well as to mention the particulars of the case, which caused us to sign this pledge, and likewise the fact that we signed it."
