CANFIELD TELLS PARK POLICY AT LUNCH IN HONOR

primitive states, for the enjoyment of future generations. The people of the west, he said, are surrounded by forests and mountains, and often fail to fully realize the importance of National parks and forests to future posterity.

The problem of the National Park service has been to extend the development of parks to just the right point to assure the full enjoyment of the public in years to come, Canfield said.

Mr. Canfield spoke briefly of the two national monuments, which now come under his department—the Lava Beds, and the Oregon Caves. He pointed out the geological and historical background of the Lava Beds, and paid high tribute to Roger Sablin and the developers of the Oregon Caves, for their part in making this new national monument so inviting to the public.

In concluding, Superintendent Canfield expressed his thanks for the cooperation rendered him by the people of southern Oregon, and voiced a tribute to various government departments for their efficient and harmonious relations and cooperation with the park service. He particularly mentioned the Forest service, the Civil Conservation corps, and the Reclamation and Indian services.

Dr. William F. Roney, who acted as chairman of today's meeting introduced Mrs. David Canfield, Mayor George Porter, of Medford; B. E. Harter, president of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce; Captain Robert H. Soule, and Captain Wm. Ryan of the CCC headquarters and Carl Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River National forest.

Gordon McCracken, secretary of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce, George Sablin, manager of the Oregon Caves Chateau, and Mr. Mashburn and E. A. Voorhies of Grants Pass were also introduced by Chairman Roney, and Superintendent Canfield's staff comprising Mr. Robertson, Mr. Shepherd, Mr. Palmer, Mr. Rheton, Mr. Chandler, and Mr. Hodges, were presented.

David Canfield first came to the west in 1924 in government service at the Klamath Indian reservation in Klamath county. He became associated with Crater Lake National park as chief ranger after going to southern Oregon from government service in the southwest. Recently he has been in Washington, D. C. on park business.

Today's meeting, in honor of the new Crater Lake park superintendent, was sponsored by the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce.

PORT ORFORD LINE TO LELAND WOULD TAP RICH REGION

large holdings of timber, coal, copper, cement rock, vegetables, stock, fruit and dairy products?

The territory to be traversed has been characterized by many engineering and economic surveys. Gable said, "as one of the richest in potential tonnage remaining without railroad facilities in these United States."

"With ocean transport across for Port Orford secured by the dock and terminal facilities now being erected there," he continued, "the railroad is necessary to furnish transportation for the tonnage produced in this territory."

GRANTS PASS, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The wild terrain of the lower Rogue river canyon is the indicated site of the railroad proposed in an I. C. C. application filed in Washington, D. C., by New York interests today.

A line from the partially sheltered harbor at Port Orford to link Frankford, Gold Beach, Agness, Ilwaco, Marial and Leland would traverse one of the most inaccessible areas of the Pacific coast states but would tap gold, copper, lime and chrome producing deposits with additional timber and power-site assets.

All of the towns are on the Rogue except Port Orford and Frankford on the coast, and Leland on the line of the southern Pacific railroad just north of Grants Pass. The proposed line would lie somewhat north of the proposed Grants Pass to Crescent City railroad survey suggested as a link between the Southern Pacific and the Northwestern Pacific line through the Redwood empire to San Francisco.

Particularly important in the area both lines would tap are the copper and chrome, the latter of which was mined extensively for the government during the World War. Chrome is used in hardening steel for armor plate as well as in manufacturing stainless steel.

The promoters of today's rail application are unknown here.

WALLS OF WATER RUSH DOWN UPON MONTROSE AREA

which is only a short distance from the main streets of Montrose.

Pickens canyon was one of those in the foothill area that experienced forest fires last spring, the slopes being denuded of vegetation and marking the region as an easy prey for flood waters in the event of heavy rains.

The flood wall was caused by the breaking and overflowing of debris basins constructed in Pickens canyon and in the Hight-Bekley wash.

Residents Warned
As the water began rushing down the canyon (at 8:15 o'clock) this morning, warning messages were conveyed to all residents in the area affected to leave their homes at once.

Pasadena, southeast of the Montrose-La Crescenta area, has experienced rainfall measuring 1.32 inches in the 24 hour period ending this morning, bringing the total for the immediate storm to 3.54 inches, and the total for the season to 11.08 inches. Precipitation for the season at this time last year was 4.30 inches in Pasadena.

No fears were held for damage in Pasadena, however, which is some distance away from the mountainous area affected.

Cloudburst Reported
The Los Angeles county flood control bureau issued this summary of storm conditions this morning:
"A cloudburst occurred in the Montrose-La Crescenta area at 6:55 o'clock this morning, causing immediate minor danger."
"The Hight-Bekley basin is overflowing, but the water is being controlled by a force of workers from this bureau. Water rushing down over Poothill boulevard (one of the main arteries between Los Angeles and San Bernardino) struck this thoroughfare at a height of five feet, carrying debris and rocks."
Woman Rescued
"A Mrs. Day, middle-aged was rescued from her cottage in Blanchard canyon, where she was marooned."
"Water in the Dunsuir canyon wash is running extremely high."
"In Shields canyon wash water also is deep."
"All streams in the Montrose area are out of control."
"Gas mains in Blanchard canyon are broken."
"Ballona creek is running five-feet deep, endangering residents in the Culver City-Venice area."
"It is still raining hard in the Montrose-La Crescenta area this morning. There have been several cloudbursts back of that area."

JUNE KNIGHT ASKS DIVORCE AFTER 12 DAYS OF MARRIAGE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 14.—(UP)—Three was a crowd, the blonde and baffled June Knight, motion picture actress, complained today in suddenly terminating her 12-day-old marriage to Paul Ames, wealthy sportsman, by filing suit for divorce.

Miss Knight charged a "complete absence of privacy" during their honeymoon, naming Murray Stern as the friend of her husband whom he insisted upon keeping the newlyweds company.

In addition to insisting upon the curious arrangement, Miss Knight complained, her husband was "stullen and morose."

The Stern development began the day they returned by air from their marriage in Chicago last November 30, Miss Knight said, and from that time until their separation several days ago Ames would not hear Stern's occasional attempts to bid the couple temporary goodbyes.

Stern literally was present during part or all of each of the bare seven days the marriage endured before she went home to her mother, Miss Knight charged.

She demanded $1200 monthly alimony, estimating her husband's income at $2400 a month and his fortune at more than $1,000,000. She also sought $5000 counsel fees.

The suit furnished the final fade-out of one of the most ephemeral romances even in Hollywood history.

Last November 29, Miss Knight caught a transport plane for Chicago in response to Ames' romantic telegram—"Fly to Chicago and marry me!" They returned, ecstatic, a day later. They separated nine days later; she filed suit for divorce today.

Stern, the third leg of the unhappy triangle, was otherwise unidentified and was not immediately identified.

A "blues" singer before her start in pictures, Miss Knight was romantically mentioned with Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion. Ames is a brother of Stephen Ames, former husband of Adrienne Ames—now the wife of Bruce Cabot—who is currently married to Raquel Torres. The younger Ames is a former New York broker, now maintaining a stock broker's office in Beverly Hills.

Has Operation—Ryehen Paddock, Jr., of Glen Oak court underwent a major operation this morning at the Community hospital.
