

INSULL SHEDS TEARS ON STAND

Twice while testifying in his own behalf during his trial on mail fraud charges in federal court in Chicago, Samuel Insull, Sr., broke into tears but recovered quickly to describe his career. He asserted Insull utilities contributed more toward wealth of the Mississippi valley than "all the losses on any securities I might have issued." He is shown with his attorney, Floyd Thompson, as he appeared on the stand. (Associated Press Photo)

CABINET WIVES AT MRS. ROOSEVELT'S COSTUME PARTY

While President Roosevelt and other members of the administration attended the annual gridiron banquet at Washington, their wives were guests of Mrs. Roosevelt at the first costume party ever held at the White House. Shown here are three of the cabinet wives in the costumes they wore. Left to right: Mrs. Harold Ickes, in an Indian costume; Mrs. Henry Wallace, in Yugoslav attire, and Mrs. George Dern in a period costume of 1860 loaned her by Mrs. O. A. Clayton of Salt Lake City. (Associated Press Photos)

TEXAS OFFICERS SLAY SOUTHWEST DESPERADO

The crime career of Irvin "Blackie" Thompson, southwestern desperado, came to an end in a gun battle between the criminal and ten Amarillo, Tex., officers. Standing behind the escaped convict's body are, left to right: Detective Buster McLaugh, Detective Captain Clark Cain, Patrolman Sid Harper, Patrolman Marshall Turner, Deputy Milt Cunningham and Deputy Ivy Wilkinson. Kneeling, Deputy Roy Brewer, Patrolman Bandy Lee, and Deputy Gib Landis. (Associated Press Photo)

COAST TO COAST IN 12 HOURS!

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, noted wartime flying ace, is shown doffing his hat to admirers as he landed at Newark, N. J., after spanning the continent in 12 hours, three minutes and 50 seconds—a new speed record for transport planes. The big twin-motored plane averaged 221 miles an hour from Los Angeles, with a single stop at Kansas City for refueling. (Associated Press Photo)

UNION RECOGNITION DENIED STRIKING MINERS

Representatives of idle workers of the Central Eureka mine at Jackson, Cal., were advised at a hearing before the state director of industrial relations that the mine operators would submit to arbitration if the men returned to work. The owners, however, said they would not recognize a union. The concession of the Central Eureka does not involve the shut down of three other mines in the Mother Lode country because of wage and organization disputes. Left to right: C. C. Prior of the Central mine, State Director Timothy A. Reardon; Peter Brockett and K. L. Fitzgerald, representing the miners. (Associated Press Photo)

CASHESS WEDDING UNITES BARTER WORKERS

Everything but the license fee and rent of the hall was obtained by barter for the marriage of Roy G. McDonald and Jessie F. Barley in Berkeley, Cal. The ring, flowers, trousseau, two orchestras, parson and refreshments were furnished by the self-help organization in which McDonald is a truck driver and his bride a vegetable inspector. The four bridesmaids' dresses were all supplied by barter. Reverend Huber is shown marrying the couple. He is one of the organizers of the cooperative. (Associated Press Photo)

KING PETER PLAYS—LIKE ANY OTHER YOUNGSTER

This remarkably informal picture shows Europe's youngest monarch, 11-year-old King Peter (left) of Yugoslavia, playing with his two younger brothers, Prince Andrei (center) and Prince Tomislav, in the garden of the royal palace outside Belgrade. (Associated Press Photo)

HALFBACK GOES OVER FOR SCORE AGAINST TROY

Frank Layden, Notre Dame back, crossing the goal line for his team's second touchdown against Southern California in the annual intersectional classic in Los Angeles. The final score was 14 to 0 in favor of the Irish team. Layden carried the ball from the two yard line in this play. (Associated Press Photo)

AUTHOR IN A NEW ROMANCE

Edgar Rice Burroughs (left), author, said he is 33, or may not, wed Mrs. Florence Dearholt, formerly an actress, and now divorcing Ashton Dearholt, production manager of the Burroughs film company. Burroughs was recently divorced in Las Vegas, Nev. (Associated Press Photos)

OFFERS HIS LIFE FOR EXPERIMENT

Dan C. Woolley, 72, former chief of police of Pittsburgh, Cal., now employed as a process server at a resident of Berkeley, told Dr. R. E. Cornish, Berkeley dog reviver he would permit the scientist to use him in resuscitation experiments but Dr. Cornish refused saying it would be murder if the attempts should fail. (Associated Press Photo)

STRIKE MOB TIPS OVER STREET CAR

Attacks on street cars were continued in Los Angeles as car men remained on strike. This car was stopped by about 75 men who requested the passengers to get off and then overturned it near the downtown section. (Associated Press Photo)

McADOO'S COUSIN WEDS ACTRESS

William McAdoo (right), cousin of Senator William G. McAdoo, and Lucille Walker, film actress, were married in Phoenix, Ariz. George White, producer, is standing between the couple. (Associated Press Photo)

STAR ELOPES WITH FILM DIRECTOR

Filmland was surprised by the Yuma, Ariz., elopement of Margaret Sullivan, screen actress, and William Wyler, a director, who were married after an acquaintance of only eight weeks. They returned to Hollywood after the ceremonies by a plane. (Associated Press Photos)