All ranges of the national forest will be headquartered there, as will be W. L. Jones, superintendent of all BSA road work; Fred Warner, superintendent of CCC work within the forest; and C. B. Sunderman, recreational engineer for the forest.

Lady Sherlock

Suma May Oliver, as the school-marm Sherlock Holmes in "Murder on the Blackboard," now at the Studio theater, again envisions her quaint genius for probing mysteries. "Nana" brings to the Studio screen Sunday the adventures of Emilio Zola's famous courtesan, one of the best known stories in modern literature, as Anna Sten's first American picture.

Warner Baxter At Craterian

A thrilling and spectacular story of desperate war in the air, the newest starring vehicle for Warner Baxter, opens today at the Craterian theater, for two days only. "Hell in the Heavens" is the title of the new film, and it is said to offer one of the most absorbing and romantic war dramas yet produced in Hollywood. It tells the story of daring men—not afraid of death, but afraid of fear; desperate for life, yet each day braving destruction in the skies.

Conchita Montenegro, who appeared with Warner Baxter in "The Cisco Kid," is once more his leading woman in "Hell in the Heavens." Other notable members of a large cast are Russell Hardie, young Broadway leading man, who recently has chalked up several screen hits in quick succession; Herbert Mundin, Andy Devine, William Stelling and the always dependable Ralph Morgan.

On Sick Leave—On sick leave at the postoffice today are P. B. Nichols, clerk, and E. B. Bean, mail carrier.

Has New Position—Mrs. Grace Voss, formerly with Owen-Owen Lumber Co., and also formerly of the Chamber of Commerce, has accepted a position in the clerical department of the Rogue River national forest offices.

Dramatic Climax To Rialto Film

As the brilliant criminal attorney who holds the life of his wife's lover in his hands, Ricardo Cortez is seen at his best in "Hat, Coat and Glove," playing at the Rialto theater today and Saturday. Taking a sudden novelty twist, after starting out as a marital triangle play, the film shows Cortez taking over the defense of his wife's lover—on trial for the murder of an ex-flame. Winding up to a tense climax in the courtroom, the final scenes show Cortez using a unique approach in bombarding the prosecution's case and bringing the triangle to a salvagatory conclusion.

To Oregon Caves—David M. Canfield, superintendent of Crater Lake national park, is spending the day at Oregon Caves on official business.

Observe Tonight—No start position on the forthcoming spring concert numbers, the Medford Gleasons will meet this evening in the clubhouse auditorium, the meeting having been postponed from New Year's day. Rehearsals will continue to be held each Tuesday night after this week.

White Undergarments—William White, former Medford high school athlete, underwent a minor operation this morning at the Community hospital.

By Community Hospital—Having become ill with the flu, the following five were taken to the Community hospital, where they are receiving medical care today: Mrs. J. E. Bower, Victor Beckman, P. E. Watkins, C. E. Culbertson and Herbert Hove, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hart.

Here Sunday

Katharine Hepburn in "The Little Minister," by Sir James M. Barrie. The film's outstanding young star, in the most famous and popular romance ever penned by the great Scottish author. This brilliant combination of names and talents, brings one of the most vivid and colorful love stories ever written to the screen. "The Little Minister" gives Miss Hepburn another great character that is beloved by millions all over the world. Nothing has been spared in the effort to make "The Little Minister," which comes to the Craterian theater Sunday, an unforgettable experience in entertainment.

John Beal, one of the most popular of Hollywood's younger leading men, plays the little Scotch dominie with whom the gypsy girl, Babbie, falls in love. Others in the company are Alan Hale, Frank Conroy, Reginald Denny, Beryl Mercer, Andy Clyde, Lumsden Hare and Donald Crisp.
