"The four pieces of legislation which will have first consideration are: "1. Immediate payment of the adjusted service certificates at full face value, with cancellation of interest accrued and refund of interest paid, as an effective relief and economic measure.

"2. Fulfillment of the fourth point of the Legion's four-point rehabilitation program, which provides that in no event shall the widows or dependent children of deceased world war veterans be without government protection.

"3. Enactment into law by congress of the universal service act, for which the Legion has fought for years, including equal conscription of capital, industry and man power in the event of war, and the use of each in the service of the nation without special preference to profit.

"4. Legislation putting into full force an adequate national defense as outlined by the action of the Miami convention, including among other vital measures a regular standing army of 14,000 officers and 165,000 enlisted men, construction without delay of the navy up to the full London treaty strength, with the necessary personnel to man every ship; strengthening the air forces sufficient to assume complete defense in that department, and the required reserve components and supplies in all departments.

MEDFORD SOCIETY TAKING INTEREST IN 'LOVE DERBY'

When reports came across the Atlantic from England of the beginning of an international "love derby" between America's Lord Ashley and America's Jack Bradley, rich socialite sportsman of San Francisco, for the hand of the beautiful Miss Isabel McCreery, young society belle from Burlingame, Cal., the news became of interest to many in Medford and vicinity.

Lord Ashley, highly publicized heir to one of Britain's oldest earldoms, was a guest at Burlingame a year ago and Mrs. and Mrs. Nion Tucker, who spend part of each year in southern Oregon at their summer home, Rogue's Roost. It was at the Tucker's Burlingame home that Lord Ashley met Miss McCreery. There was no courtship however, until Miss McCreery went to London a few months ago, to live with her parents in Park Lane.

Lord Ashley came to America accompanying Lord Lionel Hallam Tennyson, grandson of England's famous poet, who was a guest of the Tucker's at Rogue's Roost during that visit to this country. Both Mrs. Tucker and Miss McCreery had been presented to King George and Queen Mary at the preceding season's second session of the Royal Court at Buckingham palace.

According to the San Francisco Examiner, which carried a story of the "love derby" in a recent issue, Jack Bradley sped across America, boarded a fast steamer at New York and landed in England to pursue his own wooing, when the reports filtered across the Atlantic of Lord Ashley's suit.

Lord Ashley began pecking the hand of Miss McCreery shortly after his recent divorce as a result of an international case in which Douglas Fairbanks, Sr. figured as correspondent. Young Bradley had been a friend of Miss McCreery for some time.

Now society in both England and America are watching the Bradley entry in the love derby, with his world-renowned "Bradley luck," and wondering whether Miss McCreery will "marry British" or "marry American."

FLOYD WHITTLE NEW POTENTATE HILLAH SHRINE

Floyd F. Whittle, prominent Ashland man, was selected as potentate of Hillah temple at the annual meeting of southern Oregon Shriners held in the Masonic hall at Ashland Friday night. Potentate Whittle is eminently fitted to fill this important position in the southern Oregon temple during the 1935 season, having been identified with Shrine activities in this section of Oregon for several years. He will succeed O. A. Alexander of Medford, who successfully headed Hillah temple during the past year.

Under the leadership of Alexander, the southern Oregon Shriners participated in two joint ceremonies with Ben Hall temple of Sacramento, Cal., one held in Medford, and the other in the California capital city. During the past year, Hillah Temple led all the Shrine temples of North America in percentage of membership gain, an achievement that has brought nation-wide recognition to this section of Oregon.

At Friday night's meeting, N. O. Wheeler of Klamath Falls, was elected to the office of Chief Rabbi; J. C. Thompson of Medford, was chosen assistant Rabbi; John Enders, of Ashland and Lakeview, became high priest and prophet, and A. B. Brownell of Grants Pass was selected as Oriental guide. The first ceremonial master for 1935 will be A. B. Cunningham of Medford, and the second ceremonial master will be E. C. Trumbly of Grants Pass. M. W. Grubb of Ashland will fill the position of marshal, G. Hills of Klamath Falls will be captain of the guard, and W. P. Lewis of Ashland, outer guard.

George Dunne of Ashland, who has served ably, filled the position of treasurer of Hillah temple for several years, will again fill that office for this year, and Past Potentate H. E. Detrick, also of Ashland, who has made a splendid record as recorder, was re-elected to that office.

Hai McNair of Ashland, whose term expired on the board of trustees of the southern Oregon temple, was re-elected for a new term. The other two members of the board are Ralph E. Sweeney of Medford and Sam Baker of Grants Pass. Lon Bishop of Medford was appointed by Potentate-elect Whittle to a newly created office of assistant high priest and prophet.

The representatives to the Imperial Council session to be held this year at Washington, D. C., will be Potentate Whittle, Dade R. Terrett of Medford, and Past Potentate O. A. Alexander, as a result of Friday night's election.

In his brief address following his election as potentate of Hillah temple, Floyd Whittle expressed the hope that southern Oregon Shriners might achieve success during 1935, commensurate with the splendid record of the past year.

NEW YEAR LIQUOR PURCHASES LESS THAN CHRISTMAS

Total liquor sales on December 31, New Year's eve, have been compiled and made public and show a decline compared to the sales on Christmas eve.

Whether this is an indication that the decline is due to the fact that the store closed on New Year's eve at 8 o'clock, would be hard to determine, according to Manager I. E. Foy.

The volume of sales for that day was $2,039.15, as compared to $2,436.40 for the day before Christmas, a difference of $397.25.

The Saturday of the 29th, which was expected to be extraordinarily large, was just an average Saturday, with gross sales of $929.20.

Permits for 1935 are now being sold at the commission, according to Foy, who issued a word of warning for any permit holder using his permit to obtain liquor for any person not owning one. This is strictly against the law, he said, and is apt to get the persons involved in serious trouble.

Co-operation of the people of the state with the liquor stores was particularly urged by Mr. Foy, who pointed out that the store is primarily the property of the people, and the revenues go straight toward relieving the tax burden.

The liquor store, he said, is established to regulate the sale of intoxicants and to provide a revenue to the people which aids materially in reducing the tax burden of the state.

The doubling up on one permit, continued Foy, is denying the state of a legitimate source of revenue, and if detected will be treated as such. The use of notes, signed by a permit holder, and asking that liquor be given to the messenger, will be discontinued in the future.

The state legislature has taken under advisement the reduction of the price of the permits from $1 to 50 cents, but as yet no action has been taken.

When asked the advantages of the permit system, Manager Foy stated that it removes the possibility of abuse of the liquor laws, lowers the cost of the liquor to the consumer by taking care of some of the overhead of the store, thus giving to Oregon the lowest prices of any state in the union except Washington, which uses the same system.

In states where the permits are not required, and commission stores are not maintained, prices are substantially higher, with no way for the consumer to prove that which he buys is genuine.

The stock at the store has been replenished recently at the holiday rush, a new shipment of O. L. C. C. brand whiskey in half gallon lots having been received, along with many other liquors, among which is to be found the St. Croix rum, imported from the Virgin Islands. There is no duty on liquor brought from the islands, since they are U. S. possessions, it was pointed out.

FORUM LUNCH ON WORK INSURANCE HOLDS INTEREST

The forum luncheon to be held tomorrow noon at the Medford hotel by the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce promises to be well attended, it was announced by W. F. Isaacs, chairman, Saturday.

The luncheon will be devoted to a discussion of unemployment insurance, which subject has been given serious consideration by groups of retailers and manufacturers throughout the United States in recent months.

"The president's message to congress brought up the question of unemployment insurance," stated Mr. Isaacs yesterday, "and in view of the fact that he has advocated this, there can be no doubt but what some form of insurance will be enacted during the present session of congress."

All employers of labor are urged to be at the luncheon to hear the four suggested plans of unemployment insurance worked out by various groups after a national survey of the subject. Chamber of Commerce officials point out that with the probability of some type of unemployment insurance being enacted in congress it is very important that employers in Jackson county attend the luncheon so that a plan can be submitted from here as being the one desired by the majority of employers.

The question of unemployment insurance has its own special problems and should not be confused with the questions of relief, retirement allowance or disability compensation. Many ideas have been submitted from various parts of the country as to how unemployment insurance should be financed. Some believe the employer should assume the responsibility, others the employer, while still others think it should be a function of either the state or federal government.

All these matters will be brought out at the luncheon on Monday and inasmuch as every employer will be vitally affected by any form of legislation which may be enacted along the lines of unemployment insurance the meeting should be well attended.

Reservations should be made first thing Monday morning at the Chamber of Commerce in order that hotel authorities may be notified of the number to expect.
