DUSKY CAGEMEN BOW TO SONS IN THRILLING TILT

(By Dick Applegate)

"Horsing around" for the first half instead of playing the brilliant basketball of which they were capable, cost the New York Harlemites, barnstorming colored team, their game last night with the Southern Oregon Normal school team at Ashland, 47-38.

After working the ball down the floor with dandling passes, the colored aggregation would repeatedly miss setups and crumples, to let the Hobsonites draw easily away, so that the score at the half stood 25-6, with the Harlemites apparently helpless.

This was some sort of optical illusion, however, or just an extraordinarily good bit of showmanship, for in seven minutes after the second half had started the eastern team had gathered 21 markers to 8 for the Normal, bringing the score to 33-27, the closest points in the game.

Very few southern Oregon fans have ever seen a team so thoroughly able to fake opponents like the negroes did. Howell, giant Ashland center, who would continually find himself guarding the wrong man after nearly being faked out of his uniform, the ball going to a man in the open who then would chuck up another basket.

Patterson, colored flash of the Normal quint, was the 700 000 man who spelled bad medicine for the New Yorkers, leaving high in the air to disrupt their otherwise smooth running offense. That man reminds one of a panther, in the cat-like grace with which he takes bad bounces off the backboard and drops them in for recoveries.

The Harlemites got some of their own brand of ball in the next four work of Chief McLean, Patterson, Courtney and Bradcock. McLean started the game after being out some time with an injured knee, and was one of the spearheads of the SONS' attack. Courtney, when the Normal outfit failed to work under the bucket, swished several long ones from the center of the floor.

Bradcock, second string substitute for the Indian flash, started the Harlemites by dribbling right by them for several crumples, the only man who consistently was able to do so.

The eastern team travels without the aid of substitutes, a fact which makes the calling of four personal fouls on any one of them a farce, a detail which in no way bothered Referee Young of Ashland, who added nothing to his popularity with the crowd by calling closely throughout the game.

The negro attack floundered during the last few minutes, their scoring drive starting too late for the fast game in too they found themselves. Unable to substitute, the fast pace exhausted them and the SONS' second string scored upon them repeatedly before the gun sounded.

In an uninteresting preliminary, the Ashland junior high team continued their string of victories by trouncing the Talent high school five, 40-7.

VANDALS TAKE FIRST WIN ON HUSKY FLOOR

SEATTLE, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The University of Idaho Vandals boasted their first victory on a Seattle floor over the University of Washington Huskies, and Washington State was still in the throes of a disastrous Oregon trip, in the northern division coast conference basketball race today.

BEAVERS WIN, 25 TO 19, OVER COUGAR QUINTET

CORVALLIS, Ore., Jan. 8.—(AP)—With its man to man defense even more effective than its time-reversed zone defense, Oregon State college defeated Washington State, 25 to 19, here last night.

It was the first conference game for Oregon State, but the third and the third defeat for the Cougars. Washington State will seek a win from the Grangemans here tonight before returning to Pullman, Wash.

BOWLING

TIGERS POLISHING CLAWS TO REPULSE ROSEBURG QUINTET

With a game slated with the Roseburg Indians Saturday night at 9:00 o'clock, members of the Medford high school basketball team are practicing diligently in hopes they may work together as a smooth quintet on the maple of the Medford high school gym.

For the past decade the two teams have been playing each other vying for the mythical championship of the two sectors. Each team has a fling at the other on its own floor.

According to reports from the Prine City, the Indians possess one of the strongest basketball teams in their history. The Roseburgites boast many of last year's squad on the present starting lineup.

Last year the Tiger men were fortunate in securing a two-try win over their traditional rivals, but a year ago were satisfied in dividing with them.
Coach D. K. Burgher of the Medford high school stated this afternoon that he is expecting one of the stiffest battles of the season Saturday night.
In addition to the game between the two senior high school teams, the junior high of Roseburg will tangle with the Junior high of Medford in what promises to be a feature in itself. Ray Henderson of the Medford Juniors stated this morning that he is also expecting a battle, and a close one at that.
Both Burgher and Henderson stated that members of their respective teams will be in top shape for the contest.

G. PASS EAGLES TOURNEY WINNERS

Following the business session of the district conference of Eagles, held here Sunday, a bowling tournament was held at the Smoke House alleys. Two teams from Medford, one each from Ashland and Grants Pass, were competing for the trophy donated by Walter Antle, and some splendid games were seen by one of the largest crowds here to attend a bowling match here.

Grants Pass won a leg on the trophy which was presented to the captain of the team by Jack Huerton. Five members of the Grants Pass team were each presented with watch charms representing miniature bowls.

It was unanimously voted during the day to hold the next conference of southern Oregon series in Ashland.

In the trophy tourney, the Medford Drill team finished second, 34 pins behind Grants Pass, the Eagle League of Medford was third, with Ashland fourth. Scores: Grants Pass Eagles, 945 867 840 2652; Medford Drill Team 916 848 834 2818; Medford Eagles, 836 936 800 2572; Ashland Eagles, 793 851 815 2459.

WASHINGTON FIVE DEFEATS PHOENIX

In one of the hardest fought battles of the season, the Washington Boys Eagles basketball team defeated the Phoenix Tonixes last night before a comparatively large crowd, by a score of 47 to 34.

In a last quarter rally, the Eagles, led by the sturdy left-southpaw, Harold Williams, straggled into the lead and were not headed until the g sounded, ending the game.

Harold Williams stole high point honors with 18 points, and was followed by Calvert with 10.

The starting lineup for the Colmans included: Pomeroy and Calvert, guards; Coates, center; Brown and Williams, forwards. Substitutes for the Eagles were: Krons, Handall, Moore and Associated boy.

COACHES BID FOR COAST GRID STARS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Competition between Coach Orrin ("Babe") Hollingbery of Washington State and Assistant Coach Ernie Nevors of Stanford is offering splendid opportunities to Pacific coast football stars who have finished their college gridiron careers.

Hollingbery is assembling a team of amateurs to invade Honolulu for a game January 20, while Nevors is gathering up prospective professionals to meet the New York Giants, National league pro champions, on the same day.

Larry Stemmering and Jim Barber, star University of San Francisco linemen, were definitely signed up yesterday for the Nevors team, and Paul Sulzovsky, Washington fullback, announced he will play here. "Cotton" Warburton and "Tanky" Workyns of U. S. C. are also expected to join Nevors, as well as several other former coast players who are now in the pay game.

ROUGHNESS, SKILL IN NEXT MAT SHOW

Although the main event of next Thursday night's wrestling card at the Astor promises another hour of two out of three tumblers of popular roughneck grappling, when Tony Catalano and Pete Belcastro, both of Italy, come to grips, the semi-final bout is attracting much attention from the fans, with its hints of a fast session of scientific work.

Joe Hubka, ex-athlete from University of Nebraska, will meet Jimmy High, Chicago matman, in this event. Hubka has already demonstrated his technique here, first by winning on fouts from Catalano, then by grappling to a draw with Hal Rumborg of Spokane. He delights in leg holds, specializing in the spectacular Indian deathlock and also in applying a front body scissors, then tumbling over backward to pin his opponent.

TALK SPLIT WEEK IN COAST LEAGUE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Directors of the Pacific Coast league gather around the conference table here today to study 1935 schedule proposals for their eight baseball clubs, select an umpiring staff and attend to other mid-winter business.

Schedules, based on the split-week plan, long used by major leagues, but new to the coast, are to be presented for consideration by Herb McFarlin, the league's schedule maker.

The split week idea, which would increase traveling expenses, was decided upon for consideration at the recent Catalina meeting of the league directors. They seized upon it as a possible means of winning the appetite of fans.

It would bring two visiting teams to the home ground each week instead of carrying through for seven straight games against one invading line.

Grants Pass Lead Slosser's Big Hawk

GRANTS PASS, Jan. 8.—(Sp.)—With his 22 rifle, Bud Pruess, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Pruess of this city, Saturday brought down in the Louise creek section a red-tail hawk with a wing-spread of 52 inches.

WILLAMETTE, HAWAII FOOTBALL GAME OUT

SALEM, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Plans for a football game between Willamette university and the University of Hawaii on the islands next year were "out" today following receipt of a cablegram yesterday by Dr. Bruce Baxter, Willamette president, from President David L. Crawford of the Hawaiian school, stating it would be impossible to bring the Willamette team to Honolulu in 1935.

EGAN ASKED TO DESIGN NEW GOLF COURSE FOR ATLANTA, GA., CLUB

It was learned here today that H. Chandler Egan, national golf figure of this city and Pebble Beach, Cal., has been invited to attend a meeting of golf officials at Atlanta, Ga., the latter part of this month, with the view of designing a new course in that city. The invitation was made at the recommendation of Bobby Jones, whose home is at Atlanta and who has become familiar with Egan's work in golf course designing.

Plans for the new course will be discussed at the meeting, after which Egan will be appointed architect for the undertaking if it goes through, according to word received here. Egan, who, with Mrs. Egan, is now at his home at Pebble Beach, is expected to leave for Atlanta within 10 days, and will probably return in April.

It was after playing Egan's course at Pebble Beach that Jones became impressed with the veteran golfer's genius at mapping out places for greens and bunkers, an aptitude that has gained for him almost as much recognition as his skill in playing.

Egan has designed courses at Portland, Tacoma, Seattle and Spokane, besides the Southern Oregon golf course, and the links at Pebble Beach. He was also asked to map courses in South America and Japan, but declined both these offers.

CHAIR WRECKAGE HOLDS GRAPPLER

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Robin Reed lost the deciding fall of his wrestling match here last night in comical tragic manner when counted out as he frantically attempted to extricate himself from a shattered chair outside the ropes.

Bob Penton, 159, Canada, and Reed, 158, Reedsport, divided the first two falls and then Reed began flipping his opponent out over the ropes with flying head scissors.

On one Reed went out, too, and while clambering back was met by Penton's vicious kick. Reed craned through a ringside chair and his legs became hopelessly tangled in the wreckage.

A fast, clean, 30-minute draw was wrestled by Chris Clingman, Oklahoma, and Del Kunkler, Salt Lake City, with neither of the middleweights gaining a fall.

It would bring two visiting teams to the home ground each week instead of carrying through for seven straight games against one invading line.
