

'ORIGINAL SUFFRAGETTES' LEAD WOMAN'S PARTY

Among leaders in the national woman's party, which held its convention in New York city, are five women who, 17 years ago, took part in the suffragette picketing of the White House, and went to jail. Top left to right: Mrs. Mary Dubrow of New York; Mrs. Helena Hill Weed of Hartford, Conn.; Mrs. Florence B. Hill of Wilmington, Del., elected national chairman; Mrs. Mary E. Brown of Wilmington and Mrs. Jessica Henderson of Boston. In the inset, lower left, are Mrs. Anita Pollitzer of Charleston, S. C. (left), second vice chairman, and Mrs. Gail Laughlin of Portland, Me., first vice chairman. (Associated Press Photo)

CALLED THE SCREEN'S 'ONLY' EXOTIC WOMEN

That much overworked term, "exotic," applies to but three women in motion pictures, according to Count W. J. B. Sobieski, European portrait painter recently arrived in Hollywood. They are, he says, Greta Garbo (left), who has the most "symmetrical face"; Anna Sten (center), "the most beautiful," and Marlene Dietrich (right), possessor of "an intangible aura of mystery." (Associated Press Photos)

WILEY POST TRIES A 'PUSHER'

Invited To Europe

Wiley Post, round-the-world flier who is identified with three-minute, streamline airplanes, is shown in unconventional surroundings as he sits at the controls of a 1912 model "pusher" plane before he took off over Oklaheima in his attempt to better the world's altitude record. (Associated Press Photo)

Kathleen Anderson, 16, of the Lake Tahoe, Cal., ski club has been asked to join the women's ski team to represent the United States in Switzerland competition next February. She holds the California title of the fastest girl ski racer. (Associated Press Photo)

GIRL HELD IN CHILD 'KIDNAPING'

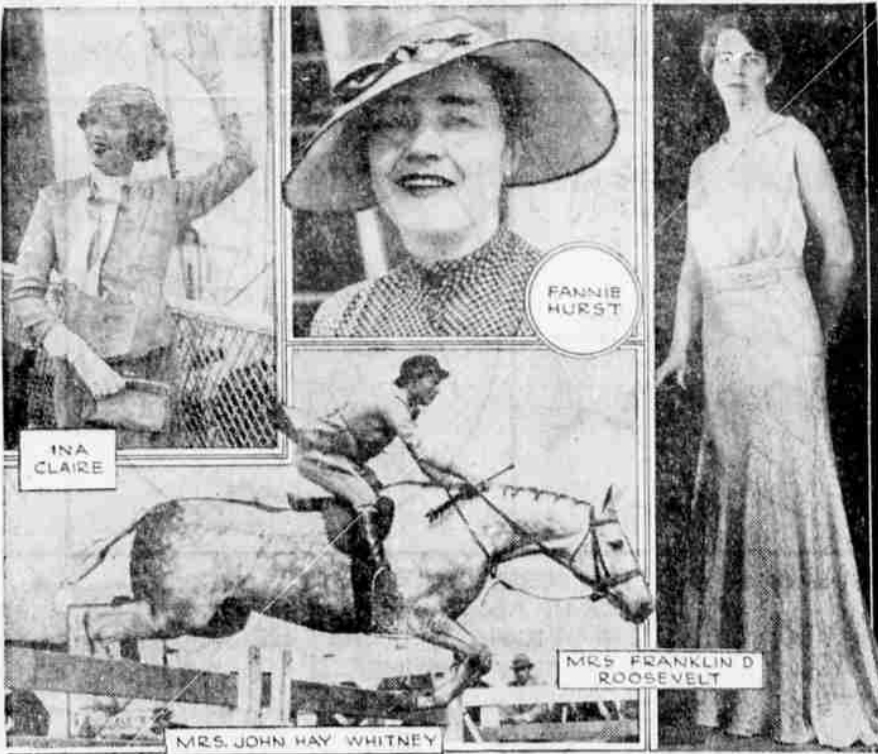

An 18-year-old girl (right) who was registered at the police station at Nashville, Tenn., as Bernice Lou Greena of Cincinnati, was charged with kidnaping four-year-old Jackie Gibbons of Lexington, Ky., who is shown seated on a policeman's lap in Nashville after the pair had been rescued. The girl said the boy followed her from his Lexington home. (Associated Press Photo)

'Ousts' Huey, Quits

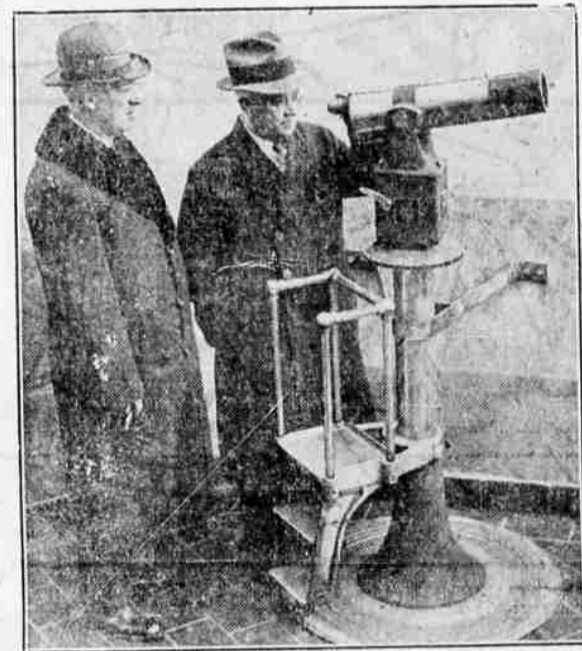

Capt. Lawrence "Biff" Jones, former West Point coach who has been living Louisiana State university for most successful football records, ordered "Kingfish" Huey, long out of the dressing room between halves of the dressing game at New Orleans, and then resigned a few days later. (Associated Press Photo)

FASHION CRITICS NAME BEST DRESSED WOMEN OF U. S.

Here are the best dressed women in their respective walks of life, according to the opinions of fashion authorities. Ina Claire leads the women of the stage, showing a preference for dashing colors; Fannie Hurst is the fashion leader among feminine writers; Mrs. John Hay Whitney is reputed to exercise the most flawless taste among sportswomen, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is "first lady" in dress among women in public life. (Associated Press Photos)

QUINTS' DOCTOR SEES NEW YORK

Dr. Allan R. Dafeo, the Canadian country doctor who became overnight a party to one of the wonders of the decade when he delivered and nurtured the famous Dionne quintuplets, gazed upon the wonders of New York from the observation tower of the Empire State building, with Al Smith as his official guide. (Associated Press Photo)

REST AFTER COURT APPEARANCE

Mrs. Betty Newell McConeil (left) and Mrs. Nan Brooks Macy, both of New York, visited San Francisco for a brief vacation after being awarded divorce decrees in Reno, Nev. Mrs. Macy was divorced from George Macy of a millionaire importing family and Mrs. McConeil from H. H. McConeil, New York broker. (Associated Press Photo)

LONELY OLD MAN REWARDS KINDNESS

Two motherless girls—Marguerite Desl (left), 14, and her sister, Dorothy, 12, will receive the life savings of Elmer Todd, 72, of Basin, Wyo. Todd bequeathed them his entire estate of several thousand dollars because of their kindness to him. The girls have been living in Portland, Ore., since the death of their mother. (Associated Press Photo)

RAILROAD ADVISER TAKES VACATION

Henry W. Kinney, accompanied by his Japanese wife, Teru Hirose, reached San Francisco from Manchuria en route to Tahiti for a vacation after spending nine years in the Orient as adviser to the South Manchurian railway which operates between Dairen and the capital, Hain King. (Associated Press Photo)

DOLL BABY GAINS THREE OUNCES

This is one of the first pictures of Jacqueline Dean Jackson, premature baby who weighed 15 ounces when born at Stevenson, Wash. At the end of two weeks, when this picture was taken, the baby weighed 18 ounces. Compare Jacqueline's size with the hand of her nurse, Mrs. Florence Weller. (Associated Press Photo)

STOUT DEFENSE BREAKS UP PASS

St. Mary's didn't have much success in a late passing attack and lost its annual football game to the University of California at Los Angeles by 8 to 0. Here's Al Nichelini, Gael ball, missing a pass with Mike Frankovich (55), Bruin quarter, and Charles Cheshire, behind "Big Nick", bothering him. (Associated Press Photo)

WOMAN ENDS YAWN MARATHON

Mrs. Harold McKee of Round Grove, Ill., was apparently recovering from her strange yawning illness after eight days. After yawning at the rate of 9 to 12 times a minute and almost constantly early in the illness, the farmer's wife seemed well on the way to recovery. Doctors were baffled by the malady. (Associated Press Photo)

Does Work At U. O.

Amos Burg, young Oregon employer who has achieved world fame for his daring expeditions, has just returned home after a year spent at "the bottom of the world" below Cape Horn, the southernmost tip of South America. There he explored a group of storm bound islands, photographing the natives and gathering material for the National Geographic magazine. He always returns to the University of Oregon to do his writing and research on his trips. During his student days he studied journalism at the university. He will leave for the East shortly, where he will lecture under the auspices of the National Geographic Society in Washington, D. C.

A King In Long Pants

Yugoslavia's 11-year-old ruler, King Peter, is shown as he appears in his first pair of "long pants." Note the arm band of mourning for his father, the assassinated King Alexander.