"BLACK-OUT" FOG CARRIES NO FUN FOR BRITISHERS

VISION BLANKETED AT FOUR FEET—BREATH STIFLED—TRAFFIC STANDS STILL SOON AFTER THE FIRST BILLOWS.

By GAYLE TALBOT

LONDON.—(AP)—Anything to the contrary you might have heard or read, notwithstanding, there is nothing either glamorous or funny about a London "black-out."

That is what the native Briton likes to term one of his extra-special fogs, the sort that closes in until it blots the vision at four feet and almost stifles the breath. It isn't funny, after the first few minutes it isn't even entertaining.

Lifeline Rhythm

Traffic is at a standstill a few moments after the first billowing wave of white comes in. Street lights come on, to be seen as a faint gleam overhead. The entire machinery of London life loses its rhythm.

Out in the suburbs, where the fog seems to get in its most sneaky work, there comes an uneasy silence. A few steps and one can feel completely lost and helpless.

Voices come eerily through space. You wonder if their owners are a few feet or a block away.

Loss Track of Homes

It has been estimated that a winter of fogs costs London around $25,000,000 in direct payment. That does not take in the loss or trade nor the scores of accidents nor the shattered nerves of those who can't find their way home and spend the night on doorsteps.

Several thousand spectators who were foolishly enough to visit Wembley stadium for a recent night sports event had a bizarre experience. The fog closed up tight before the program ended, so tight that the stadium employes, familiar with every inch of the ground, had to form themselves into a sort of Alpine guiding corps to get the customers back to the subway station a half-mile away.

Ship Companies Hit

Incoming steamships that park their passengers in the Thames have possibly the price piece of all against a two or three-day "black-out." All the time they must sit at the mouth of the river waiting for the curtain to lift, the passengers are eating their heads off, at no extra cost. The bar usually goes completely dry by the end of the first day.

The only real beneficiaries of the fog, someone discovered, are the florists. The soft-falling moisture that depends upon the plants does them more good than any quantity of rain.

CAULIFLOWER MARKET CONTROL IS PLANNED

ROSEBURG, Ore., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Organization of the control board charged with the enforcement of the new state cauliflower marketing agreement will be perfected here this afternoon. The 13 members of the control board were chosen at an election held Saturday. Eleven members were chosen by growers and two by handlers, making a group of 13 directors. The control board will elect its officers and will select five of its members to form an executive committee.

Snow Causes Crash

ALBANY, Ore., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Alfred Abraham, Benton county farmer, was in a serious condition here today from skull fracture suffered when his automobile crashed through the Albany-Corvallis highway in a snowstorm last night. It was believed the snow blinded him and caused him to miss the turn.

WHEAT ELEVATOR WILL BE REBUILT AT FULTON

PENDLETON, Ore., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Construction of a 200,000-bushel wheat elevator and small sack warehouse at Fulton station will be started next spring, it was announced here today by the Pendleton Grain Growers' co-operative.

The private elevator and warehouse at Fulton was destroyed last fall by fire with the loss of about 200,000 bushels of grain.

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., Jan. 14.—(AP)

—There's been a big increase in the membership of the Huntsville Ski club.

The boys have sent honorary memberships to the Dionne quintuplets together with club pins.

The club has visions of a nifty ski team some time in the far distant future.

So Much Better

If you have met the funeral director you call in time of need, and have learned to know him, then you turn to him as a friend, and not as a stranger.

Personally, we like the idea of meeting people and letting them judge us at leisure. We invite visitors at all times, that they may examine our establishment, and see for themselves what kind of folks we are.

FIRST 3-NATION AIRLINE IN NORTH AMERICA

With extension of the coastal airway to Agua Caliente, Mexico, cities on the Pacific Coast now have the only three-nation airplane service on the North American continent, and also the world's fastest international service. The 1383-mile air span from Vancouver, B. C. to Agua Caliente, Mexico, is flown with United Air Lines' three-mile-a-minute twin-engine Boeings.

The big liners leaving Mexico at 9:30 p. m. reach cities as far North as Seattle at the breakfast hour and Vancouver, in the early forenoon, and there is also overnight service the entire length of the airway. This route now links every city of 100,000 population on the Pacific Coast.

This route presents an amazing panorama to the air traveler, ranging from the snowcapped peaks and the blue inland seas of the Pacific Northwest to the verdant valleys of Oregon and California and the subtropical attractions of Southern California and Mexico.

MARY AND DICK DENY MARRIAGE PLANNED

HOLLYWOOD—Real and unreal: Mary Brian says there's nothing to it and Dick Powell says there's nothing to it. . . . But on the Warner lot, where both young people work, the folks are willing to bet even money that they'll be married before the year is out.

"I don't know where the story started," says Powell. "We're just very good friends. . . . And Mary agrees. 'That's right.' . . . Dick didn't give her an engagement ring for Christmas, but as an amethyst and diamond brooch. . . . 'I hope you can print a story to end the stories about the Brian-Powell romance,' Powell asked. 'Maybe this'll do.'"

MINISTER IS CHAMPION OF CAPITAL GOLF CLUB

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Dr. Calvert E. Rusk, an Episcopal clergyman, celebrated his election as president of the Washington Golf and Country club by winning the club title.

Not content with being the bookie head of the club, Rusk defeated Jimmy Drayn, 7 and 5 to win the club title. Alvin Dool was second, example to qualify for the last national amateur tournament and give the Old-fashioned sensation, Neil Batson, a tough battle before he was eliminated.

DANISH RELIEF ROLES ENTAIL HEAVY DRAIN

COPENHAGEN.—(AP)—Denmark's present "everybody-must-be-happy" system of lavish public relief fast is becoming a heavy drain on the community and, its critics claim, is dulling the sense of responsibility of the individual.

The burgemeister of Copenhagen says 47 per cent of all unmarried men in the section's capital are receiving public support in one way or another.

Sixteen per cent of all married couples are on the rolls and the number of single women dependents is growing, despite the fact that it is almost impossible to hire a maid servant.

LAKE MIRAGE FATAL FOR FLOCK OF DUCKS

LA BEMME, Tex.—(AP)—The strange method by which 100 ducks committed suicide is a matter of record in the Texas highway department.

A seaway crew had applied an oil slicking to a highway west of La Grange, causing 100 to platten like water in the slicking rays of dawn.

Flocks of ducks thought they could swim below them and came down on the gummy surface. They bogged down and couldn't get up. After a few days they died.

TAX ON LATE DRINKS LEVIED IN NAZI TOWN

LANDSTUHL, Germany.—(AP)—Proletarians have to pay here for the privilege of "not going home until morning."

The town council set a tax of 10 pfennigs per man on everybody found in saloons between midnight and 1 a. m.; 30 pfennigs between one and two o'clock and 50 pfennigs between two and three—which latter hour is closing time.

Proceeds from the tax are turned into savings accounts of 50 marks (about $10) each for every fifth—and following—child of all large families. The bank books will be handed to the beneficiaries when they reach the age of 18.

North Carolina has six state schools for training delinquent boys and girls.

by testifying she had no escort the night she saw Hauptmann and Dr. Condon. When the question was asked Attorney General David T. Wilentz offered to furnish the name of the escort to the defense.

"The state would have furnished us with the name of a non-existent, fictitious person," Reilly complained. Wilentz said he had been misinformed.

Reilly questioned her closely on the railroad lines running through the Bronx and defended his right to inquire along this line with the assertion:

"I want to prove that she was never there and that she doesn't know the lines that run through there, although she has lived in the Bronx all her life."

Expert Blames Hauptmann

Eldridge W. Stein, New York handwriting expert, testifying for the state, today gave as his opinion that Hauptmann wrote the Lindbergh ransom notes. He was the second expert to so testify.

Declaration of a state expert today that the handwriting evidence against Hauptmann was "irresistible, unanswerable and overwhelming" brought immediate challenge from the defense which sought to show that writings of the dead leader Fisch were similar to those of the Lindbergh ransom notes.

Albert S. Osborn, Sr., handwriting expert who testified that Hauptmann was the writer of all 14 of the state notes—evidence on which the state hopes to prove Hauptmann was the kidnaper and murderer of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.—reiterated his opinion today as the state turned him over to the defense for cross-examination.

Not Fisch's Writing

The defense, through its chief counsel Edward J. Reilly, handed him a card on which the writing was purported to be that of Fisch.

The witness admitted a similarity between a "Y" on the card and a "Y" in the first Lindbergh ransom note, which was found on the window sill of the Lindbergh nursery the night the baby was stolen from its crib, but he added: "The writing is very different. They are not sufficiently alike that I would say they were by the same writer."

CONGRESS EAGER HEAR ROOSEVELT IDEA ON PENSION

of demands as it is now dumping into their offices on the Townsend plan.

In view of this, some legislators are known to be anxious about the consequences of supporting the administration's more conservative plan. It is reported the cost will be divided between the federal and state governments, probably on a 50-50 basis.

Outlines of the administration's plan for unemployment insurance were more definite, with indications it would conform to the general plan embodied in the Wagner-Lewis bill of last session.

This proposed a federal payroll tax to be paid by all employers of more than ten wage earners. From this payment, employers could deduct whatever they paid to an approved state insurance fund.

Though the Wagner-Lewis bill called for a five-per-cent tax, congressional leaders understand the White House may leave the exact figure to the determination of the legislators.

'The Charros' look at her—and forgot how their tequila tastes!

Hard-riding, quick-shooting patrons in Miguel Santos' cantina downed their fiery drinks like water when Rosita danced.

No wonder the Montana Kid—El Keed below the Rio Grande—remembered the girl with the red rose in her hair. But Rosita betrayed the man she loved, set the rurales yelping at his heels . . . and then could not forget him.

Her atonement—to follow him on a fantastic mission to a burning land from which the Mexicans believed, no man ever returned.
