

HOUSE COMMITTEE ASSIGNMENTS ARE MADE BY SPEAKER

Multnomah Representatives Given Important Places— Two Jackson County Senators Are Well Recognized

SALEM, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The third change in the chairmanship of the house alcoholic committee announced today marked the rapid alterations made on the list of house committees since their announcement yesterday by John E. Coster, speaker of the house of the 1935 legislature.

And while changes were being made almost constantly, the house still continued to mark time, since no business could be gotten under way until the committees have been settled, clerks hired, and definite organization perfected.

Two Leaders Involved
Virtually all changes affected the positions of Howard Latourette and W. L. Graham, Multnomah county democrats, who on the original list had captured the leadership of the four major committees, and each with two chairmanships—Latourette on alcohol administration and Graham on taxation and ways and means.

A storm of protest followed the announcement of committees yesterday and last night about a dozen revisions were announced. Double chairmanships still resulted and today a new revised list was issued. And as a further result, much uncertainty was noted among democrats and republicans alike in the house.

Hill Replaces Canfield
Earl H. Hill, republican and at one time candidate for speaker, was the choice for chairman of the alcoholic committee this morning. He will replace Jack Canfield, democrat of Tillamook county who late yesterday replaced Howard Latourette of Multnomah.

Romeo Gouley of Marion county was added to the alcoholic control committee. Latourette was removed as a member of the taxation and revenue committee and W. B. Duerst of Yamhill added in his place.

Duerst was also given the chairmanship of the agriculture committee in place of Henry Semon of Klamath Falls. The latter was moved to chairman of the big ways and means committee, replacing W. L. Graham.

Other changes announced to date from the list issued yesterday included Roscoe Krier, made chairman of Commerce and navigation in place of Walter Norblad. Norblad was given chairmanship of the Fisheries committee.

Education Head Changed
Grace Kent Magruder was named chairman of the education committee for William Dickson and Lyle Thomas of Polk added to the committee. Homer D. Augell was placed in the chair as head of the labor and industries in place of Duerst. Harry Bolvin of Klamath county replaced Norblad as head of forestry.

Additional to committee membership included Norblad on revision of laws, C. F. Hyde of Lane on the food and dairy committee, Earl H. Hill on commerce and navigation and also on engrossed bills. Howard Merriam of Lane and Glenn Hiddle of Douglas were added to committee on public lands.

SALEM, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Howard Latourette of Multnomah county was given the chairmanship of two important house committees, administration and reorganization, and alcoholic control, and in addition was placed on other major committees.

W. L. Graham, also of Multnomah was given the chairmanship of the important taxation and revenue committee, as well as the big ways and means committee. Walter Fuhrer, republican of Marion county, was given chairmanship of banking and corporations, the major assignment listed for the minority party in the house.

The list of committees is as follows:

SIR JOSHUA REYNOLDS PICTURES TO BE SHOWN CAMERA CLUB DISPLAY

Work of the famous painter, Sir Joshua Reynolds will be included in the exhibit at the meeting of the Camera club Thursday evening at the court house.

Sir Joshua Reynolds was born July 16, 1723. His father was a clergyman and master of the free grammar school, and gave the youthful Joshua a fair education. At 17 he was apprenticed to a portrait painter in London with whom he worked two years, after which he painted portraits by himself. He made many friends and when Keppel, in command of the Mediterranean squadron, learned of the artist's desire to visit Italy, he invited the youth to go with him on the flagship.

For a while Reynolds was guest of the governor of Minorca, painting portraits of the principal inhabitants till the fleet was ready to sail for Leghorn, from which he made his way to Rome. At first he was bitterly disappointed in the works of the old Italian masters but soon came to appreciate them, even to reverence.

He made a particular study of the gradations of light and shade, the result of which is noticeable in many of his pictures.

His nearest rivals were Gainsborough and Romney. His hospitable dinner table was the rendezvous of all the noted men in London and it was at his suggestion that the "Literary club" was established. Reynolds was elected first president of the Royal Academy in 1768, and King George III signified his approval by knighting the artist and intimating that the queen and himself would honor him with sittings for their portraits to be presented to the academy.

Reynolds' discourses are literary products of note.

His sight began to fail and on the 23rd of February, 1792, he passed peacefully away.

His best known child picture is "The Age of Innocence."

Those who are planning to exhibit their work at the Camera club Thursday will kindly bring it in the afternoon. The public is invited.

OPPORTUNITY TO AID WORLD PEACE SEEN BY LEADER

cratic leader, opened debate for proponents of adherence yesterday. Senators Johnson, (R., Cal.) and Borah (R., Idaho) were leaders of the opposition.

The text of the president's message: "To the senate: "A movement to make international justice practicable and serviceable is not subject to partisan considerations. For years, republican and democratic administrations and party platforms alike have advocated a court of justice to which nations might voluntarily bring their disputes for judicial decisions.

Early Action Hoped
"To give concrete realization to this obviously is sound and thoroughly American policy. I hope that at an early date the senate will advise and consent to the adherence by the United States to the protocol of signature of the statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice dated September 14, 1929, and the protocol for the accession of the United States of America to the protocol of signature of the statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice, dated September 14, 1929, all of which were submitted to the senate December 10, 1930.

"I urge that the senate's consent be given in such form as not to defeat or to delay the objective of adherence.

"The sovereignty of the United States will be in no way diminished or jeopardized by such action.

"At this period in the international relationships, when every act is of moment to the future of world peace, the United States has an opportunity once more to throw its weight into the scale in favor of peace."

C. OF C. DIRECTORS WILL MEET FRIDAY

Directors of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce will hold a dinner meeting at the Medford Hotel Friday, January 18, at 6:30 p. m. It was announced this morning by B. E. Harder, president. Directors of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce will be guests of the local organization.

The purpose of the meeting is to formulate plans looking toward organization of a development committee in Jackson county. It has been suggested by the directors of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce that such a committee be formed to develop a program for Jackson county over a period of five years and it is expected that the Ashland directors will assist the local men in this important work.

It is believed that such a committee can bring about development of the many resources here and the outcome of the meeting on Friday will be of particular importance to everyone in Jackson county.

RUNAWAY TRAILER HITS TRUCK CAB

City police records today revealed what Lawrence E. Edmunds, 42, local truck driver, considers his narrowest escape from death or serious injury.

While operating a truck Monday afternoon on Crater Lake avenue, Edmunds reported to police that a trailer from a passing car came unfastened and rammed into the cab of his vehicle, barely missing him and causing damage to the truck estimated at $150.

Edmunds said the tongue of the runaway trailer grazed his body and smashed the steering wheel from his hands.

Police reports state the other car was being driven by Aunie Clarence Rock, 23, 1135 Court street.
