TIGERS POLISHING CAGING OFFENSIVE FOR CALIFORNIANS

Medford high school's cagers have been practicing hard in anticipation of the coming of the sturdy basketballers of Mt. Shasta and Dunsmuir high schools on Friday and Saturday nights. The game with Mt. Shasta Friday night will start at 8 o'clock with a preliminary at 7 o'clock. The game Saturday night is to be called at 9 o'clock preceded by a preliminary at 8 o'clock.

A game was scheduled this weekend with the strong Klamath Falls Pelicans but due to a change in their plans the Pelicans were released from the contract and are to play the University of Oregon frosh at Klamath Falls.

In past years Medford regarded games with the northern California teams as merely "warm-ups" but recently Mt. Shasta and Dunsmuir have nearly ceased to let any of their big rivals beat them. Last year the Medford Tigers had a hard time defeating the Mt. Shasta boys and practically the latter's same lineup will be in play against the Tigers Friday night.

For the past week the Tigers have been working on passing and shooting. The Tigers didn't make a large percentage of the setups allotted them in the Roseburg game last week.

In the preliminary to the Mt. Shasta-Medford game, patrons of Medford basketball will have the opportunity of witnessing some real honest-to-goodness, up and coming basketball with the Medford high school Tiger cubs tangling with the Eagle boys' team stationed at the Washington school. If the Eagle team fails to beat the Cubs Friday night, Central Point high school will endeavor to do so Saturday night in a preliminary to the Dunsmuir-Medford game.

SPORT SLANTS

It must be particularly gratifying to Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, to see his name heading the list of tennis players in the national ranking for 1934.

In the most hectic year of his tennis career, spotted with defeats and triumphs, he rose to new heights. Out of the disappointment following his hurried and futile trip abroad to join the Davis Cup team, was born a new urge to prove his worth. The second place he occupied in the rankings for the past two years would not do; he set his goal at the top.

Starting the year poorly, the Texan suffered two successive defeats at the hands of Lester Stoefer in the Bermuda and River Oaks (Houston, Tex.) singles. Frank Shields defeated him for the North Atlantic title.

Allison came back to win the Mason-Dixon doubles with George Lott as his partner and put Shields out of the running for the Virginia state title in the semi-final round.

Early in May he suffered a badly sprained ankle at the Chevy Chase club and was forced to abandon tennis for a month.

Returning to form again, he defeated Gilbert Hall in the New England title matches; John Van Ryn to win the Middle Atlantic states singles; and Berkeley Bell for the Delaware championship.

Confident that he was in condition for the international matches, he hurried by request to Wimbledon to join the other members of the United States Davis Cup team preparing to meet Australia.

Allison was keenly disappointed when B. Norris (Dick) Williams, captain of the Davis Cup team, named George Lott and Lester Stoefer for the doubles. Without even waiting to help in the practice matches, he packed his bags and returned home.

He did not publicly criticize Williams' choice for the doubles—and wisely so, in view of the fact that the combination defeated both the Australian and English teams in the Davis Cup matches—but it was natural that he should seek revenge. He felt he had been slighted and a little satisfaction in the form of a victory of two over the men chosen would at least make him feel better.

Without time to practice or even rid himself of the sea legs, he hastened from the boat to enter the tournament at Seabright, N. J. He reached the semi-final round before he was eliminated by Berkeley Bell.

He avenged that Seabright defeat by turning the tables on Bell and taking the historic Longwood Bowl. He triumphed over Frankie Parker in winning the Newport Casino tennis title.

Teaming up with John Van Ryn, he had the satisfaction of beating the Davis Cup doubles team, fresh from their international triumphs, in the Newport Casino doubles.

Allison again paired with Van Ryn in the national championships at Forest Hills and defeated Lott and Stoefer in the final round to take away their title.

As an extra measure of revenge, Allison had the pleasure of eliminating Stoefer in the quarter-finals and Sidney Wood in the semi-finals of the national singles championship matches.

In the finale of the national singles he went down to defeat before Fred Perry of England, in a stirring struggle.

Two spots in the 1934 ranking list also hold more than a little of Allison's interest. Those are No. 3 and No. 4, occupied by Lester Stoefer and George Lott, respectively.

SAMS VALLEY CAGERS WILL PLAY PROSPECT INVADERS TOMORROW

SAMS VALLEY, Jan. 17.—(Sp.)—The Sams Valley "Warriors" local high school basketball team will open the conference schedule Friday night on the home floor with Prospect furnishing the opposition. The Warriors have hung up a good record so far, having defeated Phoenix, St. Mary's, Ashland Junior High school and Medford Christian Endeavor team, but lost to Rogue River.

The team will be strengthened Friday night by the addition of Wright, rangy forward, who was ineligible the first semester. His return will help to take care of the absence of Lewis Dusenberry, speedy forward, who returned to practice just this week after an attack of pneumonia and will not likely see much, if any, action Friday night.

Starting at forward with Wright will be Lloyd Dusenberry, high scorer for the season, to date. Burie Bursson, a three-year veteran, will start at center, while the guard positions will be handled by either Smith and Norman Bursson or Gerald Fitzgerald, his will leave Dusenberry and Long, a forward and center, in reserve.

The B team, with wins over Rogue River, Ashland Junior High and St. Mary's to its credit, will tackle the Prospect B squad.

This team, although small, attempts to make it up in speed. The starting lineup will probably see Fredenburg and Smith at forwards; Lewis, center; Messer and Gresham guards, with Thomas, Straus and Bush in reserve. The town teams have scheduled a game to follow the high school games.

BOWLING

The East Side Pharmacy bowlers took the first and third games in their match with the Underwood Typewriter team in the Elks' club tourney last night. The Shell Oil Co. and Hollywood Orchard roll Friday night.

STANDING OF SONS AS AMATEURS O. K.

Coach Howard Hobson of the Southern Oregon Normal school in Ashland today announced that the Normal basketball team's amateur standing remains unimpaired.

A warning was issued earlier in the week by Aaron M. Frank, Portland, president of the amateur athletic union of the United States, for Oregon high schools, colleges, and independent teams to be on the lookout for barnstorming teams from the west and other sections who do not possess the A. A. U. traveling permits.

Hobson yesterday held a telephone conversation with Frank in Portland, and cleared up any difficulty which may have resulted from the SONN game last week with the reputedly unlicensed New York Harlemites.

Olsen's Terrible Swines, and the House of David, traveling squads who are on the Normal schedule, have been contacted, and are expected to have their A. A. U. permits in order before they play, Hobson stated.

Some are good as good on Sunday, but go off the gold standard on Monday.

A lost opportunity never finds its way back.

MRS. CODDING IS TOURNAMENT CAPTAIN

Mrs. George Coddling was re-elected chairman of the tournament committee of the women members of Rogue Valley golf course, who met at the club rooms yesterday for corered dish luncheon.

Mrs. A. P. Mansfield was elected chairman of the house committee, Mrs. Aletha Vawter was re-elected secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. F. G. Bunch and Mrs. David Wood were appointed on the handicap committee.

The group discussed plans for the coming year, and announced today that the ladies' ringer tournament is now underway, to be played until the end of February. More than 20 lady members of the club and their guests attended the meeting.

Two-Fold Measure

"This plan for economic security," the president said, "is at once a measure of prevention and a measure of alleviation.

"We pay now for the dreadful consequences of economic insecurity—and dearly.

"This plan presents a more equitable and infinitely less expensive means of meeting these costs. I strongly recommend action to attain the objectives sought in this report."

Mr. Roosevelt said federal action "is necessary to and conditioned upon the actions of the states."

"Forty-four legislatures are meeting or will meet soon," he said. "In order that the necessary state action may be taken promptly it is important that the federal government proceed speedily."

His message was accompanied by a 40,000-word report of his committee on economic security detailing ways and means of accomplishing the recommendations.

"It is my best judgment that this legislation should be brought forward with a minimum of delay," the president said.

Appeal to Sound Sense

"The detailed report of the committee sets forth a series of proposals that will appeal to the sound sense of the American people," he continued. "It has not attempted the impossible nor has it failed to exercise sound caution and consideration of all of the factors concerned: the national credit, the rights and responsibilities of states, the capacity of industry to assume financial responsibilities and the fundamental necessity of proceeding in a manner that will merit the enthusiastic support of citizens of all sorts.

"It is overwhelmingly important to avoid any danger of permanently discrediting the sound and necessary policy of federal legislation for economic security by attempting to apply it on too ambitious a scale before actual experience has provided guidance for the permanently safe direction of such efforts.

Workable Project

"The place of such a fundamental in our future civilization is too precious to be jeopardized nor by extravagant action," Mr. Roosevelt said. "It is a sound idea—a sound ideal. Most of the other advanced countries of the world have already adopted it and their experience affords the knowledge that social insurance can be made a sound and workable project."

After outlining the four major points of the proposed social program, the president said:

"With respect to unemployment compensation, I have concluded that the most practical proposal is the levy of a uniform federal payroll tax, 90 per cent of which should be allowed as an offset to employers contributing under a compulsory state unemployment compensation act. The purpose of this is to afford a requirement of a reasonably uniform character for all states co-operating with the federal government and to promote and encourage the passage of unemployment laws in the States.

States to Administer

"The 10 per cent net thus offset and we can provide the means of mitigating their results. This plan for economic security is at once a measure of prevention and a method of alleviation.

"We pay now for the dreadful consequences of economic insecurity—and dearly," Mr. Roosevelt concluded. "This plan presents a more equitable and infinitely less expensive means of meeting these costs.

"We cannot afford to neglect the plain duty before us. I strongly recommend action to attain the objectives sought in this report."

CONCERT PIANIST ASHLAND FRIDAY

ASHLAND, Jan. 17.—(Sp.)—David Campbell, noted concert pianist of Portland and the northwest, brings to music lovers of the valley a program of unusual merit when he appears at the auditorium of the Southern Oregon Normal Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Delbert Pradenburg, lyric tenor, will also be heard at this program.

Ashland is fortunate to secure the appearance of these artists, and it is expected that many lovers of music from all points in southern Oregon will be in the city Friday night.

David Campbell is a westerner, member of an Oregon pioneer family, but has received the greater part of his education during years of study in Europe, and has since made many concert tours in this country.

In speaking of Campbell, his master, Rudolph Ganz, once said, "He has a great public gift and surely will go far in the world of music."

KRUSE FLATTENS BOESCH ODD FALL

PORTLAND, Jan. 17.—(Sp.)—Nationally famous Casey Krusznian, whose plane was forced down at Ashland couldn't have done much better than the Oregon farmer who substituted for him and defeated Paul Boesch, Brooklyn grappler, here last night.

Broccoli Bob Kruse, 215, Oswego, Ore., used a wristlock and a body press to gain two falls from Boesch, 220. Boesch gained the second fall with a flying scissor.

Then in the final session he missed a double drop-kick and became entangled in the ropes and an easy prey for Kruse.

Hal Rumberg, 223, Spokane, won on a foul in the second round from Jack Washburn, 240, Boston. Al Karatek, 200, Portland, and Joe Hubka, 205, Dodge, Neb., drew in two rounds.

ROGUE RIVER PLAYS IN PHOENIX FRIDAY

The Phoenix cagers will meet the strong Rogue River five at Phoenix, Friday at 7:30 p. m. Phoenix has won three out of the four scheduled games they have played and Rogue River has won all of the conference games played so far. The game is expected to be a good one because of the fact that both teams are coming out with the determination to take home the bacon.

The line-up for Phoenix is as follows: Hill, F.; Glover, F.; Klinger, C.; Purry, G.; Newton, G.

The preliminary game will be played by the B-class boys.

Remember that "American" ends in "I-can."

COUGARS' CENTER LEADING SCORER

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 17.—(AP)—With the northern division Pacific coast conference hoop race well under way, Bob Houston, Janky center of the Washington State college quintet, had an edge today in the individual scoring, but there was a whole flock of basketweavers in spots right behind him able to grab the leadership before he sees action again.

Houston chalked up 34 points in five games, but pit-sized Wally Geaghty, Idaho guard, was just five counters behind him, holding down second place with 29 points compiled in three contests. Ralph Rogers, Washington State forward, and Willie Jones, Oregon forward, were tied for third with 26.

—if you want straight whiskey at a price anyone can pay

Kentucky has always known good food and good whiskey. That's how the little town of Crab Orchard, down in the heart of the Blue Grass country, became famous sixty years ago.

And when Americans demanded good whiskey—straight whiskey—at a popular price—Crab Orchard met these demands so satisfyingly that it's America's fastest-selling straight whiskey today.

Just try it—if you're looking for real flavor and real economy.
