Stage Sensation in Rialto Role

From the vivid pages of one of Charles Dickens' greatest books has come one of the year's finest photographs, "Great Expectations," starting a three-day run at the Rialto theatre today.

Following the rise of the poor orphan boy from his lowly, poverty-stricken childhood to the day when, through the influence of an unknown benefactor, the orphan boy has become a fine gentleman, "Great Expectations," in its picturization of the famous novel, brings to life the characters Dickens has immortalized.

Henry Hull, fresh from his sensational success on the New York stage, heads the cast, as Magwitch, the convict, whom the boy befriends and helps. Phillips Holmes as Pip, the orphan grown to man hood; Alan Hale as the giant smithy; Jane Wyatt as the heartless but beautiful Estella; Florence Reed as the half-made Miss Havisham; George Breakstone as Pip, the boy; Francis L. Sullivan, Forester Harvey and many other screen luminaries, add to the enjoyment of the film with their characterizations.

Mystery, Laughs at Roxy

Zasu Pitts comedy furnishes many pleasant interruptions to the serious business of murder-solving and romance which makes "Private Scandal," now at the Roxy theatre, such thrilling screen fare. Phillips Holmes and Mary Brian supply the love-making.

Craterian Offers Unusual Acts For Vaudeville Bill

With a group of talented entertainers heading the unit, "Happy Landings" revue comes to the Craterian theatre for a one day only engagement tomorrow.

Boasting of many unusual acts, the unit is said to be one of the outstanding stage shows on the road today and comes here with the praise of newspaper critics of other cities lauding the show as being of even better calibre than the last unit to play here, which met with widespread approval.

Heading the many acts is that of Cal Norris and his educated monkeys, "Jiggs," seen in the picture "Tarzan and His Mate" is really the star of this act although other similar comedians are also included in the act, and their many tricks and human-like antics are said to provoke uproarious laughter.

An unusual comedy ball bouncing act is that of the Alexander brothers who combine balancing with comedy. Skeeter and Ray, a favorite with audiences wherever they have played, and a headline act with Orpheum, Fanchon and Marco and other leading circuits, add to the fun with their imitable brand of nonsense.

Cantu, a Mexican magician, does his tricks with a different style from the usual methods and proves that "the hand is still quicker than the eye."

For those who like their torch singing, Meline Chorka should prove to be a revelation. This blonde edition of
