

UNLICENSED DOGS TO BE ROUNDED UP IN COMING SPRING

The county court contemplates inauguration of a systematic campaign in the coming spring for collection of dog licenses in Jackson county and to that end, has provided that the sheriff's office shall have charge of dog tax collections, outside of incorporated cities, with municipalities making the collections themselves. Under Oregon law, the cities receive 80 per cent of the dog tax collections, the county furnishes the tags, the clerical help and supplies. The cooperation of the cities has been secured.

"The collection of dog licenses was allowed to lapse last year," County Judge Earl B. Day said this morning. "But this year, the county is going after the dogs. Nothing in the way of impounding the unlicensed dog can be done until after March 1."

Impounded dogs will be under supervision of the Jackson County Humane society, and the county court recently appropriated $300 for this work. The Humane society received nothing on the 1935 budget. It was felt this was cheaper than spending $500 or so, for construction of a dog pound. Under Oregon law a dog-owning must be given time to redeem it before disposal of the animal.

The past year the county expended close to $750 in payment of claims for sheep killed by dogs and it is expected that sufficient dog license money will be turned in to take care of future sheep claims. A number of the sheep-killing dogs have been slain, and in each instance the dogs were unlicensed.

Dog license fees are $1.50 for females and $1 for males. The county clerk's office reports that to date 35 dog licenses have been taken out. Last year 176 dog licenses were issued. It is estimated that the dog population of the county is close to 2200.

SPORT SLANTS

A number of reasons have been advanced to explain the startling revival which basketball seems to be enjoying this season. In the east intercollegiate games have caught the fancy of the sports public. On two successive week-ends capacity crowds of more than 16,000 jammed Madison Square garden in New York city to witness the contests. Most eastern colleges are playing to greater numbers than ever before.

The decision to include exhibition basketball games in the 1936 Olympic program may have stimulated interest in the cage game. At least this recognition proves the same has grown to international proportions.

This year the tournament sponsored by the Amateur Athletic union will hold more than the usual interest. Heretofore the east showed only passing interest in the A. A. U. tournament, but it is very likely that the leading college team in that section will participate this year. With western, far western and southern teams taking part, the tournament promises to be truly national in scope.

It has been pretty generally conceded that the best brand of basketball has been played in the midwest. But the way the eastern teams have been drubbing midwesterners of late in the intercollegiate battles, has caused considerable surprise comment.

Wisconsin, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Drake and Indiana have fallen before eastern rivals.

New York university defeated Notre Dame decisively and followed it up a week later with a single-point victory over Kentucky, the wonder team of the south.

The far west evidently lags in basketball development, for the Stanford team which invaded the mid-west experienced a disastrous tour. If Stanford is representative of what the coast game has to offer it must be rated below the midwestern standard.

With the great new interest shown in basketball it is unfortunate that the officiating should stir up so much criticism. Lack of consistent interpretation of the rules has, in several cases of intercollegiate games, left the defeated teams disgruntled, to say the least.

Purdie defeated Wisconsin in the Big Ten opening on a foul toss in the last few seconds of play, just as New York U. topped Kentucky. In both cases the partisan fans about raised the roof in voicing their displeasure at the officials' decision.

Basketball officials have a difficult task at best, the distinction between fair and foul often being so fine that while an official may honestly see it one way the thousands in the stands—especially the partisan ones—may see it another.

In trying to popularize the court game it might be well to borrow the old football cry to "open up the game." The center pivot play, so widely used in many sections, will not give the spectators the action they demand. To have a man spotted under the basket and constantly feed the ball to him so he can shoot becomes monotonous. It is drab and slows down the action.

It is going to take speed, accuracy and plenty of stirring action to hold the new converts to basketball if the game is to secure its new-found gains.

How fine if the 40-hour week could apply to kind readers.

SENTENCE DATE FOR HIGH BROTHERS WILL BE ANNOUNCED TODAY

Dates for sentencing of George High, and his brother Robert N. (Babe) High, Ashland residents, found guilty by a jury two weeks ago of setting fire to the former Balfour Guthrie barn near Ashland, January 4, 1933, for the purpose of collecting $15,000 insurance, will be set this afternoon by Circuit Judge H. D. Norton. Time for sentencing J. B. Holland, Astoria butcher, who turned state's evidence, and admitted being present with "Babe" High and Theron (Red) Martin, when the barn was fired, will also be fixed.

The penalty attached to the crime of which the High brothers stand convicted is from three to seven years in state prison. They are at liberty on $2500 bonds. Attorney George M. Roberts has indicated an appeal to the state supreme court will be taken.

Martin, named by Holland, as the "torch" of the fire, and its actual setter, is serving a term in the Multnomah county jail at Portland and will be brought here next June, for trial, when his term expires.

Judge Norton is convalescing from a cold at his home, but notified attorneys he would be at the courthouse this afternoon to prepare the calendar for the balance of the present term of court which ends the fourth Monday in February. It is the plan of the court, to hear all jury cases at once and then proceed to a number of equity cases pending.

BOLSHEVISM, ITS MENACE FOR U. S., TOLD ACTIVISTS

Continuing his series of talks before Medford civic clubs, William Haluk, who was born in Russia and made his home in that country until 1921, impressed the members of Medford Active club at their weekly dinner meeting last night at Hotel Medford, with a description of Bolshevism and its effects upon the United States.

Mr. Haluk, illumination engineer for General Electric Co., with headquarters at Alameda, Cal., became a citizen of the United States in 1929, but before that time had become thoroughly acquainted with conditions in Russia. Although America will never become a Bolshevik nation, Mr. Haluk said, the effects of Bolshevism are noticeable to a considerable extent in this country.

Anarchy was born in Russia, according to the speaker, and is under the control of a group of leaders who would work toward the overthrow of all government. A great percentage of illiteracy in Russia in the days of the Czar was responsible for the birth and growth of this "fanatical disease," the speaker declared, pointing out with the dissection that swept the country during the World war, it was only a natural consequence that the old government was overthrown. The speaker also interestingly described the maintenance of a modern army, a supreme air force and numerous propaganda agencies by Russian leaders.

A committee was appointed for work on the forthcoming President's ball, as follows: John Niedermeyer, chairman; Chester Hubbard, Glen Fabrick, Bruce Bauer, Victor Milnes. Guests at the meeting were Aubrey Norris, George Robertson and Paul Estensgaard.

Fourth anniversary of the Medford Active club will be celebrated at the next regular meeting, which will be conducted by the following charter members: Leslie VanDoren, Darrell Huson, John Niedermeyer, Glen Fabrick, Howard Gault, Chester Hubbard, Harry Gill and Harold Larsen.

Leonard Electric Shows Newest Set General Electric

Radio fans in southern Oregon will be interested in the announcement of Morris B. Leonard that his firm, in the Holly building, is now showing the sensational new General Electric "Bandmaster" set. The new radio is a five-band, all-wave console model with extended long-wave and ultra-short-wave bands. Mr. Leonard said: "An exceptionally wide range of reception is possible with this new set, assuring virtually world-round programs, police and aircraft calls, domestic and foreign short-wave broadcasts."

Improved automatic volume control, individual bass and treble tone controls and sensitivity control are featured in this newest General Electric creation. A five-band, square airplane type dial is set in an inclined control panel in the two-tone walnut finish cabinet.

Leonard Electric will have the Bandmaster on display for a few days before delivery is made to a purchaser in this city.

The federal farm credit administration reports the collection in full of all loans made this year in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

Virginia counts on an estimated saving of $36,858 during 1935 by placing treasurers of counties on salaries instead of paying them in fees as practiced heretofore.

In the last 13 years the length of the average freight train on the railroads of the United States has increased to 46 cars from 38 in 1922.
