HIGH HOG PRICES LIKELY FOR YEAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. — (AP) — Higher hog prices during the remainder of the year and the smallest hog slaughter next summer since 1910 were predicted today by the bureau of agricultural economics.

In addition to price advances in late December and early January, "further advances are likely during the remainder of the winter season," and the level will continue high, due to the small slaughter, the bureau declared in its January report on world hog and pork prospects.

The report added that "it is probable that exports of pork and lard this year will be the smallest in many years," despite the fact that Germany showed a census of three per cent fewer hogs in December, 1934, compared with December, 1933, and Denmark showed a decrease of 10 per cent during the same period.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. — (AP) — The stock market drifted quietly today, closing with a mixture of narrow gains and losses.

Paper Tissue to Testify

There are, the prosecutors said, some more witnesses to be heard. One of them is expected to be an expert on paper to identify cheap writing paper found in Hauptmann's home as counterpart of paper used in the 14 ransom notes sent to Colonel Lindbergh after the kidnaping.

The piece of paper from Hauptmann's home was put into evidence today with Inspector John J. Lyons of the New York police on the stand.

Pope said: "I might cross-examine Koehler two or three days," but added that much depended upon the direct testimony given by the expert.

Here Thursday

WALLACE BEERY

P. T. Barnum, self-styled "Prince of Humbugs," comes back to a hearty life tomorrow at the Craterian theater, in the person of Wallace Beery, who plays the matchless showman in "The Mighty Barnum."

The screen play, which maintains the comedy mood best suited not alone to Barnum's extravagant exploits, but to Beery's most popular type of characterization as well, was written by Gene Fowler, famous biographer, and Bess Meredyth, one of Hollywood's ablest scenarists.

The story opens with Barnum's entrance into the showbusiness exactly a hundred years ago when, having acquired a few reptile menageries and an aged negress named Joice Heth, purported to be 160 years old and erstwhile nurse of the infant George Washington, he left his failing Bowery grocery, rented a livery stable and opened Barnum's American Museum.

The famous midget, General Tom Thumb and his bride, Lavinia, the Cardiff Giant, the Bearded Lady, the P.J. Mermald, the Woolly Horse and all the rest of the "natural oddities" with which Barnum staggered New York a century ago are also seen. His spurge from the grocer to the sublime with the sponsoring of the American debut of Jenny Lind, the lovely Swedish nightingale, at Castle Garden, plays a big part in the picture, with Virginia Bruce charmingly interpreting the golden-voiced Jenny.

Adolphe Menjou, Rochelle Hudson and Janet Beecher are also importantly cast.

Dickens' Picture

Plleases Audience At Rialto Theatre

One of literature's greatest novels has become one of the screen's greatest photoplays, "Great Expectations," picturization of the famous story by Charles Dickens and how at the Rialto theater, has been filmed with an eye for maintaining the character and the gist of the story as closely as possible to the original. The result is a film play of more than ordinary standard.

Following the rise of Pip, the poor orphan boy, from his boyhood to manhood, depicting his many adventures as he first meets Magwitch, escaped from the convict ship and subsequently captured; his years serving of the half-mad Miss Havisham and, as he matures into manhood—his becoming a fine gentleman and to finally meet his unknown benefactor who has supplied the wherewithal to take him from his poverty-stricken boyhood to the place of eminence he now holds. "Great Expectations" carefully builds up a suspenseful plot that holds the interest throughout.

Henry Hull, playing the role of the convict Magwitch, offers one of the most striking characterizations the screen has shown for a long time. Not only is this newcomer to the screen a master of makeup but, with a talent that should bring him many added laurels, he endows the character with a sometimes fearome, sometimes roughly tender personality that goes deeper than makeup could ever do.

George Breakstone, one of film-dom's talented youngsters, has the role of Pip, the boy and turns in a remarkable performance. As Pip, grown to manhood, Phillips Holmes has, after innumerable poor parts, been finally given a role that fits him perfectly and should go far in restoring him to the popularity he enjoyed when he made such a hit in "An American Tragedy."

Alon Hale, playing the part of Gregory, the giant blacksmith, Francis L. Sullivan as Jiggers, the lawyer, Jane Wyatt and Estella; Florence Reed as Miss Havisham and many other players are also featured in the cast.

A monkey comedian, "Jiggy" who played an important role in the jungle picture "Tarzan and His Mate," is featured with Cal Norris and his monkey movie stars, headlining the "Happy Landing" stage unit at the Craterian theater for today only.

Others in the cast of this novel presentation include the Alexander brothers, comedy ball bouncing act; Skeeter and Ray, comedy song and dance team; Cantu, the Mexican magician; Meline Chorka, torch singer; Ann Rose, acrobatic dancer; Peggy
