

BIG NAVY NEEDED BY U. S. DECLARES SENATOR M'ADOO

First Hand Information Is Gleaned On Far East Trip Convincing—Glad Japanese Dejected Treaty

By ANDRUE BARDING Associated Press Foreign Staff Rome, Jan. 24. (AP)—Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, en route home from the Far East, said today he was pleased that Japan had dejected the Washington naval treaty of 1922 "because this will enable the United States to build the navy of which she has a need."

McAdoo said he had not been in favor of the Washington naval treaty for some years because of the bonds it placed on the United States. "America," he said, "should build the strongest navy possible so as to protect herself from all aggression."

The California senator said he had formed this opinion on the basis of first hand information collected on his trip into the Far East. "If the United States constructs her navy without regard to other powers," said McAdoo, "she can carry on her program of development without fear of complications."

He ended a seven-day airplane journey from Singapore today in the best of health and said he believed every member of congress should go in for travel.

Enroute Home. He is on the way home after visiting the Philippine Islands, to which he went with three other members of the senatorial committee to prepare a report on the subject of Philippine independence.

Senator McAdoo said he thought every congressman should take a trip around the world as a matter of instruction. He declined to discuss the findings of the committee until its report is made to the senate, but commented that the visit had been extremely instructive.

His long flight from the Far East, he said, had been made without incident. He used a Catalina plane from Singapore to Calcutta and a Lockheed plane from Calcutta to Rome.

McAdoo is leaving Rome tonight for Genoa, where he will board the Rex for New York, arriving there January 31, at least 10 days ahead of his fellow committeemen.

HEARING ON PITVIEW GRAZING DISTRICT SET FOR FRIDAY BY BOARD

A hearing is scheduled for tomorrow, on the establishment of the Pittview grazing district in eastern Jackson county, before the county grazing board, composed of the county clerk and Herd Inspector J. A. Gitzner. Roughly the proposed grazing district embraces the territory between the two Butte creeks, and the Mt. Pitt county.

The establishment of the Pittview Rock grazing district in southern Jackson county is making time, due to inability of the stockmen to agree upon the number of cattle to be grazed in the area which extends from the Pacific highway to the western Klamath county boundary, and from the state line to the Old Dead Indian road.

Pittview grazing districts of stockmen is also an issue, along with the number of northern California cattle that shall graze in the district. Stockmen of the Hill and Hornbrook regions have been grazing close to 4000 head and it is now proposed that they be limited to 2000. Some of the northern California stockmen claim they have been using the range from 40 to 50 years, and any reduction is an infringement of their priority rights.

Herd Inspector Gitzner reports that the area can range 5000 head of stock, and that normally 6000 are grazed upon it.

EDSON A. CRANDALL OF EAGLE PT. DIES

Edson A. Crandall, brother of William H. Crandall, well known resident of the Eagle Point district, passed away in the city Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock after an illness of about two months. Mr. Crandall was born at Cedar Falls, Ia., June 14, 1859. He spent all of his life in Iowa and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Crandall, old time residents of Iowa.

Mr. Crandall was a harness maker by trade, which he followed until 1931, when he came to Eagle Point to be with his brother.

He leaves to mourn his loss one sister, Miss Cora Crandall of Eagle Point; three brothers: William H. Crandall of Cedar Falls, Ia., and U. E. Crandall of Van Buren, N. Y. Two nieces and two nephews: Cora Marie Crandall and Clara Eleanor Crandall, J. Edson and William Edwin Crandall, all of Eagle Point, also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Perli Funeral Home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. D. D. Randall officiating. Interment will take place in the Central Point cemetery.

Esther Bristol to Sing In Gleemen's Concert

An outstanding feature of the Gleemen's concert next Monday night will be the appearance of Esther Bristol as guest soloist. Early in the program she will appear with the group singing "Inflammatus" from Rossini's beautiful oratorio "Stabat Mater." In this the soprano carries a petition to "Remember Thy Servants when Thou Comest to the Judgment," in which prayer the men's voices later join and reach a magnificent climax of thrilling power with the soprano soaring to a sustained high C above the chorus.

Later in the program Mrs. Bristol will sing the well known aria "One Fine Day" from Madam Butterfly, a plaintive vehicle for the remarkable lyric voice of this talented soloist.

Mrs. Bristol came to southern Oregon last May from St. Joseph, Mo., her former home. She studied with Henry Gorrell in Kansas City and is all of Eagle Point, also survive.

Continuing her work here under the direction of James Stevens, in St. Joseph she was soloist with the St. Joseph Symphony, a member of the Fortnightly soloist at the First Baptist church, one of the large downtown churches, and took an active part in the musical revues of the Junior league, of which she is a member.

The Gleemen feel particularly fortunate in being able to present this talented young lady to a Medford audience, and it is the opinion of the members, all of whom are most enthusiastic about the quality of Mrs. Bristol's voice, that a treat is in store for the crowd at the high school auditorium next Monday night.

RIHACHI TAKAHIRA CALLED BY DEATH

Rihachi Takahira, a resident of Medford for the past 15 years and owner and operator of the Jewel Cafe for the past eight years, passed away at his residence, 306 North Central avenue, Wednesday at noon, after a month's illness. Rihachi was born in Japan, October 23, 1888, the son of Katsutaro Takahira and Sano Kawakami. He was aged 46 years and 3 months at his death.

He came to the United States in 1915, settling at Grants Pass, Ore., where he and his family lived for five years before coming to Medford.

His widow, Mrs. Kachiyo Takahira, will continue to operate the Jewel cafe in this city, giving the same efficient service that Mr. Takahira gave in the past.

He leaves his widow also six daughters: Mrs. George Y. Kumasawa, Albers; Mrs. Takahira and July Takahira of Medford, and Turuko Takahira, Miyoko Takahira and Shizuko Takahira, all in Japan.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Perli Funeral Home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 with Rev. W. R. Baird officiating, assisted by M. Maruyama. Sunday evening the remains will be forwarded to the Portland crematorium for cremation.

With the coming of snow after an unusually bad fire season, the Montana regional forestry service spent $100,000 to recondition fire fighting equipment.

WATSON WILL ASK HIGH COURT RULE

Briefs in the appeal to the state supreme court of Dan Watson against George L. Jantzer, in which the constitutionality of the Oregon law authorizing the foreclosure sale of property for delinquent taxes is questioned, have been completed for submission to the high court.

Watson, owner of a homestead in the Prospect district, the brief alleges, failed to pay taxes amounting to approximately $133 for a three year period from 1925 to 1928. The county court, under power invested in it by the state law sold the homestead to George L. Jantzer, a sawmill operator and leased him a certificate of sale.

Following the decree, Watson thru counsel acted to have the foreclosure sale set aside. In the circuit court, Judge H. D. Norton sustained the action of the county court, and held Jantzer to be in possession of the property.

Advertisement for Chesterfield cigarettes. Includes a large image of a man in a suit, a pack of Chesterfield cigarettes, and text: 'Just what is meant by cross-blending tobaccos...and how does it make a cigarette milder and taste better... Well, in blending you take two or more tobaccos and mix them together—a rather simple process. But cross-blending goes a step further... IN making Chesterfields we take Bright tobacco from Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida. We take Burley tobacco from Kentucky and Tennessee, and tobacco from Southern Maryland. Then in addition to these home-grown tobaccos we take tobacco grown in Turkey and Greece. We balance these mild, ripe home-grown tobaccos with the right amounts and the right kinds of aromatic Turkish. Then, instead of just mixing the tobaccos together, we blend and cross-blend them so that all the different flavors go together into one full flavor—the Chesterfield taste that so many smokers like. Cross-blending tobaccos as it is done in Chesterfields gives the cigarette a pleasing taste and aroma—they're mild and yet They Satisfy.'
