

Tigers, Indians Will Open Two-Game Basketball Series Tonight

HARD-FOUGHT TILT IS EXPECTED WHEN OLD FOES TANGLE

Burgher Quint Revamped, Strengthened for Contests — Game Tonight at 8 o'Clock, Saturday Night 9

In what promises to be one of the most exciting games of the current year, the Medford High Tigers, revamped and greatly improved, tangle with the fast-breaking Chemawa Indians tonight at 8 o'clock at the high school gym here.

In a two game series last year the two teams took one, and this year the Burghermesters are going to try to make it two straight wins, just to see what they can do under pressure.

Playing with the Redskins will be Shoulder Blade and Spotted Eagle, old favorites in Medford, where they have appeared several times. The Chemawa team, like most of their teams, is made up of short but fast men, and they employ a peculiar overhead passing attack that is hard to fathom. It gave Burgher's charges some difficulty last year, and the local squad has been practicing all week against the second string and cuts, using the overhead attack and feel that they can stop it cold tonight.

Last night a tired and travel-worn Indian team went down to defeat before the mighty Ashland squad, 37-10, but the score is no indication of the closeness of the game. The Redskins worked the ball into scoring territory with ease, but due, undoubtedly, to being tired, failed to connect with shots that would ordinarily count on the score board.

In previous games here the Chemawans have invariably proved colorful, and the Medford fans expect to see an exciting encounter tonight. To those who have not been attending games so far this year, but like basketball as a game, the assurance is offered by experts that they will not be disappointed in the fracas tonight.

Burgher has been experimenting with a new combination this week, which has worked smoothly and flashily. Earlier in the week Ettenger, long center, hurt his ankle, and Smith was moved to the leaping position. With VanDyke and Kunzman at guards, and Sears and Luman at forwards, that combination will probably see action tonight and tomorrow.

The game tonight will start at 8 o'clock, with the Saturday night struggle called for 9, to allow business men and women to attend. As considerable expense has been incurred in bringing the Chemawa team for an appearance here, it is hoped that a larger crowd will be in attendance. An additional incentive to attendance is the fact that the Indians are regarded as the best "show team" in the state.

Probable starting lineups are given: Chemawa — F. Luman, Shoulder Blade, F. Smith, Sanderville, C. Ettenger, Archambeau, G. VanDyke or Sears, Adams — G. Kunzman.

Medford Spotted Eagle — F. Luman, Shoulder Blade, F. Smith, Sanderville, C. Ettenger, Archambeau, G. VanDyke or Sears, Adams — G. Kunzman.

Canzoneri Decisions Rodak In 10 Round Boxing Lesson

By WILLIAM M. WEEKES Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The irrepressible little old man of the boxing wars, Tony Canzoneri, was in a swell spot today to sign up for another chance to regain the world lightweight championship.

The New York Italian came right into the home town of Barney Ross, owner of the title, last night and administered a thorough 10-round boxing lesson to Leo Rodak, a young Chicagoan who was being primed for a championship bout. The decision of Referee Tommy Gilmore and two judges was unanimous, and was concurred in by a great majority of the 14,331 spectators who brought $31,433.10 to the Chicago stadium.

Jim Mullen and Nate Lewis, who promoted the show—their fourth consecutive successful venture since they joined forces—were more than willing to stage a championship battle between Canzoneri and Ross in the stadium over the 15-round distance.

Canzoneri had too much of everything for Rodak, a 21-year-old graduate of the Golden Gloves, who had won 22 straight victories as a professional. He out-generated the youngster, an ultra-conservative boxer, most of the distance, and in the sixth clipped Rodak with a right to the chin that almost ended the fight. Rodak, however, hung on desperately, and carefully stayed out of trouble thereafter.

Canzoneri weighed 132 3/4 pounds, an edge of two pounds.

PETE AND TEXAN GRAPPLE DRAW IN HECTIC CONTEST

Bad Sam Lethers, Limber Texas Grappler, and Belligerent Pete Belcastro of Sacramento Slugged and Kicked at Each Other for One Hour Last Night at the Armory to End the Main Event Wrestling Match in a Draw. Plenty of Temper Brought out Plenty of Action During the Bout and Gave the Crowd of Fans a Session of Combined Clean Wrestling and "Dirty Work" as First Bad Sam and Then Belcastro Took the Offensive.

When the bell rang they were both ready for the show, having split the honors nearly evenly.

Pete, the drop-kicking Italian, showing more spark than he has for some time, proved harder to stop than Bad Sam had expected. In the first place, he was in better physical shape than when he met Lethers the first time at the armory, and the beating he received during that first tussle served to spur him into a better type of wrestling.

Although he resorted to old-fashioned haymakers, clenched fists and hair pulling time and again when the going was rough, Belcastro, 194, used more genuine holds and displayed more skill than he has here in the past. But Bad Sam's famous "rubber legs" proved too much of an obstacle. Wherever Pete went, those two legs were either there waiting for him or bouncing Bad Sam into safe corners of the arena.

Lethers was unable to crack down on his opponent with any of his usual detestable "finishes," applying only two of his favorite rolling-chair assemblers. Belcastro crawled or walked to the ropes to break both of these and retaliated with several attempts at his own masterpiece—the drop-kick, also unsuccessfully.

The tall Texan, 208, was tempted into more unorthodox maneuver than usual. He chased Belcastro through the ropes more than once with his onslaughts and also heaved his lighter opponent over the straits. The two kept Referee Ray Frisbie not a little worried and at times even implicated in their grappling.

What looked like sure defeat was turned into victory in the opener when Abe Kaplan, "Jewish King," slugged Paul Boesch of Brooklyn, drop-kicking Adams, out of an Indian deathlock and then applied a body press to win the third and deciding fall.

Flat slugging and hair pulling, interspersed unexpectedly with Boesch's clever drop-kicks marked the tussle. Kaplan took the first fall in 15 minutes with a body slam that caught Boesch unawares, but both grapplers were hanging onto their heads and stomachs during the last part of the period from the effects of each other's flails.

Mrs. Helen Willis Moody today awaited only warmer weather to resume the practice that may carry her once more to the top of the tennis world. "As soon as the weather is warm enough," said the former first lady of the courts, "I'm going to play tennis again. That may be in one week or in three—it all depends on the sunshine."

'DIZZY' USURPS BABE'S POSITION IN LIMELIGHT

By EDWARD J. NEIL Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—On the basis of 24 hectic hours, the heir apparent to the throne of baseball's most popular figure, George Herman Ruth, is none other than our old world series friend, Jerome Dean.

Not only have they middle names in common, not only do both wear tan polo coats, but the kids and the common people go for this lanky, grinning, rawboned Cardinal right hander as they do for Ruth, now ending his major league career as Dean is just getting under way.

"Dizzy" is here for the New York baseball writers' dinner Sunday night, and he's been a sensation everywhere he's gone so far. Everyone speaks to him in his hotel lobby, and he speaks right back. He's shaken a couple of thousand hands, he's autographed as many more cards and papers. He had a big night watching last night's hockey game in Madison Square Garden between the Americans and the Montreal Maroons.

First they called him out on the ice to drop the puck for a sort of ceremonial face-off. James J. Braddock, who fights Art Lasky 15 rounds in the Garden tonight, went with him. No one saw anybody but Dizzy and the crowd cheered him mightily.

"Who was that with you?" he was asked.

"Oh," said Dizzy, "some fighter." He rested his elbows on the edge of his box, grey felt hat perched on his head like a fly on a doorknob, while his manager, Frankie Frisch, explained what was going on.

"Say, I sure wish I could get down to first base half as fast as those guys," Dizzy said, referring to the hockey players.

"So do I wish you could," said Frisch, who is no hero worshipper.

ENDEAVOR QUINT WINS CLOSE TILT

In a fast, hard fought overtime period the Christian Endeavor eked out a 34-32 victory over the South Methodists at the Washington court last evening.

The South Methodists ran the score up to 14 to 4 at the end of the first quarter but the C. E. quint came back in the second quarter with a sparkling display of team-work and shots to lead at the half 20 to 18. At the end of the regular game the score stood 30 to 30. In the overtime period, Hadley Arthur dropped in the shot to put the Methodists ahead 32-30. William Oliver then sunk a swisher to tie it 32-all, and Price Shafer rolled in the winning basket as the whistle blew.

Had. Arthur was high point man with 12 points. Price Shafer was second with 11.

Next game for the C. E. will be with the C. C. C. headquarters.
