Skits from Lake—Douglas Roach, assistant storekeeper at Crater lake national park, is spending the week end in Medford having skied out from the lake. He was accompanied by L. Howard Crawford, ECW artist who is spending the winter in the park and capturing many beautiful snow scenes on canvas, according to Roach. Howard is at Klamath Falls, and will probably return to the park with Roach next Tuesday. Roach said the snow in the park, having melted during the last ten days of mild weather, has frozen over with an excellent crust for skiing. He said the snow has settled to 115 inches from a high point of the season of 146 inches, reached during the height of the recent storm. Roach also reported a depth of eight inches at Klamath Falls, but none on the west side of the Greensprings.

Inspects Oregon Caves—Al. Kottbauer, ECW inspector from Yosemite national park, where he is master mechanic, was in southern Oregon the latter part of the week on an inspection trip to Camp Oregon Caves. The inspection work is part of a program launched by Robert Fehner, national CCC commander. F. G. Whitworth, project superintendent of Camp Oregon Caves, reported that Kottbauer expressed the opinion that the trucks at Camp Oregon Caves are kept in far above the average condition, and that all equipment used at the camp is in excellent shape considering its age and use. Whitworth has employed a system in carrying for the trucks whereby drivers are awarded a pennant each week for the best cared for truck. He says the drivers accordingly take a great pride in their equipment.

By buys the hotel in which she lives and with the aid of a false mustache and beard, disguises himself as her waiter. Then, little by little, the princess warms to his charm and comes under the influence of his singing. And, although Crosby has to tend to the princess' dogs and parrot and support her profligate family, he finally succeeds in winning her but not until many hilarious complications have entered into the romance. Several new hit tunes are sung by Crosby and also by Miss Carlisle, whose lovely soprano voice was heard in "She Loves Me Not," another Crater picture.
