

NO DICTATION ON APPOINTMENTS IS EXECUTIVES WORD

a meeting of the committee would imply.
"Under no circumstances would I as your governor farm out the appointments to office to organizations, political or otherwise. I must retain myself complete freedom of action and have my appointments upon my own good judgment and my conscience."
"I request that this letter be read at the meeting of the Elnu county democratic central committee."

SALEM, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The third of Governor Charles H. Martin's original four major bills for enactment by the legislature was on the house calendar for first vote today as the Oregon legislature reconvened for the fifth week of the session. The scheduled 40-day meet ends February 22, but state adjournment was not expected at that time.
With an important feature taken out of the measure, the administration's modest control act will be voted on among 58 other bills up for final consideration in the house. The bill was amended to eliminate the power of the governor to consolidate departments, and further makes the budget control of departments discretionary rather than mandatory.

One Becomes Law
Only one of the original four has been enacted into law—the creation of an advisory planning commission. The other two bills, placing of fees and collections of various commissions into the general fund, and putting to the electorate the matter of county unit systems for public schools, have passed the house and are now in senate committee.

The house today also has the matter of prohibiting both husband and wife employed by state or municipal governments, and a measure to continue restrictions on loans made by the world war veterans state aid commission for another two years.
The senate, with only 11 bills on final passage, will vote upon the house-approved proposal for the $12,000 a year appropriation for establishment of re-employment agencies, one of the few unemployment relief measures so far to appear in the Oregon legislature.

Boy Scout Notes

Troop No. 3, by Reed Cox. Troop 3 held its regular meeting Tuesday, Feb. 5th, at the Roosevelt school. As R. W. McConnell, scoutmaster, was not present, Mr. Baker, assistant scoutmaster, was in charge of the troop. The Scouts were instructed in simple marching movements and the meaning and use of the Scout salute explained. Patrols of the troop were reorganized. Bob Lee passed the test on the Scout uniform, which completed his tenderfoot tests. Lowell Ethenon passed tests in signaling, knife and hatchet. Mr. Baker announced that at the next meeting several reels of Scout movies would be shown. Games were played, the games being "Spud" and "Swainson".
Troop No. 5, by Armine Lewis. Troop 5 held fifth meeting of the year Wednesday night at Washington school. First thing on the program was the bringing out of the colors, followed by the roll check. Study and test period came and several boys passed tests of various kinds. The troop is progressing rapidly under the new scoutmaster, Mr. Hovy. Boys are beginning to bring their dues to re-register for another year.
At 8:30 a game "Steal the Bacon" was played, after which the colors were put away, followed by the Scout oath and the troop was dismissed.
Troop No. 8, by Larry Schade, Jr. Troop 8 met Feb. 5. The colors were presented and the pledge given. V. B. Marshall took the number of good turns done by the Scouts during the week. L. D. Jones gave a talk on the National Jamboree to be held in Washington, D. C. in August. After this the compass and first aid were studied. The boys then gathered in a circle and sang songs under the leadership of Bob Walker. "Taps" was sounded and meeting adjourned.
Troop No. 16, by Irvin Doty. As the court of honor was held on Scout meeting night, most of the boys attended the court. Several boys went up for awards. Those appearing were: Ray Chapman, Kenneth Luman, Raymond Miller, Ivan Newton, Martin Northeraft and Millard Northeraft. Ivan Newton received the only Star Scout award, the third in troop 16.
The last Scout meeting was very interesting, because several tests were passed to prepare some of the boys for court of honor. The meeting was in charge of the junior assistant scoutmaster, as Mr. Laven had to leave before the meeting was over. Meeting closed with the Scout oath repeated in unison by all the scouts.
Troop No. 18, Eagle Point, Scout Executive A. O. Soderberg and Larry Schade, president of the council visited the last troop meeting, Feb. 7. Mr. Schade gave a short talk to the boys and Mr. Soderberg taught a new game.

Three boys from troop 18 went up at the court of honor on Feb. 4 for their second class badge. They were: John Woodrich, Dale Throckmorton, David Hannaford. The scouts were very glad to advance to this rank.
