Rialto Tuesday

Barbara Stanwyck, in an entirely new kind of role, and with Warren William as leading man, comes to the Rialto theatre for today and tomorrow only.

Secretly married to the attorney general, she learns on her very wedding day that her father, the governor, has been charged with bribery and her own husband has to prosecute him.

Warren William, playing the attorney general, hides a letter supposedly written by the governor soliciting the bribe, after he had pardoned a big business man who had been imprisoned for embezzlement.

The death of the financier by a revolver shot, and later the murder of an investigator in the attorney general's office, who has made the charges, makes the case look black for the governor, who is impeached by the legislature.

The role of the murdered investigator is played by Douglas Dumbrille, while Glenda Farrell has the part of his sweetheart who is arrested for the crime and undergoes the ordeal of a sensational court trial.

Both the daughter and the attorney general are called to the impeachment trial which winds up in a dramatic scene in which the murders are cleared up as well as the bribery case.
