With the conference series tied up in 30 per cent standing, the Medford high school debate squad will at-tempt to unravel things today in the final two matches with Grants Pass.

Last night, the Modford affirma-tive team, composed of Jeannetts Thatcher and Caroline Cook, lost the decision to the Ashland negative, in Ashland. This tied " the Ashland debates because of the Med-ford negative's victory over the Ash-land affirmative in the afternoon. Lucien Smith and Catherine Ford represent the Medford affirmative.

At the present, Ashland has won two and lost two: Medford lost one and won one and Ashland lost one and won one. This leaves each squad, in a tie of 50 per cent each. If the Mediord negative team defeats the Grants Pass affirmative this after-neon in that city, but registers a defeat from the opposing negative team here tonight, things will be indeed in a sad state of affairs. The decision of the conference winner in that case will rest wholly upon the shoulders of the judge. Professor James E. Carrell of the University of Oregon. He will have to decide on me.

Mrs Homer Craft entertained the bridge club Friday afternoon.
