to the circuit court judge. His salary would be set at $600 annually. Senators Strine, Zimmerman, Carney and Burke opposed the minority report.

Store Tax Introduced A second bill which has for its purpose the imposing of a graduated tax of license fees on all retail stores, thereby particularly affecting chain stores, was introduced in the senate. A similar measure was previously introduced and later defeated in the house.

The new measure, introduced by Senator Atken would hit at "mass buying" and "mass merchandising" by imposing an annual license fee on all stores graduated from $5 on one store to $350 on every store in a chain or group over 19. On each store over 10 the fee would be $100. The bill further provides for the filing of an application for the license by each store, with a fee of 50 cents set for filing each application. If the applicant operates more than one store, he would be required to pay the filing fee for each store.

Kill Party Cleansing Bill With five members absent the house just before noon killed the "party cleansing" bill—house bill 270 by Rankin—by a minority vote. The roll call showed 27 members voting for the measure and 28 against, but 31 are required for passage.

The bill provides that no holder of a remunerative federal, county, state or municipal office shall be eligible to hold any position in a political party organization from national committeeman down to precinct committeeman.

Proponents of the measure immediately announced that they would move for reconsideration with the five absent members, who were excused to attend committee meetings.

"Sequoia" Opens Craterian Run

With a mountain lion and a deer as the principal players, "Sequoia," one of the most unusual film plays ever produced starts a three day run at the Craterian theater today with Jean Parker adding the human touch. Already being mentioned as the outstanding picture of the year, "Sequoia," filmed entirely against the beautiful Sierra mountains, scenery, unfolds a strange but understandable "human" story of the friendship existing between the puma and the deer, running the scale of natural drama, romance, comedy, thrills and the rest of the essentials in every good story.

Rialto Friday

What happened to Edwin Drood in the famous mystery story which Charles Dickens had only half completed when death took him in 1870? The probable ending of this thrilling mystery tale has caused more argument than any other story of the past one hundred years. More than 120 prominent authors and playwrights are known to have tried to finish the story and 103 solutions of the mystery have appeared in printed form. The discussion became so widespread in England at one time, back in 1914, that a mock trial was held to try to determine who killed young Drood.

The answer has been cleverly worked out by four authors in the picture which comes tomorrow to the Rialto theater with Claude Rains, Douglas Montgomery and Heather Angel featured.
