MOTHERS, DAUGHTERS GROWING girls are often sufferers from female irregularities. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the vegetable tonic to give your daughters a such time. Here what Mrs. L. J. Brown of 2115 State St. Everett, Wash. said: "When I was a young girl I took from going in swimming which caused me some trouble. My system became very weak. I had weight and strength and was able to play. I had the appetite and felt tired. I improved while taking the first bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I took two bottles and enjoyed real health again and have always been well since."

STAGE REVIEW

By Dick Applegate

In one of the smoothest amateur dramatic productions it has ever been my pleasure to see, the Noel Coward play, "Hay Fever," was presented to a large and receptive audience by students of Ashland Normal school Friday and Saturday of last week.

Directed by Professor Angus Bower, the polish of the play indicated much hard work in ironing out every tiny flaw, and the group of students handling their parts like professionals.

Particularly clever in her presentation was Miss Violet Walters, as Judith Bliss, the mother of a slightly mad family. The part was a difficult one, but Miss Walters handled it beautifully. She has evidently done a great deal of dramatic work. The work of Miss Helen Edmiston, of this city, was also outstanding, as was that of Donald Darnelle, also of Medford.

The story, like all Coward plays, is light and fast. It deals with the antics of the Bliss family, mother, father, daughter and son. They each invite a week-end guest to their home, much to the displeasure of the other three members of the family.

After the arrival of the guests, the whole family ignores them, and some wildly funny situations arise. Robert Stedman, as Sandy Tyrrell, taking the role of an embarrassed young man, is swell. One can almost see him blush!

Every student in the production was well cast, all the members of the Bliss family, the week-end guests, and the maid. Much credit must also be given to the Play Production class of the school, who constructed the set. The usual threatening collapse of the walls when the doors were closing being entirely absent.

While the play was a light comedy, with no very heavy dramatic stuff, it was of the type that always pleases the audience, my favorite kind of play. It is unfortunate that it is not to be given in this city, for the clever performance was really a rare treat.

Starts Tuesday

Sixteen million Americans of all types and ages have read from cover to cover the fascinating Harold Bell Wright classic, "When A Man A Man."

The film adaptation of this masterpiece starts a three-day engagement at the Rialto theatre tomorrow with George O'Brien in the starring role.

Universal appeal is what both book and picture possess. The stereotyped version of the West as peopled by desert rats lurking through the sage brush of the dry lands is abandoned; in place is a vibrant story of modern youth involved in a vital romance.

The setting is an Arizona ranch, to which comes a mysterious easterner, short of money, obviously the gentleman, but silent on his past. He is befriended by a hardened westerner, changes from playboy to a rugged "man's man," and finds himself in the dilemma of his lifetime when he realizes that his best friend and himself are rivals for the hand of the same girl.

Before turning to writing, Harold Bell Wright knew the typical American man and woman as few others knew him. Into "When A Man A Man" he poured his rich knowledge of the West and of the conflicts and romance that arise, far from urban artificialities.

Around George O'Brien are featured Dorothy Wilson and Paul Kelly in a cast composed of Harry Woods, Jimmy Butler, Richard Carlisle, Clarence Butler and Edgar Norton.

ROSEBURG, CORVALLIS QUINTETS WILL PLAY

ROSEBURG, Ore., Feb. 25 (AP)—Arrangements for home and home games between the Roseburg and Corvallis junior high school basketball teams, both undefeated for the season, were completed today. Corvallis will play at Roseburg March 2 and the return game will be played at Corvallis March 9. Roseburg has also issued a challenge to Oregon City for a game there March 9.

Be correctly oriented in an Artlist Model by Ethelwyn B. Hoffmann.

BRITISH AGENT'S ABSORBING PICTURE

In addition to being an absorbing and passionate love drama, "British Agent," which is now playing at the Studio, with Leslie Howard and Kay Francis in the stellar roles, is of momentous and far reaching importance in its picturization of one of the most colorful and dynamic periods of the world's history.

The picture is fictionalized history. It was inspired by the novel by the internationally famous author, R. H. Bruce Lockhart.
