At Craterian

Shirley Temple, starring in "The Little Colonel" at the Craterian theater, with Lionel Barrymore, is captivating audiences with her charm and the ability which won her a special award from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences the other night. The picture closes its run tomorrow night.

For the Saturday night preview, Robert Young and Betty Furness have the romantic leads in "The Band Plays On," a story of collegiate football, with Leo Carillo, Stuart Erwin and Ted Healy also in featured roles.

Rialto Stars

With Randolph Scott and Ann Sheridan in the romantic roles and a supporting cast which includes "Chic" Sale, Kathleen Burke and Mrs. Leslie Carter among others, Zane Greys "Rocky Mountain Mystery" is at the Rialto theater for today and Saturday.

Blending romance, drama and mystery, centering about the murders committed in one of the ghost mining towns of the west, "Rocky Mountain Mystery" is a departure from the usual western story and abounds in exciting situations.

Coming Sunday

Following the announcement of Clark Gable's winning the award for the best performance of last year—that of the reporter in "It Happened One Night"—the Craterian theater will present this popular star in "After Office Hours," starting Sunday, with Constance Bennett as his feminine nemesis.

Gable's again cast as a newspaper man, but this time as the managing editor who always gets his story, though it may mean resorting to the methods of the Northwest Mounted. And again he has the chance to show the comedy ability that so marked his performance in "It Happened One Night," and more recently in "Pursuing All Others."

Constance Bennett is the socialite niece of the publisher and Gable's social secretary.

Alternating between Park Avenue, Park Row and a boat house on Long Island Sound, where a murder is committed, the story deals with the attempt of the managing editor to uproot an imminent society scandal. He uses his socialite reporter as a wedge

"Ride Him Cowboy" At Roxy Saturday

One of the strongest cases ever assembled for a western action picture will be seen in "Ride Him, Cowboy," which is coming to the Roxy Saturday.

John Wayne, former University of California football star, and now a screen player of rapidly increasing popularity, has the hero role. A husky and handsome hero of more than six feet in stature, his hard and fancy riding on "Duke, the Devil Horse," would stand out in any rodeo.

The action in the picture is fast and furious and replete with thrills and gripping suspense. There also is a beautiful romance and plenty of humorous touches.

Dramatic Scene In Picture at Studio

One of the subtle touches of human nature that "make a whole world kin," is visible in a particularly dramatic scene of "The Silver Bullet," now at the Studio, when circumstances and the treachery of a supposedly respectable citizen brand Tom Tyler, the town sheriff of Chico, as the confederate of a band of robbers who loot the local bank.

When those who a short time before were lauding Tom to the skies, as a resourceful officer of the peace, turn upon him and denounce him as a criminal, his sweetheart, Nora Kane, defies the whole world, as represented in Chico, in defense of her lover, and declares her faith in his innocence. It was noticeable when "The Silver Bullet" was given its initial showing this afternoon that this particular incident drew applause from the audience.
