Mass Weddings To Persuade Chinese Couples To Unite

SHANGHAI, March 6.—(AP)—In an attempt to bolster the declining marriage rate, Shanghai's Chinese authorities announced today a plan for conducting monthly wholesale wedding ceremonies at bargain prices.

The announcement said the mass nuptials would be solemnized in city hall square by Shanghai's progressive mayor, General Wu Teh-Chen. All legally qualified couples may participate as a fraction of the cost for individual ceremonies.

The city will present the bridal couples with their marriage certificates and silver medals bearing their names.

ARRAIGNMENTS SLATED THURSDAY MORNING IN RECENT INDICTMENTS

Plea and arraignments will be filed tomorrow morning in circuit court, on several of the indictments returned by the last grand jury, the district attorney's office reported today.

Procedure in the case of Roster P. (Red) Carroll, service station employee, will probably be deferred until a later date, the district attorney said. Carroll was indicted for involuntary manslaughter, following an auto tragedy on West Main street a month ago and is at liberty on $2500 bonds.

Julian Daily, indicted on two counts for burglary not in a dwelling, and held in the county jail, will be arraigned and plead, Glenn Stringer, indicted with Daily, is serving a term in the state prison, and Carl Tremaine, charged with the same offense is at large. The indictments grew out of a series of burglaries in this city, 18 months ago.

Myrtle Sloan, indicted on a forgery charge, is also scheduled to enter a plea tomorrow.

According to present plans, criminal cases will not be tried until early in April. Judge H. D. Norton will hold court in Josephine county next week and will resume civil cases here, March 18. The civil case docket is full until early in April.

PIANIST, VOCALIST CHARM IN RECITAL AT PIANO SHOPPE

By Mrs. E. E. Gore
Filling the recital hall of the Baldwin Shoppe to capacity last night, music-lovers of Medford and vicinity, heard David Campbell, pianist, and Delbert Fradenberg, tenor, in a joint recital that will long be remembered as outstanding.

Returning from a series of coast recitals that took them as far south as Los Angeles, it was Medford's good fortune to be able to hear them at their best.

Mr. Campbell's playing of the classical "Chromatic Fantasy and Praeludium" by Bach, was without the heaviness of erudition but conveyed a sense of being grounded in exhaustive knowledge of things musical and was throbbing with emotion, while his Chopin group had mystic fervor springing from his fiery love of beauty.

Mr. Fradenberg's encores were: "Berceuse in D flat," Chopin, "Two Waltzes" by Brahms, "Butterflies" by Rosenthal.

The concert was under the management of Carlton Jones, and Mrs. H. O. Purucker of the Baldwin Shoppe, with the cooperation of local musicians.

Dr. E. L. Packard, dean of the school of science, Oregon State college, said today only one previous discovery outranks the Otter Rock whale in importance.

MUD CONDITIONS HAMPER FARMERS

Mud conditions on farms and orchards are "the worst in 30 years," according to Harry Lofland, deputy assessor, now engaged in annual appraisals in the rural sections. Lofland's territory includes the "sticky" areas adjoining this city.

"Anybody working in the orchards now has 25 pounds of mud on each foot," says Lofland, "and pruning ladders have the same handicap. They sink down. It was so bad in one orchard I visited yesterday, I had to give it up, and will return when it dries up enough to travel."

Lofland says most of the orchardists are doing their spring work on the "lower edges" of their places, and not getting into the center.

Farmers and orchardists who have tried to move tractors and other equipment have had them mired in the mud.

NEWPORT FOSSIL IMPORTANT FIND

CORVALLIS, Ore., March 6.—(AP)—Considered one of the most important fossil whale finds ever made on the Oregon coast, a huge skull of a prehistoric whalebone whale has been recovered from the beach sands near Otter Rock, north of Newport.

Dr. E. L. Packard, dean of the school of science, Oregon State college, said today only one previous discovery outranks the Otter Rock whale in importance.

The huge fossil which, with adhering rock formation, weighs more than 700 pounds, was found three weeks ago by college geology students on a paleontology field trip.

Dr. Packard said he believes the skull of this now extinct type of whale will supply a number of "links" missing from the first specimen which he found several years ago and which was described by a lengthy scientific paper issued by the Carnegie Foundation.
