

SPEAKERS CHOSEN FOR CAMPAIGN TO CUT TRAFFIC TOLL

Lee Garlock, manager of the "Leaf's Quiet Killing" campaign for this district, today announced the names of speakers who will address schools, civic clubs and welfare organizations throughout the community.

No schedule was announced, but the speakers, all of whom are members of the Toastmasters' club which offered its services in cooperation with the Oregon State Motor association, will appear before the regular meetings of the clubs, at school assemblies and over station KMED throughout the next week or ten days. Some of the speakers have already appeared this week.

Those who will make the talks are: Dr. J. S. Johnson, 20-30 club; Dr. Robt. E. Lee, KMED, through the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce; O. E. Eden, Rotarians and Activists; Reese Robinson, Kiwanians and Lions; Larry Pennington, Jacksonville grange; Dr. B. R. Ellis, junior and senior high schools; Dr. Wm. Boney, station KMED. Other granges will probably be included, Garlock said.

C. E. Gates is chairman of the local district, and a member of the state speakers' bureau for the campaign.

to have the market value it has today, or any market value. A controversy has been created by a national panic which would utterly destroy existing values.

What you would get out of that would not be $8000 per family, but just what the Russians got. The graft possibilities would surpass those even in the state of Louisiana today.

Serious students of share-the-wealth possibilities say Long's vague generalities contain nothing new. They are substantially the same as campaign promises advanced by Hitler in Germany, Mussolini in Italy and MacDonald in Great Britain. Not one of these three has made good on his promise. The communists are the only ones who accomplished a share-the-wealth program, and the main reason they succeeded was that they had no wealth to share, only poverty.

TIRED, NERVOUS, RUN-DOWN? fight "colds" the vitamin way

Your health power shrinks in winter. You stay indoors more—get less exercise, less fresh air. The sunshine is sickly. As a result, you catch "colds" easily, you can't sleep, you feel off your feed.

Science tells us that "colds" and other winter illnesses are often the result of lack of vitamins A and D. A is your body's first line of defense against infection. D—the "sunshine" vitamin—builds body, bones and teeth.

Thanks to modern discoveries, you can obtain these two valuable vitamins throughout the winter. McKesson's has separated them from cod liver oil, and concentrated them in delicious chocolate-coated tablets.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, March 7.—(AP)—The stock market was without any noticeably inflationary thrills today, but prices generally worked higher and a better tone was in evidence throughout. The activity was small, however, and traders cautious. The close was steady to firm. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

With most dollar devaluation hopes and fears again in the discard, and the news not very exciting, there were few incentives to either buy or sell on an extensive basis. Offerings were consequently scarce and those who wanted equities usually were forced to raise their bids.

REDISTRIBUTION OF MONEY STIRS POLITICAL MINDS

dies for economic ills. Of these, Long's share the wealth program is only one.

Nor could some observers forget a disposition already evidenced in official quarters to check up on the earnings of public utilities, especially holding companies, and to crown on reconstruction corporation loans to railroads whose executives received salaries considered excessive.

Distribution of wealth already had the support of some of President Roosevelt's most influential supporters. One, notably, was Senator Norris, Nebraska independent, who has reiterated his demand for a progressive inheritance tax to take from very wealthy families a large share of their estates.

Others favor different plans. Some advance Dr. P. E. Townsend's $200 a month old-age pension program as the means of redistributing wealth. Some believe the goal would be achieved by a compulsory 30-hour work week for all labor.

Long's program, one of the most publicized, would limit a man's capital to $6,000,000 and his annual income to $1,000,000.

None of these had the favor of the administration, though one of ITRA's basic goals was to increase the earnings of the worker, the buying power of the masses. Also, there have been more or less official indications that unless congress exceeds the budget, a tax will not be recommended for the present.

But those looking to the 1936 election foresee perhaps a mounting emphasis on the wealth-distribution issue, especially if the Louisiana "Kingfish" takes the stump.

were dead and more than a dozen painfully injured.

The dead were: Joseph Empey, an electrician, St. George.

Gall Nicholson, Salt Lake City, Empey's son-in-law.

Joseph Kitterman, Salt Lake City, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alsop, Mrs. Alsop was general manager of the Crownhead Petroleum company which was drilling the well.

William Maloney, St. George.

Miss Leah Cottam, daughter of Herbert Cottam of St. George.

Mrs. Joseph Snow, wife of a prominent St. George attorney and former state legislator.

C. M. Flickinger, oil driller in charge of the shooting.

Ellis J. Pickett gave a graphic account of the tragedy. With Mrs. Pickett he was watching the operations from his automobile.

"When the first charge was exploded, Mrs. Pickett became nervous," he said. "I backed my car away another 60 feet from the well. The second charge was sent down and it exploded before reaching the bottom of the well. The force of the blast ripped the top from my car."

After the explosion, Pickett said he rushed toward the well and picked up two men and rushed them to St. George for treatment. Soon a stream of cars began carrying tragic cargoes to the city. Emergency quarters were established and doctors and nurses summoned to care for the wounded. Many were badly burned.

Among those known to be injured were: A man known as "Swede" Larson, St. George.

Bert Corington, a service station operator here.

Mrs. Rosemond Snow, daughter of the dead woman.

If Admiral Demestichos carries out his threat of bombing Piraeus, the Parthenon and other archaeological treasures would be in danger.

The government declared itself confident of its ability to repel such an attack but advisers indicated residents of Piraeus and Athens were highly alarmed.

Despite the threatened bombardment of Athens the American archaeological expeditions decided to continue excavations around the acropolis and at Corinth. This had a re-

2-YEAR EXTENSION OF NRA URGED BY DONALD RICHBERG

It was Richberg's first appearance before a congressional committee as a representative of the President.

Among his 17 suggestions was one to permit "proponents of voluntary codes" . . . to withdraw their consent from codes so modified (by the President) as to be unacceptable to them.

Eighteen senators were grouped around the witness' seat as he made his statement.

He paused occasionally in the reading of his statement to answer questions.

PORTLAND FIRES ACCUSED POLICE

Two policemen, accused of having stolen cigarettes, candy and other articles from a store where they were investigating a robbery, had been dismissed from the service today.

The two policemen, M. E. Nelson and R. C. Moulton, were fired by Mayor Carson. Two newboys reported the store had been robbed, and Nelson and Moulton came to investigate. One of the newboys, George Campau, 16, said Nelson offered him cigarettes from the place "on the insurance company," and had him place several cartons of cigarettes and boxes of candy in the police prowl car.
