ELKS FIGHT CARD WILL BE CLIMAX CCC ELIMINATION

Tonight's Show Pits Survivors of Two Months' Tourney—Main Event Carries Interest of District

TONIGHT'S CARD First Bout Serafinaki, 136, Oregon Caves, vs. Sinder, 136, Applegate.

Second Bout Moore, 147, Indian Creek, vs. Michalowski, 141, Oregon Caves.

Third Bout Myerhofer, 156, Spring Flat, vs. Logan, 163, Carberry.

Fourth Bout Williams, 169, Indian Creek, vs. Necasso, 170, Spring Flat.

Fifth Bout De Shields, 165, Oak Knoll, vs. Thomas, 174, Bradford.

Main Event Liner, 135, Indian Creek, vs. Wilson, 136, Hill.

Two months of sensational glove-throwing will be climaxed tonight when the final card of the CCC tournament is staged at the Elks' temple in Medford.

Fighters from all four corners of the district will be here to trade wallops in what may well be the greatest boxing card Medford has seen in years.

Main Event Has Class Liner, 135-pound flash of Indian Creek, and Wilson, 136, of Hill, will meet in the four-round main event that has been brewing for nearly two years.

Wind Interferes With Golf Match Although it was too windy to hold the two-ball foursome tournament that had been planned, women members of Rogue Valley golf club met at the course yesterday for a very enjoyable luncheon.

Wheat Marketing Hearing Slated WASHINGTON, March 7.—(AP)—A hearing on the proposed marketing agreement for the disposal of the north Pacific wheat surplus will be held in Portland, Ore. (Multnomah hotel) March 12.

Under plans of the agricultural adjustment administration a portion of the wheat surplus will be moved from the Pacific northwest into the drought stricken area of North and South Dakota, Wyoming and eastern Montana at special rates granted by the rail carriers.

San Francisco, March 7.—(AP)—Clearing weather for California was the prediction today of the weather bureau, after yesterday's storm that brought rain or snow to northern California, Oregon and Washington.

High winds and heavy bursts of rains hampered traffic and did some damage in parts of northern California last night.

WRESTLING RING DARK AS COURTESY TO ELKS To enable fight fans to attend the Elks' smoker tonight, in which the championship of the Medford CCC district will be decided, there will be no wrestling matches at the armory.

Promoter Mack Lillard is at work, however, lining up a new assortment of grip and grunt men for a card next Thursday night.

Billiard enthusiasts of this city will have the opportunity of seeing one of the outstanding billiard experts of the world in a free exhibition tonight, when James Caras, through the cooperation of Brown's Billiard parlors here, and the National Billiard association, gives free instructions and demonstrations beginning at 8 p. m., at Brown's.

A special invitation is extended to lady enthusiasts, as well as men. Caras is considered one of the most daring shot-makers in the game, and considerable interest has attended each of his exhibitions on his present tour.

He has been the eastern section titlist, runner-up for the world title, and has held many other championships, as well as having defeated most of the top-notch players in the field.

Caras will devote two hours to free exhibition, meeting all comers, and will devote one of the hours to teaching billiard fundamentals.

Life's Purpose. To the Editor: Of late there appears on our news front page a picture of Mellon, in his ripe old age. And I think as I gaze at the blank staring face Where are the joys of winning life's race? For surely if wealth be the object of life, Assuring a freedom from penury and strife, Our Mellons should acquire a radiant face. A crowning result of a victorious race. I gaze and I think. No it cannot be so To each possibility the answer seems no— It may be that wealth is other than gold. A reward of selfless service, so I am told. Had indeed if you and I, at the end of the road. Find we have placed our hope in what we could hoard. No greater mistake could we possibly make Than to depend in the end on what we could take. It is what we can give, not what we can take. That in our old age will happiness make. And as in the great Stone Face legend What we contemplate will manifest in end. In life's short span We do what we can. And if in the main We strive to attain Advance and preferment Peace, joy and contentment For others more needy than we. We're assured what the harvest will be. The immutable Law we've obeyed Preparation and provision has made For entry into "Joy of our Lord." Surely goodness and mercy shall follow us all the days of our life and we dwell in the house of the Lord forever. Here and now. JOSEPH B. WEBSTER. Phoenix, Ore., March 6. HEAVY SNOWFALL ON HIGHER LEVELS The peculiar mixture of weather that has prevailed this week continued today, after a steady snowfall early this morning covered the valley. Although it melted too fast to be measured, the snow was registered as .07 of an inch precipitation.

In the mountains the weather bureau reported that snow fell to depths of nine inches at Sexton's Hot Springs at Shasta, but only four inches in the Siskiyou, much of this having fallen earlier in the week. The forecast was for rain tonight and Friday.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—(AP)—Clearing weather for California was the prediction today of the weather bureau, after yesterday's storm that brought rain or snow to northern California, Oregon and Washington.

High winds and heavy bursts of rains hampered traffic and did some damage in parts of northern California last night.

NORTH ALL-STAR QUINTET NAMED CORVALLIS, Ore., March 7.—(AP)—Coaches selecting the northern division coast conference all-star basketball team were unanimous in naming Bob Galer of University of Washington and Wally Palmberg of Oregon State as forwards and George Hubbard of Oregon State a guard.

The coaches, at a meeting here, named Willie Jones of University of Oregon as center, while W. Geraghty of Idaho and Clyde Wagner of University of Washington received the same number of votes for the other guard position. Earl Conkling of Oregon State college and Bishop of University of Washington received scattered votes.

Art Taffe, sports publicity director of Oregon State college, conducted the vote.
