Calendar for Girls Club Promises Many Interesting Activities

The Girls' Community club calendar for the week includes many activities of interest for young women. All classes are free of charge and all girls desiring to take advantage of the club's facilities are invited to attend the various groups.

Mrs. E. E. Gore, supervisor of the Monday night music class, announces that new music has been received for the orchestra and a large attendance is desired for the Monday night rehearsal. This orchestra, under the direct leadership of Dorothy Gore and Alice Holmbeck, has progressed so rapidly that it will soon be ready for its first public appearance. It is composed entirely of young girls who love music and who appreciate the opportunity of playing together under the direction of capable volunteer leaders. The group meets each Monday evening at 7:30 at the club house. The membership is still open.

The club is very proud of its basketball team that meets Monday evenings at the girls' gym in the high school, according to the leaders. Under the efficient coaching of Mrs. Myra Russell, the girls have made a name for themselves over southern Oregon by their high percentage of winning games. The class will continue as long as it receives challenges from other teams.

The Wednesday evening drama class that is now studying the presentation of radio plays, is anxious for new members, according to its leader, Mrs. E. A. Bartram. The class is planning on a short program to be presented over KMED and more girls are needed to complete the program. Mrs. Bartram would be glad to have any girl interested phone her or just come to the club house Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Thursday evening is donated to the study for beginners of contract bridge and four tables are in play each week under the direction of Mrs. O. A. Eden. She is assisted by Mrs. Stanley Jones and Mrs. Lawrence Pennington. The girls are very enthusiastic and a full attendance for five weeks clearly shows how much the girls appreciate Mrs. Eden's services.

Women's organizations using the club rooms for their regular meetings include the Madrigal club, Wednesday Study club and the Post-Delphinians. The board of directors meets at 10:30 a. m. and is compelled to refuse other requests because of conflicting meeting days. The Girls' Community club is a beneficiary of the Community Chest.

The outstanding attractions will be the Madrigal club, newly formed women's chorus, and the Klubs from Ashland. These along with other entertainers which is to be provided will make a wonderful party. All are urged to attend.

The following article, written by Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., national commander of the American Legion and entitled "With Your Help We Will Win," was taken from the American Legion Auxiliary Bulletin for March and says in part:

"The Auxiliary ever has been and ever will be a strong line of support for the American Legion. You have been a tower of strength. Our objectives are common. We face the same problems, confront the same foes. In this Legion year we are fighting side by side for big things; every one is worth fighting for. We have a splendid program of action for 1935.

"Americanism is ever a primary activity of Legionnaires. We are determined to defend our country against all foes whether they bore from within or strike from the outside. To protect against the foe from within, we have launched a nationwide crusade to rekindle the flame of patriotism throughout the land so as a united nation we shall rise to sweep from our land all of those alien influences which seek to undermine the foundations of our government. To protect us against an outside foe we have preached the doctrine of an adequate defense, until, public and official conscience has been aroused to the point where important action has been taken to improve our common defense.

"We stand as champions of our Constitution and the rights of freedom of speech, of religion, and of equality it guarantees to all citizens. We hold that freedom ends where treason begins."

The Auxiliary will hold a rummage sale, Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23. Old clothes and miscellaneous articles should be saved for this event.

The organization of a Young Men's Vocational club for Medford was announced yesterday by a committee of prominent citizens. The committee sponsoring the club is composed of Mayor George Porter, B. E. Harder, J. C. Mann, Robert Ruhl, Judge E. B. Day and Alfred S. V. Carpenter.

A great deal of preparatory work has been done and many meetings of business and professional men have been held during the past few weeks with the result that the idea of forming a Young Men's Vocational club in Medford has met with general approval.

The purpose of the organization is to instruct and consult with young men in Medford in order that they shall be given an insight into the various business and professions operating in the city.

Sixty business and professional men have volunteered their services to the sponsoring committee and from time to time groups of young men will visit the various business houses to obtain first hand information relative to their conduct. It is felt by the committee that many young men are at a loss to know the business or profession they would like to make their life work, and it is believed that by taking the vocational courses that maybe they will become interested in a certain line of endeavor.

The Young Men's Vocational club idea has been carried out in many sections of the United States and has been found exceptionally beneficial.

An administrative committee composed of Frank Hull, Dr. C. H. Paske, Dr. W. F. Roney and O. E. Eden has been formed to work out the details incidental to placing the plan in operation. In its contact with young men the committee has decided that merchandising, both retail and wholesale, commercial law, banking and advertising will be given first consideration. The engineers of the city have volunteered to give the young men classes in engineering in all its phases.

The formation of such a club in Medford will bring a twofold benefit to the young men who join. First, the opportunity to learn the intimate details of the various types of business operating in this city, and second, to make the acquaintance of business men to whom they feel they could go for advice and in whose suggestions they would have confidence in recommending a future career. The committee in charge has found in its contact with young men that many do not know the type of business they would like to enter. Many young men need advice from experienced business men as to how they may properly capitalize their talents and ability.

Membership in the Young Men's Vocational club is limited to those between the ages of 17 and 25. No other requirement is needed and no expense is involved. A member of the committee will be available at the Chamber of Commerce daily commencing tomorrow (Monday) from 1 p. m. until 5 in the evening and all young men are urged to register and to obtain the necessary information relative to exactly what the Young Men's Vocational club intends to accomplish.

This new movement has received the unanimous support of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce and other organizations in the city. The interest of young men in the community is all that is now needed, and, inasmuch as they will be given the benefits of the experience of business men, it is hoped that there will be no shortage of registrations.

"There are many young men in our community who have not yet made up their minds what their life work shall be," stated Mr. Hull yesterday, "and the sponsoring committee believes that the club will be the means of assisting these young men in determining what permanent vocation they would like to take up."

The committee, however, wishes to point out that the club is in no way an employment bureau. The classes to be conducted are purely educational and no young man joining them must expect to receive employment. That is not the purpose of the club. It is designed purely to give young men an idea of the various types of business being conducted in Medford and no promise is offered by anyone taking part in the movement that employment will be given as a result.

When the first classes are organized a complete list of the names of business and professional men taking part will be announced.

All vetch seed coming into Oregon from the states of Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Virginia carry a certificate evidencing that said vetch seed had been fumigated, using 12 ounces of sodium cyanide per 100 cubic feet of space.

This weevil has been very destructive in the above mentioned states and if allowed to become established in Oregon would place a great handicap on our vetch seed growers.
