

LIONS CLUB AND FIREMAN LAUNCH DRIVE FOR TOYS

Formulate Plans for Securing Christmas Toys Now — Makers of Alpine Milk Will Extend Assistance

Carroll Hays, president of the Lions club of this city, announced today that the Lions, Lady Lions and Medford firemen have inaugurated a plan whereby, with the cooperation of the public, kiddies in Medford and vicinity without toys next Christmas will be supplied with an abundance of dolls and other toys. Last year's efforts on the part of the Lions club and firemen to supply the children with toys showed the necessity for a greater supply this year and the present campaign has been launched to meet the situation next holiday season. Broken toys were repaired by the fire laddies last year and new ones made and painted, but the work took too much time and money. Through the new simple plan the situation will be vastly improved this year.

The Nestle Milk corporation, packers of Alpine Milk, an Oregon product, shipped in wooden cartons from the Timber Products company of Medford, has a premium plan whereby coupons on each can may be redeemed for toys. The plan of the Lions is just this; Medford people, when they purchase "Alpine" milk, the brand put up by the Nestle company are asked to save the coupons. Boxes will be established in all the Medford grocery stores, and the coupons may be placed there by the public. By Christmas time there will be enough to get a large supply of new toys to add to the ones made by the firemen.

W. A. Gates, of Gates and Lydard, has this to say on the subject: "Save your Alpine milk labels, and the Lions will use them to buy toys for the poor children at Christmas time. Alpine is good milk, and the boxes in which it is packed are made in Medford. Your cooperation means this: You give employment to local labor, you get milk from Oregon farms, you get the finest milk for yourself, and besides all that you bring Christmas cheer to the poor children of your community—and it costs you nothing extra."

The statement made by Mr. Gates is typical of that expressed by local business men. Fire Chief Elliott states, "We are only too happy to cooperate. For several years we have been making, repairing and distributing toys, but the burden sometimes becomes heavy, and the plan sponsored by the Lions is an excellent one—it will mean one of the happiest Christmas seasons ever had by many unfortunate Medford children."

Milk labels are such an unimportant thing in the lives of most people that the great advantages of the plan are apt to be overlooked unless the Medford public stops to consider the splendid results possible. Once the move gains momentum, the results are sure to prove gratifying.

PROWLERS' FATHER FILES NEW CHARGE

PORTLAND, Ore., March 20.—(AP)—Charges a manslaughter today confronted Paul Vandenburg, who yesterday was exonerated by a coroner's jury for the slaying of Vernon Weaver, 17, shot to death as a prowler.

Vandenburg said prowlers had stolen several articles from his home. He saw Weaver in his back yard last Thursday night, commanded him to halt and fired when the youth ran. The coroner's jury termed the slaying "justifiable homicide."

L. H. Weaver, father of the dead boy, filed a manslaughter complaint late yesterday. Vandenburg was released on his own recognizance.

Medford Boxes for Alpine Milk

An interesting angle of the Lions Club and Medford Firemen Christmas toy campaign here in conjunction with the premium offer on Alpine Milk by the Nestle Milk Products company, is the fact that this corporation has purchased box shooks for the shipping of Alpine milk from the Timber Products company of Medford to an amount in the neighborhood of a third of a million dollars. These tremendous purchases were made over a period of nine years.

By making their purchases at the local box factory, the makers of Alpine Milk have contributed a great deal towards the industrial development of this city, as the huge purchases which have been made during the past nine years have been responsible for the employment of a large number of men.

MAGIC SHOW WILL BRING FUNDS FOR HIGH SCHOOL BAND

With a live African lion and a company of magicians and comedians in Medford, people here will have something unusual to think about. Virgil and his full company will give a complete evening of entertainment in person on the stage at the High school auditorium, Monday, March 25, under auspices of the Medford high school.

Not only are the patrons promised "more thrills and chills than a five ring circus" but there is an equal amount of fun and comedy of the real hilarious, side-splitting variety. Virgil's "Honest Boy" and his "Fun with Fire-crackers" have won for him not only the applause of hundreds of audiences but fame among magicians as the outstanding funster in the magic profession.

Chan with his mysterious ducks contributes to the merriment while Julie shows her artistry in her "Painting with Fabrics." A complete public address system is carried by the company as well as special music, lights and scenery.

Perhaps the greatest of all of Virgil's thousand tricks and illusions is his noted "Human Saw Mill" in which he uses a 30-inch motor driven buzz saw which revolves at the rate of 3000 revolutions a minute. After sawing lumber with the saw he straps a lady to the same machine and visibly plunges the saw through her body while the bare skin is in full view of the audience.

The "spirit paintings," so-called, as produced by Virgil share honors with his "Burning a Man Alive" and the "Hindu Basket Mystery." The entire list of effects are new and he performs them exactly the same as he did in the large theaters of the world.

The money of the local high school will derive from this show will go towards purchasing new uniforms before departure of the band for the state tournament in Corvallis.

SWALLOWS ARRIVE ON SCHEDULE FOR VISIT AT MISSION

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif., March 20.—(AP)—Nature enacted one of its most mysterious dramas Tuesday with the return of thousands of swallows to San Capistrano mission, a St. Joseph's day arrival which for years has never varied a day at the historic structure.

As the swallows arrived an exodus of an equal number of sparrows occurred in another inexplicable prank of nature. The swallows, coming from some unknown place over the Pacific, took nesting places about the mission as the sparrows began their search elsewhere for summer residences. Generally the sparrows resist the invasion, but the swallows thus far always have been winners in the struggle for the possession of the mission walls.

Tuesday's on-time arrival was witnessed by the Rev. A. J. Hutchinson, mission pastor, who reported five scouts representing the route surveying the situation and then rejoin the flying birds over the sea, apparently to announce all was well.

If tradition is maintained the swallows will vanish into the western sky on San Juan day, October 23, to make a departure which likewise never has varied a day. The sparrows move in when the swallows move out.

erton, Wash., so that the Medford men stationed in the navy yards there will have some sort of base out of which to work.

It is an established fact that when Medford people are away from home they invariably give the home city a big play in their conversations, so the starting of the chamber branch would be only logical since Bob Thurman, Pat Shaw, Cap Runnels and Bert Nichols, all of this city, are serving on the U. S. S. West Virginia now lying in the Bremerton yards.

According to word received here recently from Thurman, they will be there until April 26th, at which time they leave for San Francisco to join in the navy maneuvers for the summer. The maneuvers will carry them to Hawaii and Alaska. Thurman stated. He added that The Mail Tribune was received with avid interest, being perused so thoroughly by the Medford contingent that it finally becomes threadbare through much handling.

SHELL STAFF TO HEAR PROMOTION PLANS FOR 1935

Tonight at the parish hall in this city, 100 Shell employees in the Medford area will be guests of E. N. Stevenson, district manager of the Shell company, with headquarters at Eugene, at a meeting which will feature a new and novel presentation of Shell's 1935 advertising plans. Fred Johnson, Medford manager for the company, will act as toastmaster and among the visiting Shell officials for this special advertising session will be G. M. Campbell of Seattle.

By use of sound pictures and a three-act play, the audience will be taken through the Shell refinery, where Super-Shell gasoline is produced, right on to the service station.

It will be forcefully brought out during these three acts the magnitude of Shell's advertising activity, the largest in the company's history. Shell personnel were chosen for the play. Those taking part were Miss Josephine Patterson, Charles S. Garvin, A. E. Jepson and M. L. Woolley, all of Seattle; Rudy Gault and G. M. Campbell of Portland.

R. G. Landis, representing Shell's advertising staff in San Francisco, will give an interesting talk on the scope of Shell's advertising for 1935.
